Night the First.

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY.

TO THE RIGHT HON. ARTHUR ONSLOW, ESQ. SPEAKER OF THE HOUSE OF COMMONS.

TIRED Nature's sweet restorer, balmy Sleep ! He, like the world, his ready visit pays Where Fortune sunlies; the wretched he forsakes : Swift on his downy pinion flies from woe, And lights on lids unsulied with a tear.

From short (as usurl) and disturb'd repose I wake: how happy they who wake no more ! Yet that were vain, if dreams infest the grave. I wake, emerging from a sea of dreams Tumultuous; where my wreck'd desponding thought, From wave to wave of funcied misery, At random drove, her helm of reason lost. Though now restored, 'iis only change of pain : (A bitter change !) severer for severe: The day too short for my distress; and night, Even in the zenith of her dark domain, Is sunshine to the color of my fate.

Night, sable goddess! from her ebon throne, In rayless majesty, now stretches forth Her leaden sceptre o'er a slumbering world. Silence, how dead, and darkness, how profound ! Nor eye nor listening ear an object finds : Creation sleeps. "Tis as the general pulse Of life stood still, and nature made a pause; An awful pause! prophetic of her end. And let her prophecy be soon fulfill'd: Fate ! drop the curtain; I can lose no more.

NIGHT I.

Silence and Darkness ! solemn sisters ! twins From ancient Night, who nurse the tender thought To reason, and on reason build resolve, (That column of true majesty in man.) Assist me : I will thank you in the grave; The grave, your kingdom. There this frame shall fall A victim sacred to your dreary shrine. But what are ye ?——

Thou, who didst put to flight Primeval Silence, when the morning stars, Exulting, shouted o'er the rising ball : O Thou, whose word from solid darkness struck That spark, the sun ; strike wisdom from my soul ; My soul, which flies to Thee, her trust, her treasure, As misers to their gold, while others rest. Through this opaque of nature, and of soul, This double night, transmit one pitying ray, To lighten and to cheer. Oh, lead my mind, (A mind that fain would wander from its woe.) Lead it through various scenes of life and death; And from each scene the noblest truths inspire. Nor less inspire my conduct than my song : Teach my best reason reason; my best will Teach rectitude; and fix my firm resolve, Wisdom to wed, and pay her long arrear: Nor let the phial of thy vengeance, pour'd On this devoted head, be pour'd in vain.

The bell strikes one. We take no note of time But from its loss. To give it then a tongue Is wise in man. As if an Angel spoke, I feel the solemn sound. If heard aright It is the knell of my departed hours: Where are they? With the years beyond the flood. It is the signal that demands despatch : How much is to be done ! my hopes and fears Start up alarn'd, and o'er life's narrow verge Look down—on what ? a fathomless abyss; A dread eternity ! how surely mine ! And can eternity belong to me, Poor pensioner on the bounties of an hour ?

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY.

How poor, how rich, how abject, how august, How complicate, how wonderful is man ! How passing wonder HE who made him such ! Who centred in our make such strange extremes From different natures marvellously mix'd. Connexion exquisite of distant worlds ! Distinguish'd link in being's endless chain ! Midway from nothing to the Deity ! A beam etherial, sullied and absorb'd ! Though sullied and dishonor'd, still divine ! Dim miniature of greatness absolute ! An heir of glory ! a frail child of dust ! Helpless immortal ! insect infinite ! A worm ! a god ! I tremble at myself, And in myself am lost! At home a stranger, Thought wanders up and down, surprised, aghast, And wondering at her own: how reason reels! Oh, what a miracle to man is man. Triumphantly distress'd ! what joy, what dread ! Alternately transported, and alarm'd! What can preserve my life ? or what destroy ? An angel's arm can't snatch me from the grave; Legions of angels can't confine me there.

'Tis past conjecture; all things rise in proof. While o'er my limbs sleep's soft dominion spreads. What though my soul fantastic measures trod O'er fairy fields; or mourn'd along the gloon Of pathless woods; or, down the craggy steep Hurl'd headlong, swam with pain the mantled pool ; Or scaled the cliff; or danced on hollow winds, With antic shapes, wild natives of the brain ? Her ceaseless flight, though devious, speaks her na-Of subtler essence than the trodden clod ; fture Active, aerial, towering, unconfined, Unfetter'd with her gross companion's fall. Even silent night proclaims my soul immortal: Even silent night proclaims eternal day. For human weal, Heaven husbands all events : Dull sleep instructs, nor sport vain dreams in vain.

Why then their loss deplore, that are not lost ?-

NIGHT I.

Why wanders wretched thought their tombs around, In infidel distress ? are angels there ? Slumbers, raked up in dust, etherial fire.

They live ! they gready live a life on earth Unkindled, unconceived; and from an eye Of tenderness let heavenly pity fall On me, more justly number'd with the dead. This is the desert, this the solitude : How populous, how vital is the grave ! This is creation's melancholy vault, The vale funereal, the sad cypress gloom; The fand of apparitions, empty shades; All, all on earth is shadow; all beyond Is substance; the reverse is Folly's creed : How solid all, where change shall be no more !

This is the bud of being, the dim dawn, The twilight of our day, the vestibule: Life's theatre as yet is shut, and death, Strong death, alone can heave the massy bar, This gross impediment of clay ramove, And make us, embryos of existence, free. From real life, but little more remote Is he, not yet a candidate for light. The future embryo shunhering in his sire. Embryos we must be, till we burst the shell, Yon anabient azure shell, and spring to life, The lite of gods, oh transport! and of man.

Yet man, fool man ! here buries all his thoughts; Inters celestial hopes without one sigh. Prisoner of earth, and pent beneath the moon, Here pinions all his wishes: wing'd by Heaven To fly at infinite; and reach it there, Where seraphs gather immortality, On life's fair tree, fast by the throne of God. What golden joys ambrosial clustering glow In mrs full beam, and ripen for the just, Where momentary ages are no more ! Where time, and pain, and chance, and death expire ! And is it in the flight of threescore years, To push eternity from human thought.

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY,

And smother souls immortal in the dust ? A soul immortal, spending all her fires, Wasting her strength in strenuous idleness, Thrown into tunnit, raptured, or alarm'd, At aught this scene can theraten or indulge, Resembles ocean into tempest wrought, To wart a feather, or to drown a fiv.

Where fails this consure 2 It of erwhelms myself: How was my heart incrusted by the world ! Oh, how self-fetter'd was my grov'ling soul ! How, like a worn, was I wrapp'd round and round In silken hought, which repute Fancy spun, Till darken'd Reason lay quite clouded o'er, With soft conceit, of endless comfort here, Nor yet put forth her wings to reach the skies !

Night visions may befriend (as sung above :) Our waking dreams are fatal. How I dream'd Of things impossible ! (Could sleep do more ?) Of joys perpetual in perpetual change ! Of stable pleasures on the tossing wave ! Eternal sunshine in the storms of life ! How richly were my noontide trances hung With gorgeous tapestries of pictured joys ! Joy behind joy, in endless perspective ! Till at death's toll, whose restless iron tongue Calls daily for his millions at a meal, Starting I woke, and found myself undone. Where's now my frenzy's pompous furniture ? The cobweb'd cottage, with its ragged wall Of mouldering mud, is royalty to me ! The spider's most attenuated thread Is cord, is calle, to man's tender tie On earthly bliss; it breaks at every breeze.

Could you, so rich in rapture, fear an end; That ghastly thought would drink up all your joy, And quite unparadise the realms of light. Safe are you lodged above these rolling spheres;

NIGHT 1.

The baleful influence of whose giddy dance Sheds sad vicissitude on all beneath. Here teems with revolutions every hour; And rarely for the better: or the best. More mortal than the common births of fate. Each moment has its sickle, emulous, Of Time's enormous scythe, whose ample sweep Strikes empires from the root: each moment plays His little weapon in the narrower sphere Of sweet domestic comfort, and cuts down The fairest bloom of sublunary bliss.

Bliss ! sublunary bliss !—proud words and vain ; Implicit treason to divine decree ! A bold invasion of the rights of Heaven ! I clasp'd the phantoms, and I found them air. Oh, had I weigh'd it ere my fond embrace, What darts of agony had miss'd my heart !

Death ! great proprietor of all ! 'tis thine To tread out empire, and to quench the stars. The sun himself by thy permission shines; And, one day, thou shalt pluck him from his sphere. Amid such mighty plunder, why exhaust Thy partial quiver on a mark so mean ? Why thy peculiar rancour wreak'd on me ? Insatiate archer ! could not one suffice ? Thy shaft flew thrice ; and thrice my peace was slain; And thrice, ere thrice yon moon had fill'd her horn. O Cynthia! why so pale ? Dost thou lament Thy wretched neighbor ? grieve to see thy wheel Of ceaseless change outwhirl'd in human life ? How wanes my borrow'd bliss! From fortune's smile, Precarious courtesy ! not virtue's sure, Self-given, solar ray of sound delight.

In every varied posture, place, and hour, How widow'd every thought of every joy ? Thought, busy thought! too busy for my peace ! Through the dark postern of time long elapsed, Led sofly, by the stillness of the night, Led like a murderer, (and such it proves!) Strays (wretched rover!) o'er the pleasing past;

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY.

In quest of wretchedness perversely strays; And finds all desert now; and meets the ghosts Of my departed joys, a numerons train ! I rue the riches of my former fate : Sweet comfort's biasted clusters I lament : I tremble at the blessings once so dear; And every pleasure pains me to the heart. Yet why complain ? or why complain for one ! Hangs out the sun his lustre but for me, The single man ? Are angels all beside ? I mourn for millions; 'tis the common lot; In this shape, or in that, has fate entail'd The mother's throes on all of woman born, ~ Not more the children, than sure heirs of pain.

War, famine, pest, volcano, storm, and fire, Intestine broils, oppression with her heart Wrapp'd up in triple brass, besiege mankind. God's image, disinherited of day, Here, plunged in mines, forgets a sun was made. There, beings deathless as their haughty lord, Are hammer'd to the galling oar for life : And plough the winter's wave, and reap despair. Some, for hard masters, broken under arms, In battle lopp'd away, with half their limbs, Beg bitter bread through realms their valour saved. If so the tyrant, or his minion, doom. Want, and incurable disease, (fell pair !) On hopeless multitudes remorseless seize At once; and make a refuge of the grave. How groaning hospitals eject their dead ! What numbers groan for sad admission there ! What numbers, once in fortune's lap high-fed, Solicit the cold hand of charity ! To shock us more, solicit it in vain ! Ye silken sons of pleasure ! since in pains You rue more modish visits, visit here, And breathe from your debauch : give, and reduce Surfeit's dominion o'er you. But so great Your impudence, you blush at what is right. Happy, did sorrow seize on such alone.

NIGHT I.

Not prudence can defend, or virtue save : Disease invades the chastest temperance ; And punishment the guiltless ; and alarm. Through thickest shades, pursues the fond of peace. Man's caution often into dauger turns. And, his guard falling, crushes him to death. Not Happiness itself makes good her name : Our very wishes give us not our wish. How distant off the thing we dote on most From that for which we dote, felicity ! The smoothest course of nature has its pains; And truest friends, through error, wound our rest. Without misfortune, what calamities ! And what hostilities, without a foe ! Nor are foes wanting to the best on earth. But endless is the list of human ills. And sighs might sooner fail than cause to sigh.

A part how small of the terraqueous globe Is tenanted by man, the rest a waste, Rocks, deserts, frozen seas, and burning sands; Wild haunts of monsters, poisons, stings, and death. Such is earth's melancholy map! But, far More sad! this earth is a true map of man. So bounded are its hanghty lord's delights To woe's wide empire; where deep troubles toss, Loud sorrows how, envenoun'd passions bite Ravenous calamities our vitals seize, And threatening fate wide opens to devour.

What then am I, who sorrow for myself ? In age, in infancy, from others' aid Is all our hope; to teach us to be kind. That nature's first, last lesson to mankind: The selfsh heart deserves the pain it feels. More generous sorrow, while it sinks, exalts; And conscious virtue nuitigates the pang. Nor virtue, more than prudence, bids me give Swoln thought a second channel: who divide, They weaken too, the torrent of their grief. Take then, O World I thy much indebted tear: How sod a sight is human happiness,

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY.

To those whose thought can pierce beyond an hour ! O thou ! whate'er thou art, whose heart exults ! Wouldst thou I should congratulate thy fate ? I know thou wouldst; thy pride demands it from me. Let thy pride pardon what thy nature needs, The salutary censure of a friend. Thou happy wretch! by blindneess thou art bless'd; By dotage dandled to perpetual smiles. Know, smiler! at thy peril thou art pleased: Thy pleasure is the promise of thy pain. Misfortune, like a creditor severe, But rises in demand for her tdiny; She makes a scourge of past prosperity, To sting thee more, and double thy distress.

LORENZO, Fortune makes her court to thee: Thy fond heart dances, while the Siren sings. Dear is thy welfare : think me not unkind ; I would not damp, but to secure, thy joys, Think not that fear is sacred to the storm : Stand on thy guard against the smiles of fate. Is Heaven tremendous in its frowns? Most sure: And in its favors formidable too: Its favors here are trials, not rewards; A call to duty, not discharge from care; And should alarm us full as much as woes; Awake us to their cause and consequence; O'er our scann'd conduct give a jealous eye, And make us tremble, weigh'd with our desert : Awe nature's tumult, and chastise her joys, Lest, while we clasp, we kill them: nay, invert To worse than simple misery their charms. Revolted joys, like foes in civil war, Like bosom friendships to resentment sour'd, With rage envenom'd rise against our peace. Beware what earth calls happiness : beware All joys, but joys that never can expire. Who builds on less than an immortal base, Fond as he seems, condemns his joys to death.

Mine died with thee, PHILANDER! thy last sigh Dissolved the charm: the disenchanted earth Lost all her lustre. Where her glittering towers ? Her golden mountains where ? all darken'd down To naked waste ; a dreary vale of tears : The great magician's dead! Thou poor, pale piece Of outcast earth in darkness! what a change From yesterday! Thy darling hope so near, (Long-labor'd prize !) oh, how ambition flush'd Thy glowing cheek ! Ambition, truly great, Of virtuous praise. Death's subtle seed within (Sly, treacherous miner !) working in the dark, Smiled at thy well concerted scheme, and beckon'd The worm to riot on that rose so red, Unfadd ere it fell; one moment's prey !

Man's foresight is conditionally wise. LORENZO ! wisdom into folly turns Oft, the first instant; its idea fair To laboring thought is born. How dim our eye ! The present moment terninates our sight; Clouds, thick as those on doomsday, drown the next: We penetrate, we prophesy in vain. Time is dealt out by particles; and each, Ere mingled with the streaming sands of life, By fate's inviolable oath is sworn Deep silence, "where eternity begins."

By nature's law, what may be may be now: Thore's no prerogative in human hours. In human hearts what bolder thought can rise Than man's presumption on to-morrow's dawn? Where is to-morrow'? In another world. For numbers this is certain; the reverse Is sure to none: and yet on this perhaps, This peradventure, infamous for lies, As on a rock of adamant, we build Our mountain hopes; spin out eternal schemes, As d, big with life's futurities, expire.

Not even PHILANDER had bespoke his shroud; Nor had he cause ; a warning was denied ; How many fall as sudden, not as safe ; As sudden, though for years admonish'd home.

ON LIFE, DEATH, AND IMMORTALITY.

Of human ills, the last extreme beware : Beware, LORENZO ! a slow sudden death. How dreadful that deliberate surprise ! Be wise to-day ; 'tis madness to defer ; Next day the fatal precedent will plend ; Thus on, till wisdom is push'd out of life Procrastination is the thief of time ; Year after year it steals, till all are fled, And to the mercies of a moment leaves The vast concerns of an eternal scene. If not so frequent, this is stranger still.

Of man's miraculous mistakes, this bears The palm, "that all men are about to live," For ever on the brink of being born. All pay themselves the compliment to think They shall one day not drivel : and their pride, On this reversion, takes up ready praise; At least, their own; their future selves applauds. How excellent that life they ne'er will lead; Time lodged in their own hands is folly's vails; That lodged in fate's to wisdom they consign; The thing they can't but purpose they postpone: "Tis not in folly not to scorn a fool: And scarce in human wisdom to do more. All promise is poor dilatory man, And that through every stage: when young, indeed, In full content we sometimes nobly rest, Unanxious for ourselves; and only wish, As duteous sons, our fathers were more wise. At thirty, man suspects himself a fool; Knows it at forty, and reform + his plan ; At fifty, chides his inf mous delay, Pushes his prudent purpose to resolve ; In all the magnanimity of thought Resolves, and re-resolves ; then dies the same. And why? Because he thinks himself immortal. All men think all men mortal, but themselves ; Themselves, when some alarming shock of fate Strikes thro' their wounded hearts the sudden dread :

NIGHT I.

But their hearts wounded, like the wounded air, Soon close; where pass'd the shaft, no trace is found. As from the wing no scar the sky retains; The perted wave no furrow from the keel; So dies in human hearts the thought of death : Even with the tender tear which Nature sheds O'er those we love, we drop it in their grave. Can I forget PHILANDER? That were strange ! O my full heart!—But should I give it vent, The longest night, though longer far would fail, And the lark listen to my midnight song.

The sprightly lark's shrill matin wakes the morn : Grief's sharpest thorn hard pressing on my breast. I strive, with wakeful melody, to cheer The sullen gloom, sweet Philomel! like thee, And call the stars to listen : every star Is deaf to mine, enamor'd of thy lay. Yet be not vain: there are who thine excel. And charm through distant ages : wrapp'd in shade. Prisoner of darkness ! to the silent hours, How often 1 repeat their rage divine. To lull my griefs, and steal my heart from woe ! I roll their raptures, but not catch their fire. Dark, though not blind, like thee, Mæonides; Or, Milton ! thee; ah ! could I reach your strain ! Or his, who made Mæonides our own. Man too he sung: immortal man I sing: Oft bursts my song beyond the bound of life; What now, but immortality, can please ? Oh, had he press'd his theme, pursued the track Which opens out of darkness into day ! Oh, had he, mounted on his wing of fire, Soar'd where I sink, and sung immortal man! How had it bless'd mankind, and rescued me!

Night the Second.

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

"WHEN the cock crew, he wept;"-smote by that eye, Which looks on me, on all: that Power, who bids This midnight sentinel, with clarion shrill, (Emblem of that which shall awake the dead,) Rouse souls from slumber into thoughts of Heaven. Shall I too weep ? Where then is fortitude ? And, fortitude abandon'd, where is man ? I know the terms on which he sees the light: He that is born is listed ; life is war Eternal war with woe. Who bears it best. Deserves it least .- On other themes I'll dwell. LORENZO ! let me turn my thoughts on thee ; And thine, on themes may profit : profit there, Where most thy need: themes, too, the genuine growth Of dear PHILANDER's dust. He, thus, though dead, May still befriend .- What themes ? Time's wondrous Death, friendship, and PHILANDER's final scene. [price, So could I touch these themes as might obtain Thine ear, nor leave thy heart quite disengaged, The good deed would delight me : half impress On my dark cloud an Iris ; and from grief Call glory .- Dost thou mourn PHILANDER's fate ? I know, thou sayst it : says thy life the same ? He mourns the dead who lives as they desire. Where is that thrift, that avarice of TIME, (O glorious avarice !) thought of death inspires, As rumor'd robberies endear our gold ? O Time ! than gold more sacred ! more a load Than lead to fools ; and fools reputed wise. That moment granted man without account ? What years are squander'd, wisdom's debt unpaid? Our wealth in days, all due to that discharge.

NIGHT II.

Haste, haste, he lies in wait, he's at the door, Insidious death ! should his strong hand arrest, No composition sets the prisoner free. Eternity's inexorable chain Fast binds ; and vengeance claims the full arrear.

How late I shudder'd on the brink ! how late Life call'd for her last refuge in despair ! That time is mine, O MEAD ! to thee I owe; Fain would I pay thee with eternity. But ill my genus answers my desire; My sickly song is mortal past thy cure. Accept the will :--that dies not with my strain.

For what calls thy disease, LORENZO? not For Esculapian, but for moral aid. Thon think'st it folly to be wise too soon. Youth is not rich in time, it may be poor; Part with it as with money, sparing; pay No moment, but in purchase of its worth; And what its worth, ask death-beds; they can tell. Part with it as with life, reluctant; big With holy hope of nobler time to come; Time higher aim'd, still nearer the great mark Of men and angels; virtue more divine.

Is this our duty, wisdom, glory, gain ? (These Heaven benign in vital union binds,) And sport we like the natives of the bough, When vernal suns inspire ? Anusement reigns Man's great demand ; to triffe is to live : And is it then a triffe too to die ?

Thou sayst I preach, LORENZO ! "Vis confess'd. What if, for once, I preach thee quite awake ? Who wants amusement In the fixine of battle ? Is it not treason to the soul immortal, Her foes in arms, eternity the prize ? Will toys amuse when medicines cannot cure ? When spirits ebb, when life's enchanting scenes Their lustre lose, and lessen in our sight, As lands, and clies with their glittering spires, To the poor shatter'd bark, by sudden storm Thrown off to sea, and soon to perish there ?

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

Will toys amuse? No: thrones will then be toys, And earth and skies seem dust upon the scale,

Redeem we time ?- Its loss we dearly buy, What pleads LORENZO for his high-prized sports? He pleads time's numerons blanks ; he loudly pleads The straw-like trifles on life's common stream. From whom those blanks and trifles but from thee ? No blank, no trifle, nature made or meant. Virtue, or purposed virtue, still be thine : This cancels thy complaint at once; this leaves In act no trifle, and no blank in time. This greatens, fills, immortalizes all; This, the bless'd art of turning all to gold: This, the good heart's prerogative, to raise A royal tribute from the poorest hours: Immense revenue ! every moment pays. If nothing more than purpose is thy power, Thy purpose firm is equal to the deed ; Who does the best his circumstance allows Does well, acts nobly : angels could no more. Our outward act, indeed, admits restraint : 'Tis not in things o'er thought to domineer. [Heaven. Guard well thy thought; our thoughts are heard in On all important Time, through every age, Tho' much and warm the wise have urged; the man Is yet unborn who duly weighs an hour. "l've lost a day"-the prince who nobly cried. Had been an emperor without his crown Of Rome ? say, rather, lord of human race : He spoke, as if deputed by mankind. So should all speak: so reason speaks in all: From the soft whispers of that God in man, Why fly to folly, why to frenzy fly, For rescue from the blessing we possess ? Time the supreme !- Time is eternity : Pregnant with all eternity can give ; Pregnant with all that makes archangels smile. Who murders time, he crushes in the birth A power etherial, only not adored. Ah! how unjust to nature and himself.

NIGHT II.

Is thoughtless, thankless, inconsistent man ! Like children babbling nonsense in their sports, We censure nature for a span too short: That span too short, we tax as tedious too; Torture invention, all expedients tire, To lash the lingering moments into speed, And whirl us (happy riddance !) from ourselves. Art. brainless art! our furious charioteer (For nature's voice, unstifled would recall,) Drives headlong towards the precipice of death; Death, most our dread; death, thus more dreadful Oh, what a riddle of absurdity ! [made: Leisure is pain ; takes off our chariot wheels : How heavily we drag the load of life ! Bless'd leisure is our curse : like that of Cain, It makes us wander; wander earth around To fly that tyrant, thought. As Atlas groan'd The world beneath, we groan beneath an hour. We cry for mercy to the next amusement: The next amusement mortgages our fields ; Slight inconvenience ! prisons hardly frown, From hateful time if prisons set us free. Yet when death kindly tenders us relief, We call him cruel ; years to moments shrink, Ages to years. The telescope is turn'd. To man's false optics (from his folly false) Time, in advance, behind him hides his wings, And seems to creep, decrepit with his age; Behold him when pass'd by; what then is seen But his broad pinions swifter than the winds ? And all mankind, in contradiction strong, Rueful, aghast! cry out on his career.

Leave to thy fees these errors and these ills; To nature just, their cause and cure explore. Nor short Heaven's bounty, boundless our expense: No niggard, nature; men are prodigals. We waste, not use our time; we breathe, not live. Time wasted is existence, used is life: And hare existence, man, to live ordain'd, Wrings, and oppresses with enormous weight.

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

And why? since time was given for use, not waste, Enjoin'd to fly; with tempest, tide, and stars To keep his speed, nor ever wait for man. Time's use was doom'd a ple Isure : waste, a pain; That man might feel his error, if unseen, And, feeling, fly to labor for his cure; Not, blundering, split on idleness for ease. Life's cares are comforts : such by Heaven design'd; He that has none must make them or be wretched. Cares are employments; and without employ The soul is on a ruck; the rack of rest, To souls most adverse; action all their joy.

Here then, the riddle mark'd above unfolds: Then time turns torment when must turns a fool. We rave, we wrestle with great nature's plan; We thwart the Deity; and 'is decreed. Who thwart his will shall contradict their own. Hence our unnatural quarrels with ourselves; Our thoughts at ennity; our bo-om broils: We push time from us, and we wish him back; Lavish of lustruns, and yet fond of life; Life we think long, and short; death seek, and shun; Body and soul, like peevish man and wife, United jar, and yet are loth to part.

Oh the dark days of vanity ' while here, How tasteless ! and how terrible when gone Gone ? they ne'er go ; when past, they haunt us still : The spirit walks of every day deceased ; And smiles an angel, or a fury frowns. Nor death, nor life delight us. If time past, And time possess'd both pain us, what can please ? That which the Deity to please ordin'd, Time used. The man who consecrates his hours By vigorous effort, and an honest aim. At once he draws the sting of life and death : He walks with nature ; and her paths are peace.

Our error's cause and cure are seen : see next Time's nature, origin, importance, speed ; And thy great gain from urging his career.— All-sensual man, because untouch'd, unseen,

NIGHT II.

He looks on time as nothing. Nothing else Is truly man's; 'tis fortune's. Time's a god. Hast thou ne'er heard of time's omnipotence ? For, or against, what wonders can he do ! And will; to stand blank neuter he disdains. Not on those terms was 'Time (heaven's stranger !) On his important embassy to man. Isent LORENZO! no : on the long destined hour. From everlasting ages growing ripe, That memorable hour of wondrous birth, When the DREAD SIRE, on emanation bent, And big with nature, rising in his might Call'd forth creation, (for then Time was born,) By Godhead streaming through a thousand worlds : Not on those terms, from the great days of heaven. From old eternity's mysterious orb, Was Time cut off, and cast beneath the skies: The skies, which watch him in his new abode, Measuring his motions by revolving spheres, That horologe machinery divine. fplay, Hours, days, and months, and years, his children, Like numerous wings, around him as he flies : Or rather, as unequal plumes they shape His ample pinions, swift as darted flame, To gain his goal, to reach his ancient rest. And join anew Eternity his sire : In his immutability to nest, When worlds, that count his circles now unhinged. (Fate the loud signal sounding,) headlong rush To timeless night and chaos, whence they rose. Why spur the speedy ? Why with levities

Now-wing thy short, short day's too rapid flight? Know'st thou, or what thou dost, or what is done? Man flies from time, and time from man; too soon In sad divorce this double flight must end: And then, where are we? where, LORENZO? then Thy sports? thy pomps? — I grant thee in a state Not unambitious; in the ruffled shroud, Thy Parian tomb's triumphant arch beneath, Has death his fopperies? Then well may life

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

Put on her plume, and in her rainbow shine. Ye well array'd ! ye lilies of our land ! Ye lilies male ! who neither toil, nor spin ; (As sister lilies might;) if not so wise As Solomon, more sumptuous to the sight! Ye delicate ; who nothing can support, Yourselves most insupportable ! for whom The winter rose must blow, the sun put on A brighter heam in Leo; silky-soft Favonius! breathe still softer, or be chid; And other worlds send odours, sauce, and song, And robes, and notions, framed in foreign looms ! O ye LORENZOS of our age ! who deem One moment unamused a misery Not made for feeble man! who call aloud For every bauble drivel'd o'er by sense ; For rattles and conceits of every cast, For change of follies and relays of joy, To drag you patient throught the tedious length Of a short winter's day-say, sages ! say, Wit's oracles ! say, dreamers of gay dreams ! How will you weather an eternal night, Where such expedients fail ?

O treacherous conscience ! while she seems to sleep On rose and myrtle, lull'd with syren song ! While she seems, nodding o'er her charge, to drop On headlong appetite the slacken'd rein, And give us up to licence, unrecall'd, Unmark'd ;--see, from behind her secret stand, The sly informer minutes every fault, And her dread diary with horror fills, Not the gross act alone employs her pen : She reconnoitres fancy's airy band, A watchful foe ! the formidable spy, Listening o'er-hears the whispers of our camp Our dawning purposes of heart explores. And steals our embryos of iniquity. As all-rapacious usurers conceal Their doomsday-book from all-consuming heirs ; Thus, with indulgence most severe, she treats

NIGHT IL.

Us spendthrifts of inestimable time; Unnoted, notes each moment misapplied; In leaves more durable than leaves of brass Writes our whole history: which death shall read In every pale delinquent's private ear; And judgment publish; publish to more worlds Than this; and endless age in groans resound. LORENZO, such that sleeper in thy breast! Such is her slumber; and her vengeance such, For slighted counsel; such thy future peace! And think'st thou still thou canst be wise too soon 3

But why on time so lavish is my song ? On this great theme kind Nature keeps a school To teach her sons herself; each night we die. Each morn are born anew : each day a life ! And shall we kill each day ? If trifling kills, Sure vice must butcher. Oh, what heaps of slain Cry out for vengeance on us! Time destroy'd Is suicide, where more than blood is spilt. Time flies, death urges, knells call, Heaven invites, Hell threatens : all exerts ! in effort, all ; More than creation labours ! labours more ? And is there in creation what, amidst This tumult universal, wing'd despatch, And ardent energy, supinely yawns ?-----Man sleeps; and man alone; and man, whose fate, Fate irreversible, entire, extreme, Endless, hair-hung, breeze-shaken, o'er the gulf A moment trembles; drops! and man, for whom All else is in alarm ! man, the sole cause Of this surrounding storm ! and yet he sleeps, As the storm rock'd to rest .- Throw years away ! Throw empires, and be blameless. Moments seize : Heaven's on the wing : a moment we may wish. When worlds want wealth to buy. Bid day stand Bid him drive back his car, and reimport [still: This period past, regive the given hour. LORENZO, more than miracles we want : LORENZO-Oh, for yesterday to come !

Such is the language of the man awake;

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

His ardour such, for what oppresses thee. And is his ardour vain, Lorexzo? No; That more than miracle the gods indulge: To-day is yesterday return'd; return'd Full power'd to cancel, expiate, raise, adorn, And reinstate us on the rock of peace. Let it not share its predecessor's fate; Nor like its elder sisters, die a fool. Shall it evaporate in fume? fly off Fuliginous, and stain us deeper still ? Shall we be poorer for the plenty pour'd ? More wretched for the clemencies of Heaven ?

Where shall I find him ? Angels! tell me where. You know him; he is near you : point him out : Shall I see glories beaming from his brow ? Or trace his footsteps by the rising flowers ? Your golden wings, now hovering o'er him, shed Protection ; now, are waving in applause To that blessed son of foresight ! lord of fate ! That awful independent on To-morrow ! Whose work is done; who triumphs in the past; Whose vesterdays look backwards with a smile: Nor, like the Parthian, wound him as they fly; That common, but opprobrious lot ! past hours, If not by guilt, yet wound us by their flight, If folly bounds our prospect by the grave. All feeling of futurity benumb'd: All godlike passion for eternals quench'd: All relish of realities expired; Renounced all correspondence with the skies; Our freedom chain'd; quite wingless our desire; In sense dark prison'd all that ought to soar : Prone to the centre; crawling in the dust; Dismounted every great and glorious aim : Imbruted every faculty divine ; Heart-buried in the rubbish of the world. The world, that gulf of souls, immortal souls, Souls elevate, angelic, wing'd with fire To reach the distant skies, and triumph there On thrones, which shall not mourn their masters changed,

NIGHT II.

Though we from earth ; etherial, they that fell. Such veneration due, O man to man.

Who venerate themselves the world despise. For what, gay friend! is this escutcheon'd world, Which hangs out Deartn in one eternal night! A night, that glooms us in the noontide ray, And wraps our thought, at banquets, in the shroud. Life's little stage is a small eminence, Inch-high the grave above, that home of man, Where dwells the multitude: we gaze around; We read their monuments; we sigh; and while We sigh, we sink; and are what we deplored; Lamenting, or lamented, all our lot!

Is death at distance ? No: he has been on thee; And given sure earnest of his final blow. Those hours that lately smiled, where are they now ? Pallid to thought, and ghastly ! drown'd, all drown'd In that great deep, which nothing disembogues ! And, dying, they bequeath'd thee small renown. The rest are on the wing : how fleet their flight ! Already has the fatal train took fire : A moment, and the world's blown up to thee; The sun is darkness, and the stars are dust.

'This greatly wise to talk with our past hours; And ask them, what report they bore to heaven; And how they might have borne more welcome news. Their answers form what men experience call; if wisdom's friend, her best; if not, worst foe. Oh, reconcile them! Kind experience cries, "There's nothing here but what as nothing weighs. The more our joy, the more we know it van; And by success are tutor'd to despair." Nor is it only thus, but must be so. Who knows not this, though gray, is still a child. Loose then from earth the grasp of fond desire, Weigh anchor, and some happire clime explore.

Art thou so moor'd thou canst not disengage, Nor give thy thoughts a ply to future scenes? Since, by life's passing breath, blown up from earth, Light, as the summer's dust, we take in air

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

A moment's giddy flight, and fall again; Join the dull mass, increase the trodden soil, And sleep, till earth herself shall be no more : Since then (as emmets, their small world o'erthrown) We sore amazed from out earth's ruins crawl. And rise to fate extreme of foul or fair. As man's own choice (controller of the skies!) As man's despotic will, perhaps one hour (Oh, how omnipotent is time!) decrees; Should not each warning give a strong alarm ? Warning, far less than that of bosom torn From bosom, bleeding o'er the sacred dead ! Should not each dial strike us as we pass, Portentous, as the written wall, which struck. O'er midnight bowls, the proud Assyrian pale, Erewhile high flush'd with insolence and wine ? Like that, the dial speaks; and points to thee, LORENZO ! loth to break thy banquet up : "O man, thy kingdom is departing from thee; And, while it lasts, is emptier than my shade." Its silent language such : nor need'st thou call Thy Magi, to decipher what it means. Know, like the Median, fate is in thy walls: Dostask, How ? Whence ? Belshazzarlike, amazed ? Man's make encloses the sure seeds of death: Life feeds the murderer : ingrate ! he thrives On her own meal, and then his nurse devours.

But here, LOREXZO, the delnsion lies; That solar shadow, as it measures life, It life resembles too: life speeds away From point to point, though seening to stand still, The cunning fugitive is swift by stealth: Too subtle is the movement to he seen; Yet soon nan's hour is up, and we are gone. Warnings point out our danger; gnomons, time: As these are useless when the sun is set, So those, but when more glorious reason shines. Reason should judge in all; in reason's eye, That sedentary shadow travels hard. But such our gravitation to the wrong,

NIGHT II.

So prone our hearts to whisper what we wish, "Its later with the wise than he's aware. A WILMINGTON goes slower than the sun : And all mankind mistake their time of day; Even age itselt. Fresh hopes are hourly sown In furrow'd brows. To gentle life's descent We shat our eyes, and think it is a plain. We take fair days in winter for the spring; And turn our blessings into bane. Since oft Man must compute that age he cannot feel, He scarce believes he's older for his years. Thus, at life's latest eve, we keep in store One disappointment our of a promised hour.

On this, or similar, PHILANDER! thon, Whose mind was moral as the preacher's tongue; And strong to wield all science worth the name; How often we talk'd down the summer's sun, And cool'd our passions by the breezy stream! How often thaw'd and shorten'd winter's eve, By conflict kind, that struck out latent ruth, Best found, so sought; to the recluse more coy! Thoughts disentungle passing o'er the lip; Clean runs the thread; if not, 'tis thrown away, Or kept to the up nonsense for a song; Song, fashionably fruitless; such as stains The funcy, and unhallow'd passion fres; Chinning her saints to Cytherea's fame.

Know'st thou, Lokexizo! what a friend contains? A's bees mix'd nectar draw from fragrant flowers, So men from FRIENDERP wisdom and delight; Twins tied by nature, if they part they die. Hast thou no friend to set thy mind abroach? Good sense will stagnate: thoughts shut up want air, And spoil, like bales unopen'd to the sun. Had thought been all, sweet speech had been denied; Speech, thought's canal! speech, thought's criterion too!

Thought in the mine may come forth gold or dross; When coin'd in words, we know its real worth.

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP,

If sterling, store it for thy future use ; 'Twill buy thee benefit! perhaps, renown. Thought, too, deliver'd is the more possess'd: Teaching, we learn : and, giving, we retain The births of intellect; when dumb, forgot. Speech ventilates our intellectual fire : Speech burnishes our mental magazine ; Brightens, for ornament; and whets, for use. What numbers, sheath'd in erudition, lie, Plunged to the hilts in venerable tomes, And rusted in : who might have borne an edge. And play'd a sprightly beam, if born to speech ; If born blest heirs of half their mother's tongue ! 'Tis thought's exchange; which, like th' alternate Of waves conflicting, breaks the learned scum, [push And defecates the student's standing pool. In contemplation is his proud resource ? "Tis poor, as proud, by converse unsustain'd. Rude thought runs wild in contemplation's field: Converse, the manege, breaks it to the bit Of due restraint; and emulation's spur Gives graceful energy, by rivals awed. 'Tis converse qualifies for solitude, As exercise, for salutary rest. By that untutor'd, contemplation raves And nature's fool by wisdom's is outdone.

Wisdom, though richer than Peruvian mines And sweeter than the sweet ambrosial hive, What is she, but the means of happiness ? That unobtain'd, than folly more a fool. A melancholy fool, without her bells. Friendship, the means of wisdom, richly gives The precious end which makes our wisdom wise. Nature, in zeal for human amity, Denies or damps an undivided joy. Joy is an import; joy is an exchange; Joy fies monopolists: it calls for two; Rich fruit! Heaven-planted ! never pluck'd by one, Needful auxiliars are our friends, to give To social man true relish of himself,

Full on ourselves, descending in a line, Pleasure's bright beam is feeble in delight; Delight intense is taken by rebound; Reverberated pleasures fire the breast.

Celestial Happiness, whene'er she stoops To visit earth, one shrine the goddess finds, And one alone, to make her sweet amends For absent heaven--the bosom of a friend; Where heart meets heart, reciprocally soft, Each other's pillow to repose divine. Beware the counterfeit : in passion's flame Hearts melt: but melt like ice, soon harder froze. True love strikes root in reason ; passion's foe : Virtue alone entenders us for life : I wrong her much-entenders us for ever. Of Friendship's fairest fruits, the fruit most fair Is virtue kindling at a rival fire, And, emulously rapid in her race. O the soft ennity ! endearing strife ! This carries friendship to her noontide point And gives the rivet of eternity.

From friendship, which outlives my former themes, Glorious survivor of old time and death ! From friendship, thus, that flower of heavenly seed, The wise extract earth's most Hyblean bliss, Superlor wisdom, crown'd with smilling joy.

But for whom blossoms this Elysian flower ? Abroad they find, who cherish it at home. LORENCO ! pardon what my love extorts ; An honest love, and not afraid to frown. Though choice of folly fasten on the great, None clings more obstinate, than fancy fond That sacred friendship is their easy prey ; Caught by the wafture of a golden lure, Or fascination of a high-horn smile. Their smiles the great and the coquette throw out For others' hearts, tenacious of their own ; And we no less of ours, when such the bait. Ye fortune's cofferers ! ye powers of wealth ! Can gold gain friendship ? Impudence of hope !

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

As well mere man an angel might beget. LOVE, and lOVE only, is the loan for lOVE. LOREXED ! pride repress; nor hope to find A friend, but what has found a friend in thee. All like the purchase; few the price will pay t And this makes friends such miracles below.

What if (since daring on so nice a theme) I show the friendship delicate, as dear, Of tender violations apt to die ? Reserve will wound it; and distrust destroy. Deliberate on all things with thy friend. But since friends grow not thick on every bough. Nor every friend unrotten at the core; First, on thy friend, deliberate with thyself: Pause, ponder, sift ; not eager in the choice, Nor jealous of the chosen ; fixing, fix : Judge before friendship, then confide till death, Well, fer thy friend; but nobler far for thee: How gallant danger for earth's highest prize ! A friend is worth all hazards we can run. " Poor is the friendless master of a world ; A world in purchase for a friend is gain."

So sung he (angels hear that angel sing! Angels from friendship gather half their joy :) So sung PHILANDER, as his friend went round In the rich ichor, in the generous blood Of Bacchus, purple god of joyous wit, A brow solute, and ever laughing eye. He drank long health, and virtue, to his friend; His friend, who warm'd him more, who more inspired; Friendship's the wine of life ; but friendship new (Not such was his) is neither strong nor pure. Oh, for the bright complexion, cordial warmth, And elevating spirit of a friend, For twenty summers ripening by my side: All feculence of falsehood long thrown down; All social virtues rising in his soul; As crystal clear; and smiling as they rise ! Here nectar flows; it sparkles in our sight;

Rich to the taste, and genuine from the heart.

NIGHT II.

High-flavor'd bliss for gods! on earth how rare! On earth how lost! PHILANDER is no more.

Think'st thou the theme intoxicates my song ? Am I too warm ?-Too warm I cannot be. I loved him much ; but now I love him more. Like birds, whose beauties languish, half conceal'd. Till, mounted on the wing, their glossy plumes Expanded shine with azure, green, and gold : How blessings brighten as they take their flight ! His flight PHILANDER took ; his upward flight, If ever soul ascended. Had he dropp'd, (That eagle genius!) Oh had he let fall One feather as he flew ; I then had wrote What friends might flatter; prudent fees forbear; Rivals scarce damn; and Zoilt's reprieve. Yet what I can, I must: it were profane To quench a glory lighted at the skies, And cast in shadows his illustrious close. Strange ! the theme most affecting, most sublime. Momentous most to man, should sleep unsung ! And yet it sleeps, by genius unawaked, Paynim or Christian ; to the blush of wit. Man's highest triumph ! man's profoundest fall ! The deathbed of the just! is yet undrawn By mortal hand; it merits a divine; Angels should paint it, angels ever there : There, on a post of honor and of joy.

Dare I presume, then ? But PhilaNDER bids; And glory tempts, and inclination calls— Yet am I struck; as struck the soul, beneath Aerial groves' impenetrable gloom, Or, in some mighty ruin's solemn shade; Or, gazing by pale lamps on high-born dust, In vaults; thin courts of poor unflatter'd kings; Or, at the midnight altar's hallow'd flame. It is religion to proceed ? I pause— And enter, awed, the temple of my theme. Is it his deathbed ? No; it is his shrine: Behold him, there, just rising to a god. The chamber where the good man meets his fate

ON TIME, DEATH, AND FRIENDSHIP.

Is privileged beyond the common walk Of virtuous life, quite in the verge of heaven. Fly, ye profane ! if not, draw near with awe, Receive the blessing, and adore the chance, That threw in this Bethesda your disease : If unrestored by this, despair your cure: For here resistless demonstration dwells : A deathbed's a detector of the heart. Here tired dissimulation drops her mask ; Through life's grimace, that mistress of the scene ! Here real and apparent are the same. You see the man; you see his hold on heaven, If sound his virtue : as PHILANDER's sound. Heaven waits not the last moment : owns her friends On this side death ; and points them out to men: A lecture silent, but of sovereign power! To vice, confusion ; and to virtue, peace,

Whatever farce the boastful hero plays, Virtue alone has majesty in death ; And greater still, the more the tyrant frowns. PHILANDER ! he severely frown'd on thee ; "No warning given ! Unceremonious fate ! A sudden rush from life's meridian joy ! A wrench from all we love ! from all we are ! A restless bed of pain ! a plunge opaque Beyond conjecture ! feeble nature's dread ! Strong Reason's shudder at the dark unknown ! A sun extinguish'd! a just-opening grave ! And oh ! the last, last-what ? (can words express ? Thought reach ?) the last, last-silence of a friend !" Where are those horrors, that amazement where, 'This hideous group of ills (which singly shock) Demands from man ?-- I thought him man till now.

Through nature's wreck, through vanquished agonies,

(Like the stars struggling through this midnight gloom,)

What gleans of joy ! what more than human peace ? Where the frail mortal ? the poor abject worm ? No, not in death, the mortal to be found.

NIGHT II.

His conduct is a legacy for all, Richer than Mammon's for his single heir. His comforters he comforts; great in ruin, With unreluctant grandeur, gives, not yields, His soul subline; and closes with his fate.

How our hearts burn'd within us at the scene ! Whence this brave bound o'er limits fix'd to man ? His God sustains him in his final hour ! His final hour brings glory to his God ! Man's glory heaven vouchsafes to call her own. We gaze, we weep ; mix'd tears of grief and joy ! Amazement strikes ! devotion bursts to flame ! Christians adore ! and infidels believe !

As some tall tower, or lofty mountain's brow, Detains the sun, illustritous from its height; While rising vapors, and descending shades, With damps and darkness, drown the spacious vale; Undamp'd by doubt, undarken'd by despair, PHLANDER, thus, augustly rears his head, At that black hour, which general horror sheds On the low level of the inglorious throng: Sweet peace, and heavenly hope, and humble joy, Divinely beam on his exalted soul; Destruction gild, and crown him for the skies, With incommunicable lustre bright.

Night the Third.

NARCISSA.

TO HER GRACE THE DUCHESS OF P-----.

Ignoscenda quidem, scirent si ignoscere manes.-VIR.

FROM dreams, where thought in fancy's maze runs To reason, that heaven-lighted lamp in man, [mad, Once nove I wake; and at the destined hour, Punctual as lovers to the moment sworn, I keep my assignation with my wee.

O! lost to virtue, lost to manly thought, Lost to the noble sallies of the soul! Who think it solitude to be alone. Communion sweet! communion large and high! Our reason, guardian angel, and our God! Then nearest these, when others most remote; And all, ere long, shall be remote but these. How dreadful, then, to meet them all alone, A stranger! unacknowledged! unapproved! Now woo them ; wed them; bind them to thy breast; To win thy wish creation has no more. Or if we wish a fourth, it is a friend— But friends, how mortal! dangerous the desire.

Take Price us to yourselves, ye basking bards! Incbriate at fair fortune's foundain head; And reeling through the wilderness of joy; When sense rans savage, broke from reason's chain! And sings false peace, till smother'd by the pall. My fortune is unlike; unlike my'song; Unlike the Deity my song invokes. I to Day's soft-eyed sister pay my court, (EXDYMION'S rival !) and her aid implore; Now first implored in succor to the muse.

NIGHT III.

Thou, who didst lately borrow* CYNTHIA's form, And modestly forego thine own ! O thou, Who didst thyself, at midnight hours, inspire ! Say, why not CYNTHIA patroness of song ? As thou her crescent, she thy character Assumes : still more a goddess by the change. Are there demurring wits, who dare dispute This revolution in the world inspired ? Ye train Pyerian! to the lunar sphere, In silent hour, address your ardent call For aid immortal : less her brother's right. She, with the spheres harmonious, nightly leads The mazy dance, and hears their matchless strain; A strain for gods, denied to mortal ear. Transmit it heard, thou silver queen of Heaven ! What title, or what name, endears thee most ? CYNTHIA! CYLLENE! PHEBE !--- or dost hear With higher gust, fair P----- p of the skies ? Is that the soft enchantment calls thee down, More powerful than of old Circean charm ? Come: but from heavenly banquets with thee bring The soul of song, and whisper in mine ear The theft divine ; or in propitious dreams (For dreams are thine) transfuse it through the breast Of thy first votary-but not thy last; If, like thy namesake, thou art ever kind:

And kind thou wilt be : kind on such a theme; A theme so like thee, a quite lunar theme, Soft, modest, melancholy, female, fair ! A theme that rose all pale, and told my soul 'Twas night; on her fond hopes perpetual night; A night which struck a damp, a deadlier damp Than that which smote me from PHILANDER's tomb. NARCISSA follows ere his tomb is closed. Woes cluster; rare are solitary woes; They love a train, they tread each other's heel: Her death invades his mournful right, and claims The grief that started from my lids for him :

*At the Duke of Norfolk's Masquerade.

NARCISSA.

Seizes the faithless, alienated tear, Or sharesi tere it fulls. So frequent death, Sorrow he more than causes, he confounds; For human sighs his rival strokes contend, And make distress distraction. O PHILANDER! What was thy faite ? A double fate to me; Portent, and pain ! a menace, and a blow ! Like the black raven hovering o'er my peace; Not less a bird of onen than of prey. It call'd NARCISSA long before her hour; It call'd har tender soul, by break of bliss, From the first blossom, from the buds of joy; Those few our noxions fate unblasted leaves In this inclement clime of human life.

Sweet harmonist! and beautiful as sweet! And young as beautiful! and soft as young! And gay as soft! and innocent as gay! And happy (if aught happy here) as good! For fortune fond had built her ne-t on high. Like birds quite exqui ite of note and planne, Transfix'd by fate, (who loves a lofty mark.) How from the summit of the grove he tell, And left it unharmonious! all it, charms Extinguish'd in the wonders of her song ! Her song still vibrates in my ravish'd ear, Still melting there, and with voluptious pain (Oh, to forget her !) thrilling through my heart!

Song, benuty, youth, love, vatue, joy; this group Of bright ideas, flowers of paradi e, As yet unforfeit! in one blaze we bind, Kneel, and present it to the skies; as all We guess of Heaven: and these were all her own, And she was mine, and I was:--was!--most bless'd--Gay title of the deepest misery ! As bodies grow more ponderous, robb'd of life: Good lost weighs more in grief than gain'd in joy Like blossom'd trees, o'ertun'd by vernal storm, Lovely in death the beauteous ruin lay: And if in death still lovely, lovelier there: Far lovelier ! pity swells the tide of love.

And will not the severe excuse a sigh ? Scorn the proud man that is ashamed to weep; Our tears indulged indeed deserve our shame. Ye that e'er lost an angel, pity me !

Soon as the lustre languish'd in her eye, Dawning a dimmer day on human sight; And on her cheek the residence of spring, Pale omen sat; and scatter'd fears around On all that saw (and who would cease to gaze, That once had scen !) With haste, parental haste, I flew, I snatch'd her from the rigid north, Her native bed, on which bleak Boreas blew, And bore her nearer to the sun; the sun (As if the sun could envy) check'd his beam, Denied his wonted succor; nor with more Regret beheld her drooping, than the bells Of lilies; fairest likes, not so fair!

Queen lilies ! and ye painted populace ! Who dwell in fields, and lead ambrosial lives ! In mora nad evening dew your beauties bathe, And drink the sun ; which gives your cheeks to glow, And out-blush (mine excepted) every fair ; You gladlier grew, ambitous of her hand, Which often cropy'd your odours, incense meet To thought so pure ! Ve lovely fugitives ! Coeval race with man ! for man you smile ; Why not smile at him too ? You share indeed His sudden pass ! but not his constant pain.

So man is made ; nought ministers delight, But what his glowing passions can engage : And glowing passions bent on aught below, Must, soon or late, with anguish turn the scale ; And anguish, after rapture, how severe ! Rapture ? Bold man ! who tempts the wrath divine, By plucking fruit denied to mortal taste ; While here, presuming on the rights of Heaven. For transport dost thou call on every hour, LORENCO ? At thy friend's expense be wise : Lean not on earth; 'twill pierce thee to the heart; A broken reed at best; but of a spear;

NIGHT III.

NARCISSA.

On its sharp point peace bleeds, and hope expires. Turn, hopeless thought ! turn from her :- Thought Resenting rallies, and wakes every woe. [repell'd Snatch'd ere thy prime! and in thy bridal hour! And when kind fortune, with thy lover, smiled ! And when high-flavor'd by fresh opening joys ! And when blind man pronounced thy bliss complete ! And on a foreign shore ! where strangers wept ! Strangers to thee: and, more surprising still, Strangers to kindness, wept: their eyes let fall Inhuman tears: strange tears! that trickled down From marble hearts ! obdurate tenderness ! A tenderness that call'd them more severe : In spite of nature's soft persuasion, steel'd; While nature melted, superstition raved ! That mourn'd the dead; and this denied a grave. Their sighs incensed ; sighs foreign to the will ! Their will the tiger suck'd, outraged the storm. For oh! the curs'd ungodliness of zeal ! While sinful flesh relented, spirit nursed In blind infallibility's embrace, The sainted spirit petrified the breast ; Denied the charity of dust, to spread O'er dust ! a charity their dogs enjoy. What could I do ? what succor ? what resource ? With pious sacrilege a grave I stole; With impious piety that grave I wrong'd; Short in my duty; coward in my grief! More like her murderer than friend, I crept, With soft suspended step, and muffled deep In midnight darkness, whisper'd my last sigh. I whisper'd what should echo through their realms. Nor writ her name, whose tomb should pierce the Presumptuous fear ! how durst I dread her foes [skies. While nature's loudest dictates I obey'd ? Pardon necessity, bless'd shade ! of grief And indignation rival bursts I pour'd: Half execration mingled with my prayer ; Kindled at man, while I his God adored ; Sore grudged the savage land her sacred dust ;

NIGHT III.

Stamp'd the cursed soil ; and, with humanity (Denied NARCISSA,) wish'd them all a grave.

Glows my resentment into guilt ? What guilt Can equal violations of the dead ? The dead how sacred ! Sacred is the dust

The decay now sacred 's sucred is the dust Of this Heaven-labor'd form, erect, divine! This Heaven-assumed majestic robe of earth He deign't to wear, who hung the vast expanse With azure bright, and clothed the sun in gold. When every passion sleeps that can offend; When man can wreak his rancor uncontrolled, That strongest curb on insult and ill will; Then, spleen to dust? the dust of innocence ! An angel's dust!—This Lucifer transcends: When he contended for the patriarch's bones, "Twas not the strife of malice, but of pride; The strife of pontiff pride, not pontiff gall.

Far less than this is shocking in a race Most wretched, but from streams of mutual love And uncreated, but for love divine ; And, but for love divine, this moment, lost, By fate resorb'd, and sunk in endless night. Man hard of heart to man ! of horrid things Most horrid ! 'mid stupendous, highly strange ! Yet oft his courtesies are smoother wrongs; Pride brandishes the favors he confers. And contumelious his humanity : What then is vengeance ? Hear it not, ve stars! And thou, pale moon ! turn paler at the sound ; Man is to man the sorest, surest ill. A previous blast foretells the rising storm ; O'erwhelming turrets threaten ere they fall: Volcanoes bellow ere they disembogue ; Earth trembles ere her yawning jaws devour ; And smoke betrays the wide consuming fire : Ruin from man is most conceal'd when near, And sends the dreadful tidings in the blow. Is this the flight of fancy ? Would it were ! Heaven's Sovereign saves all beings but himself.

NARCISSA.

That hideous sight, a naked human heart. Fired is the muse ? And let the muse be fired : Who not inflamed, when what he speaks he feels, And in the nerve most tender, in his friends ? Shame to mankind ! PHILANDER had his foes; He felt the truths I sing, and I in him. But he, nor I, feel more : past ills, NARCISSA ! Are sunk in thee, thou recent wound of heart ! Which bleeds with other cares, with other pangs; Pangs numerous, as the numerous ills that swarm'd O'er thy distinguish'd fate, and, clustering there Thick as the locusts on the land of Nile, Made death more deadly, and more dark the grave. Reflect (if not forgot my touching tale,) How was each circumstance with aspics arm'd ? An aspic each ! and all, a Hydra woe : What strong Herculean virtue could suffice ?-Or is it virtue to be conquer'd here? This hoary cheek a train of tears bedews : And each tear mourns its own distinct distress: And each distress, distinctly mourn'd, demands Of grief still more, as heighten'd by the whole. A grief like this, proprietors excludes: Not friends alone such obsequies deplore; They make mankind the mourner; carry sighs Far as the fatal Fame can wing her way; And turn the gayest thought of gayest age, Down their right channel, through the vale of death.

The vale of death ! that hush'd Cimmerian vale, Where darkness, brooding o'er unfinish'd fates, With raven wing incumbent, waits the day (Dread day !) that interdicts all future change ! That subternanean world, that land of ruin ! Fit walk, Lowexzo, for proud human thought! There let my thonghts expatiate, and explore Balsamic truths, and healing sontiments; Of all most wanted, and most welcome, here. For gay Lowexzo's sake, and for thy own, My soul ! "The fruits of dying friends survey; Expose the vain of life; weigh life and death; Give death his eulogy; thy fear subdue; And labour that first palm of noble minds, A manly scorn of terror from the tomb,"

This harvest reap from thy NARCISSA's grave. As poets feign'd, from AJAX' streaming blood, Arose, with grief inscribed, a mournful flower; Let wisdom blossou from my mortal wound. And first, of dying friends; what fruit from these ? It brings us more than triple aid; an aid To chase our thoughtlessness, fear, pride, and guilt.

Our dying friends come o'er us like a cloud, To damp our brainless ardours : and abate That glare of life, which often blinds the wise. Our dying friends are pioneers, to smooth Our rugged pass to death ! to break those bars Of terror, and abhorrence, nature throws Cross our obstructed way; and thus to make Welcome, as safe, our port from every storm. Each friend by fate snatch'd from us is a plume Pluck'd from the wing of human vanity, Which makes us stoop from our aerial heights, And damp'd with omen of our own decease, On drooping pinions of ambition lower'd Just skim earth's surface ere we break it up: O'er putrid earth to scratch a little dust. And save the world a nuisance. Smitten friends Are angels sent on errands full of love; For us they languish and for us they die : And shall they languish, shall they die in vain ? Ungrateful, shall we grieve their hovering shades Which wait the revolution in our hearts ? Shall we disdain their silent, soft address Their posthumous advice, and pious prayer ? Senseless as herds that graze their hallow'd graves, Tread under foot their agonies and groans : Frustrate their anguish, and destroy their deaths ?

LORENZO ! no; the thought of death indulge; Give it its wholesome empire ! let it reign, That kind chastiser of thy soul in joy ! Its reign will spread thy glorious conquests far,

NARCISSA.

And still the tumults of thy ruffled breast: Auspicious era ! golden days, begin ! The thought of death shall, like a god, inspire. And why not think of death ? Is life the theme Of every thought ? and wish of every hour ? And song of every joy ? Surprising truth ! The beaten spaniel's fondness not so strange. To wave the numerous ills that sieze on life As their own poperty, their lawful prey; Ere man has measured half his weary stage, His luxuries have left him no reserve, No maiden relishes, unbroach'd delights : On cold-served repetitions he subsists, And in the tasteless present chews the past; Disgusted chews, and scarce can swallow down. Like lavish ancestors, his earlier years Have disinherited his future hours, Which starve on orts, and glean their former field.

Live ever here, LORENZO ?- shocking thought ! So shocking, they who wish disown it too; Disown from shame, what they from folly crave. Live ever in the womb, nor see the light ? For what live ever here ?--With labouring step To tread our footsteps ? pace the round Eternal ? to climb life's worn, heavy wheel, Which draws up nothing new ? to beat and beat The beaten track ? to bid each wretched day The former mock ? to surfeit on the same, And yawn our joys ? or thank a misery For change, though sad ? to see what we have seen ? Hear, till unheard, the same old slabber'd tale ? To taste the tasted, and at each return Less tasteful ? o'er our palates to decant Another vintage ? strain a flatter year, Through loaded vessels, and a laxer tone ? Crazy machines to grind earth's wasted fruits ! Ill ground, and worse concocted ! load, not life ! The rational foul kennels of excess ! Still streaming thorough fares of dull debauch ! [bowl, Trembling each gulp, lest death should snatch the NIGHT IIL.

Such of our fine ones is the wish refined ! So would they have it : elegant desire ! Why not invite the bellowing stalls and wilds ? But such examples might their riot awe. Through want of virtue, that is, want of thought, (Though on bright thought they father all their To what are they reduced ? To love and hate [flights] The same vain world: to censure and espouse This painted shrew of life, who calls them fool Each moment of each day; to flatter bad Through dread of worse ; to cling to this rude rock, Barren, to them, of good, and sharp with ills, And hourly blacken'd with impending storms, And infamous for wrecks of human hope-Scared at the gloomy gulf that yawns beneath : Such are their triumphs, such their pangs of joy !

"Tis time, high time to shift this dismal scene. This hugg'd, this hidows state what art can cure ? One only; but that one, what all may reach; VIRTUE—she, wonder-working goldess ! charms That rock to bloom; and tames the painted shrew ; And what will more surprise, LORENZO ! gives, To life's sick, nauscons iteration, change; And straightens nature's circle to a line. Believest thou this LORENZO ? Lenda near, A patient ear; thou'll blush to disbelieve.

À languid, leaden iteration reigns, And ever must, o'er those whose joys are joys Of sight, smell, taste: the cuckoo seasons sing The same dull note to such as nothing prize, But what those seasons from the teeming earth To doting sense indulge. But nobler minds, Which relish fruits unripen'd by the sun, Make their days various; various as the dyes On the dove's neck, which wanton in his rays. On minds of dovelike innocence posses'd, On lighten'd minds, that bask in virtue's beams, Nothing hangs tedious, nothing old revolves In that for which they long, for which they live.

Each rising morning sees still higher rise; Each bounteous dawn its novelty presents To worth maturing, new strength, lustre, fame; While nature's circle, like a chariot-wheel Rolling beneath their elevated aims, Makes their fair prospect fairer every hour; Advancing virtue, in a line to bliss; Virtue, which Christian motives best inspire ! And bliss, which Christian schemes alone ensure !

And shall we then, for virtue's sake, commence Apostates ? and turn infidels for joy ? A truth it is, few doubt, but fewer trust, "He sins against this life who slights the next." What is this life ? How few their favourite know ! Fond in the dark, and blind in our embrace, By passionately loving life, we make Loved life unlovely; hugging her to death. We give to time eternity's regard ; And, dreaming, take our passage for our port. Life has no value as an end, but means ; An end, deplorable ! a means, divine ! When 'tis our all, 'tis nothing ; worse than nought ; A nest of pains; when held as nothing, much: Like some fair hum'rists, life is most enjoy'd When courted least; most worth, when disesteem'd: Then 'tis the seat of comfort, rich in peace ; In prospect richer far; important! awful! Not to be mention'd, but with shouts of praise! Not to be thought on, but with tides of joy ! The mighty basis of eternal bliss !

Where now, Lorexzo ! life's eternal round ? Have I not made my triple promise good ? Vain is the world ; but only to the vain. To what compare we then this varying scene, Whose worth ambiguous rises and declines ? Waxes, and wanes ? (In all propitious, night Assists me here :) Compare it to the moon ; Dark in herself, and indigent ; but rich In borrow'd lustre from a higher sphere.

NIGHT III.

When gross guilt interposes, lab'ring earth, O'ershadow'd, mourus a deep eelipse of joy; Her joys, at brightest, pallid, to that font Of full effulgent glory, whence they flow.

Nor is that glory distant: O LORENZO ! A good man, and an angel ! these between, How thin the barrier ! What divides their fate ? Perhaps a moment, or perhaps a year, Or, if an age, it is a moment still ; A moment, or eternity's forgot. Then be, what once they were, who now are gods Be what PHILANDER was, and claim the skies. Starts timid nature at the gloomy pass ? The soft transition call it; and be cheer'd; Such it is often, and why not to thee ? To hope the best is pious, brave, and wise; And may itself procure what it presumes. Life is much flatter'd, death is much traduced; Compare the rivals, and the kinder crown. "Strange competition ! "-True, LORENZO ! strange ! So little life can cast into the scale.

Life makes the soul dependent on the dust; Death gives her wings to mount above the spheres. Through chinks, styled organs, dim life peeps at light : Death bursts th' involving cloud, and all is day; All eye, all ear, the disembodied power. Death has feign'd evils, nature shall not feel; Life, ills substantial, wiedom cannot shun. Is not the mighty mind, that son of heaven! By tyrant life dethroned, imprison'd pair'd ? By death entarged, ennobled, defined ? Death but entombs the body; life the soul. "Is death then guiltess? How he marks his way

"Is death then guiltless ² How he marks his way With dreadful waste of what deserves to shime ! Art, genius, fortune, elevated power ! With various lustres these light up the world, Which death puts out, and darkens human race." I grant, LORENZO ! this indictment just: The sage, peer, potentate, king, conqueror'! Death hunbles these; more barb'rous life, the man.

NARCISSA.

Life is the triumph of our mouldering clay; Death ! of the spirit infinite ! divine ! Death has no dread, but what frail life imparts ; Nor life true joy, but what kind death improves. No birs has life to beast, till death can give Far greater ; life's a debtor to the grave, Dark lattice ! letting in eternal day.

LORENZO ! blush at fondness for a life Which sends celestial souls on errands vile, To cater for the sense ; and, serve at boards Where every ranger of the wilds, perhaps Each reptile, justy clains our upper hand. Luxurious feast! a soul, a soul immortal, In all the dainties of a brute benired : LORENZO ! blush at terror for a death Which gives thee to repose in festive bowers, Where nectars sparkle, augels minister, And more than angels share, and raise, and crown, And terrnize the birth, bloom, bursts of bliss. What need 1 more ? O death, the palm is thine.

Then welcome, death ! thy dreadful harbingers, Age and disease; disease, though long my guest; That plucks my nerves, those tender strings of life : Which, pluck'd a little more, will toll the bell That calls my few friends to my funeral; Where feeble nature drops, perhaps, a tear, While reason and religion, better taught, Congratulate the dead, and crown his tomb With wreath triumphant. Death is victory ! It binds in chains the raging ills of life : Lust and ambition, wrath and avarice, Dragg'd at his chariot-wheel, applaud his power. That ills corrosive, cares importunate. Are not immortal too, O death ; is thine. Our day of dissolution !-- name it right, 'Tis our great pay-day ; 'tis our harvest, rich And ripe : what though the sickle, sometimes keen, Just scars us as we reap the golden grain ? More than thy balm, O Gilead ! heals the wound. Birth's feeble cry and death's deep dismal groan.

NIGHT III.

Are slender tributes low-tax'd nature pays For mighty gain : the gain of each, a life ! But oh ! the last the former so transcends, Life dies, compared ! life lives beyond the grave.

And feel I. Death ! no joy from thought of thee ? Death, the great counsellor, who man inspires With every nobler thought, and fairer deed ! Death, the deliverer, who rescues man ! Death, the rewarder, who the rescued crowns ! Death, that absolves my birth ! a curse without it ! Rich death, that realizes all my cares, Toils, virtues, hopes; without it a chimera! Death, of all pain the period, not of joy : Joy's source, and subject, still subsist unhurt : One, in my soul; and one, in her great Sire; Though the four winds were warring for my dust. Yes, and from winds, and waves, and central night. Though prison'd there, my dust too I reclaim (To dust when drop proud nature's proudest spheres,) And live entire. Death is the crown of life : Were death denied, poor man would live in vain : Were death denied, to live would not be life : Were death denied, even fools would wish to die. Death wounds to cure ; we fall ; we rise ; we reign ! Spring from our fetters ; fasten in the skies : Where blooming Eden withers in our sight: Death gives us more than was in Eden lost. This king of terrors is the prince of peace. When shall I die to vanity, pain, death ? When shall I die ?--When shall I live for ever ?

Night the Fourth.

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

CONTAINING

OUR ONLY CURE FOR THE FEAR OF DEATH, AND PRO-PER SENTIMENTS OF HEART ON THAT INTERESTING BLESSING.

TO THE HONORABLE MR. YORKE.

A NUCH indebted muse, O YORKE ! intrudes. Amid the smilles of fortune, and of youth, Thine ear is patient of a serious song. How deep implanted in the breast of man The dread of death ! I sing its sovereign cure.

Why start at death ? Where is he ? Death arrived Is pass'd; not come, or gone, he's never here. Ere hope, sensation fails; black-boding man Receives, not suffers death's tremendous blow. The knell, the shroud, the mattock, and the grave; The deep damp vault, the darkness, and the worm; These are the bugbears of a winter's eve, The terrors of the living, not the dead. Imagination's fool, and error's wretch, Man makes a death, which nature never made: Then on the point of his own fancy falls; And feels a thousand deaths in fearing one.

But were death frightful, what has age to fear ? If prudent, age should meet the friendly foe, And sheiter in his hospitable gloom. I scarce can meet a monument, but holds My younger; every date cries—"Come away." And what recalls me ? Look the world around,

NIGHT IV.

And tell me what: the wisest cannot tell. Should any born of woman give his thought Full range, on just dislike's unbounded field; Of things, the vanity; of men, the flaws; Flaws in the best; the many, flaw all o'er; As leopards spotted, or as Ethiops dark; Vivacious ill; good dying immatture; (How immature, NARCTSA's marble tells!) And at his death bequeathing endless pain; His heart, though bold, would sicken at the sight, And spend itself in sighs for future scenes.

But grant to life (and just it is to grant To lucky life) some perquisites of joy; A time there is, when, like a thrice-told tale, Long-rifled life of sweet can yield no more, But, from our commeut on the comedy, Pleasing reflections on parts well sustain'd, Or purposed emendations where we fail'd; Or hopes of plaudits from our candid Judge, When, on their exit, souls are bid unrobe, Toss forume back her tinsel and her plume, And drop this mask of flesh behind the scene.

With ine, that time is come; my world is dead; A new world rises, and new manners reign: Foreign comedians, a spruce band! arrive, To push me from the scene, or hiss me there, What a pert race starts up! the strangers gaze, And I at them; my neighbor is unknown: Nor that the worst: ah me! the dire effect Of loitering here, of death defrauded long; Of old so gracious (and let that suffice) My very master knows me not.—

Shall'I dare say, peculiar is the fate 7 Pve been so long remember'd, I'm forgot. An object ever pressing dims the sight, And hides behind its ardour to be seen. When in his courtiers' ears I pour my plaint, They drink it as the nectar of the great; And squeeze my hand, and beg me come to-morrow 1 Refusal; canst thou wear a smoother form ?

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

Indulge me, nor conceive I drop my theme: Who cheapens life abates the fear of death. Twice told the period spent on stubborn Troy, Court favor, yet untaken, I besiege; Ambition's ill-judged effort to be rich. Alas! ambition makes my little less! Imbittering the possess'd: why wish for more ? Wishing, of all employments, is the worst; Philosophy's reverse, and health's decay ! Were I as plump as stall'd theology, Wishing would waste me to this shade again; Were I as wealthy as a South-Sea dream, Wishing is an expedient to be poor. Wishing, that constant hectic of a fool; Caught at a court ; purged off by purer air, And simpler diet ; gifts of rural life ! Bless'd be that hand divine, which gently laid My heart at rest, beneath this humble shed. The world's a stately bark, on dangerous seas, With pleasure seen, but boarded at our peril; Here, on a single plank, thrown safe ashore, I hear the tumult of the distant throng, As that of seas remote, or dying storms: And meditate on scenes more silent still : Pursue my theme, and fight the fear of death. Here, like a shepherd gazing from his hut, Touching his reed, or leaning on his staff, Eager ambition's fiery chase I see ; I see the circling hunt of noisy men Burst law's enclosure, leap the mounds of right, Pursuing and pursued, each other's prey : As wolves for rapine; as the fox for wiles; Till death, that mighty hunter, earths them all.

Why all this toil for triumphs of an hour? What though we wade in wealth, or soar in fame ? Earth's highest station ends in, "Here he lies." And "Dust to dust" concludes her noblest song. If this song lives, posterity shall know One, though in Britain born, with courtiers bred, Who thought even gold might come a day too late;

NIGHT IV.

Nor on his subtle death-bed plann'd his scheme For future vacancies in church or state; Some avocation deenning it——to die, Unhit by rage canine of dying rich; Guilt's blunder ! and the loudest laugh of hell !

O my coevals ! remnants of yourselves ! Poor human ruins, tottering O'er the grave ! Shall we, shall aged men, like aged trees, Strike deeper their vile root, and closer cling, Still more enamor'd of this wretched soil ? Shall our pale wither'd hands he still stretch'd out, Trembling at once with eagerness and age ? With avarice, and convulsions, grasping hard ? Grasping at air ! for what has earth beside ? Man wants but little ; nor that little long : How soon must he resign his very dust, Which frugal nature lent him for an hour ! Years unexperienced rush on numerons ills ; And soon as man, expert from time, has found The key of life, it opes the gates of denth.

When in this vale of years I backward look, And miss such numbers, minubers too of such, Firmer in health, and greener in their age, And stricter on their guard, and fitter far To play iffe's subtle game, I scarree believe I still survive : and am 1 fond of life, Who scarce can think it possible, I live ? Alive by Maxn 1 if I am still alive, Who long have huried what gives life to live, Firmness of nerve, and energy of thought. Life's lee is not more shallow than impure And yapid ; sense and reason show the doar, Call for my bier, and point me to the dust.

O thou great Arbiter of life and death ! Nature's immortal, immaterial Sun ! Whose all prolific beam late call'd me forth From darkness, teening darkness, where I lay The worm's inferior, and, in rank, beneath The dust I tread on, high to bear only brow, To drink the spirit of the golden day, And triumph in existence; and couldst know No motive, but my bliss; and hast ordain'd A rise in blessing! with the patriarch's joy, Thy call I follow to the land anknown: I trust in Thee, and know in whom I trust; Or life or death is equal; neither weighs: All weight in this—Oh let me live to Thee !

Though nature's terrors thus may be repress'd; Still frowns grim death guilt points the tyrant's spear. And whence all human guilt? From death forgot. Ah me! too long I set at nought the swarm Of friendly warnings, which around me flew; And stuiled, unsmitten : small my cause to smile ! Death's admontitons, like shafts upward shot, More dreadful by delay, the longer ere They strike our hearts, the deeper is their wound. Oh think how deep, Loreszo !—here it stings ! What hand the barb'd, eavenou'd thought can draw? What heading hand can pour the lahm of peace; And turn my sight undannet on the tomb ?

With joy,-with grief, that healing hand I see; Ah ! too conspicuous ; it is fix'd on high. On high ?--What means my frenzy ? I blaspheme: Alas! how low! how far beneath the skies! The skies it form'd; and now it bleeds for me-But bleeds the balm I want-yet still it bleeds. Draw the dire steel-Ah, no ! the dreadful blessing What heart or can sustain or dares forego ? There hangs all human hope ; that nail supports The falling universe : that gone, we drop ; Horror receives us, and the dismal wish Creation had been smother'd in her birth-Darkness his curtain, and his bed the dust; When stars and sun are dust beneath his throne ! In heaven itself can such indulgence dwell ? Oh, what a groan was there ! a groan not Ilis. He seized our dreadful right; the load sustain'd; And heaved the mountain from a guilty world.

NIGHT IV.

A thousand worlds, so bought, were bought too dear; Sensations new in angels' bosoms rise; Suspend their song, and make a pause in bliss.

Oh, for their soi², to reach my² lofty theme ! Inspire me, night ! with all thy tuneful spheres, Whilst I with seraphs share scraphic themes, And show to men the dignity of man; Lest I blaspheme my subject with my song. Shall Pagan pages glow celestial flame, And Christian languish ? On our hearts, not heads, Falls the foul infamy. My heart ! awake What can awake thee, unawaked by this, "Expended Deity on human weat ?" Feel the great truths, which burst the tenfold night Of Heuthen error, with a goldlen flood Of endless day: to feel is to be fired; And to believe, Lorexzo ! is to feel.

Thou most indulgent, most tremendons Power! Still more tremendons for thy wondrous love! That arms, with awe more awful, thy commands; And foul transgression dips in seveniold guilt; How our hearts tremble at thy love immense; In love immense, inviolably just! Thou, rather than thy justice should be stain'd, Didst stain the cross; and, work of wonders far The greatest, that thy Dearest far might bleed.

Bold thought! shall I dare speak it or repress ? Should man more execrate or boast the guilt Which roused such vengeance ? which such love inflamed ?

O'er guilt(how mountainous!) with outstretch'd arms, Stern justice and soft-smiling love embrace, Supporting, in full majesty, thy throne, When seem'd its majesty to need support, Or that or man inevitably lost ? What, but the fathomless of thought divine, Could labor such expedient from despair, And rescue both ? Both rescue ! both exalt ! Oh, how are both exalted by the deed ! The wondrous deed! or shall ! call it more ? A wonder in omnipotence itself! A mystery no less to gods than men

Not thus our infidel's the Eternal draw; A God all o'er, consummate, absolute, Full-orb'd, in his whole round of rays complete; They set at odds Herven's jurring attributes; And with one excellence another wound; Maim Herven's perfection, break its equal beams, Bid mercy triumph over—God hinselt, Undefied by their opprobrious praise; A God all mercy is a God unjust.

Ye brainless vits! ye baptized infidels! Ye worse for mending! wash'd to fouler stains! The ransom was paid down: the fund of Heaven, Heaven's inexhaustible, exhansted fund, Amazing and amazed, poured forth the price, All price beyond: though curious to compute, Archangels fail'd to cast the mighty sum: Its value vast, ungrasp'd by minds create, For ever hides, and glows, in the Supreme.

And was the ransom paid ? it was : and paid (What can exalt the bounty more ?) for you, The sun beheld it-No, the shocking scene Drove back his chariot: midnight veil'd his face: Not such as this; not such as nature makes; At midnight nature shudder'd to behold ; A midnight new ! a dread eclipse (without Opposing spheres.) from her Creator's frown ! Sun ! didst thou fly thy Maker's pain ? or start At that enormous load of human guilt, [cross: Which bow'd his blessed head; o'erwhelm'd his Made groan the centre ; burst earth's marble womb, With pangs, strange pangs ! deliver'd of her dead ! Hell howl'd; and Heaven that hour let fall a tear; Heaven wept, that men might smile ! Heaven bled. Might never die !-----[that man

And is devotion virtue? 'Tis compell'd: What heart of stone but glows at thoughts like these? Such contemplations mount us; and should mount The mind still higher; nor e'er glance on man.

NIGHT IV.

Unraptured, uninflamed. Where roll my thoughts To rest from wonders ? Other wonders rise ; And strike where'er they roll: my soul is caught: Heaven's sovereign blessings, clust'ring from the Rush on her, in a throng, and close her round, [cross, The pris'ner of amaze !- In his bless'd life I see the path, and in his death the price, And in his great ascent the proof supreme Of immortality .- And did He rise ? Hear, O ye nations ! Hear it, O ye dead ! He rose ! He rose ! He burst the bars of death. Lift up your heads, ye everlasting gates ! And give the King of glory to come in. Who is the King of glory ? he who left His throne of glory for the pang of death ! Lift up your heads, ye everlasting gates ! And give the King of glory to come in. Who is the King of glory ? He who slew The rav'nous foe that gorg'd all human race ! The King of glory, Ile, whose glory fill'd Heaven with amazement at his love to man; And with divine complacency beheld Powers most illumined wilder'd in the theme.

The theme, the joy, how then shall man sustain ! Oh the burst gates ! crush'd sting ! demolish'd throne! Last gasp of vanquish'd death. Shout, earth and This sum of good to man: whose nature then [heaven! Took wing, and mounted with him from the tomb ! Then, then I rose; then first humanity Triumphant pass'd the crystal ports of light, (Stupendous guest !) and seized eternal youth, Seized in our name. E'er since, 'tis blasphemous To call man mortal. Man's mortality Was then transferred to death; and heaven's duration Unalienably seal'd to this frail frame, This child of dust,-Man, all-immortal ! hail ; Hail, Heaven ! all lavish of strange gifts to man ! Thine all the glory ! man's the boundless bliss. Where am I rapt by this triumphant theme ? Christian joy's exulting wing, above

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

The Aonian mount ?- Alas ! small cause for joy ! What if to pain immortal ? if extent Of being, to preclude a close of woe ? Where then my boast of immortality ? I boast it still, though cover'd o'er with guilt; For guilt, not innocence, his life he pour'd; 'Tis guilt alone can justify his death ! Nor that, unless his death can justify Relenting guilt in Heaven's indulgent sight. If, sick of folly, I relent, he writes My name in heaven with that inverted spear (A spear deep dipped in blood !) which pierced his And open'd there a font for all mankind, [side. Who strive, who combat crimes, to drink and live: This, only this subdues the fear of death.

And what is this ?—Survey the wondrous cure; And, at each step, let higher wonder rise ! "Pardon for infinite offence ! and pardon Through means that speak its value infinite ! A pardon bought with blood ! with blood divine ! With blood divine of Him 1 made my foe ! Persisted to provoke ! though woo'd and awed, Bless'd and chastised, a flagrant rebel still ! A rebel, midst the thunders of his throne ! Nor 1 alone ! a rebel universe! My species up in arms ! not one exempt ! Yet for the foulest of the foul he dies ; Most joy'd for the redeem'd from deepest guilt ! As if our race were held of highest rank ; And Godhead dearer, as more kind to man !"

Bound, every heart! and, every bosom, burn ! Oh, what a scale of miracles is here ! Its lowest round high planted on the skies ; Its towering summit lost beyond the thought Of man or angel! Oh, that i could climb The wonderful ascent with equal praise ! Praise! How for ever (if astonishment Will give thee leave ;) my praise ! for ever flow ; Praise ardent, cordial, constant ; to high Heaven More fragrant than Arabia sacrificed,

NIGHT IV.

And all her spicy mountains in a flame.

So dear, so due to Heaven, shall praise descend, With her soft plume (from plausive angels' wing First pluck'd by man) to tickle mortal ears, Thus diving in the pockets of the great ? Is praise the perquisite of every paw, Though black as hell, that grapples well for gold ? O love of gold ! thou meanest of amours ! Shall praise her odors waste on VIRTUES dead, Embalin the base, perfume the stench of guilt, Earu dirty bread by washing Æthiops fair. Removing filth, or sinking it from sight, A scavenger in scenes where vacant posts. Like gibbets yet untenanted, expect Their future ornaments ? From courts and thrones Return apostate praise ! thou vagabond ! Thou prostitute ! to thy first love return. Thy first, thy greatest, once unrivall'd theme.

There flow redundant; like Meander flow, Back to thy fountain ; to that parent Power, Who gives the tongue to sound, the thought to soar. The soul to be. Men homage pay to men, Thoughtless beneath whose dreadful eye they bow, In mutual awe profound of clay to clay, Of guilt to guilt; and turn their back on Thee, Great Sire ! whom thrones celestial ceaseless sing : To prostrate angels an amazing scene ! Oh the presumption of man's awe for man !--Man's author ! end ! restorer ! law ! and judge ! Thine, all; day thine, and thine this gloom of night, With all her wealth, with all her radiant worlds : What night eternal, but a frown from Thee ? What heaven's meridian glory, but thy smile ? And shall not praise be thine ? not human praise ? While heaven's high host on hallelujahs live ?

Oh, may I breathe no longer than I breathe My soul in praise to HIM, who gave my soul, And all her infinite of prospect fair, Cut through the shades of hell, great Love 1 by thee, O most adorable ! most unadored !

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

Where shall that praise begin which ne'er should Where'er I turn, what claim on all applause! [end ? How is night's suble mantle labor'd o'er! How richly wrought with attributes divine! [pomp, What wisdom shines! What love! This midnight This gorgeous arch, with golden worlds inlaid! Built with divine ambition! nough to thee; For others this profusion: Thou, apart, Above! beyond! Oh, tell me, mighty Mind! Where art thou ? Shall I dive into the deep? Call to the sun, or ask the roaring winds For their Creator ? Shall I question loud The thunder, if in that the Almighty dwells? Or holds he furious storms in straiten'd reins, And bids ferce whirlwinds wheel his rapid car?

What mean these questions ?—Trembling I retract; My prostrate soul adores the present God: Praise I a distant Deity ? He tunes My voice ; (if tuned ;) the nerve that writes sustains ; Wrapy'd in his being. I resound his praise : But though past all diffused, without a shore His essence ; local is his throne, (as meet.) To gather the dispersed ; (as standards call The listed from afar.) to fix a point, A central point, collective of his sons ; Since finite every nature but his own.

The nameless HE, whose nod is nature's birth; And nature's shield, the shadow of his hand; Her dissolution His suspended smile ! The great First-Last! pavilion'd high he sits In darkness, from excessive splendor, borne, By gods unseen, unless through lustre lost His glory, to created glory bright As that to central horrors : he looks down On all that soars; and spans immensity.

Though night unnumber'd worlds uniolds to view, Boundless creation ! what art thou ? A beam, A mere effluvium of His majesty : And shall an atom of this atom world Mutter, in dust and sin, the theme of heaven ?

NIGHT IV.

Down to the centre should I send my thought, Through beds of glittering ore, and glowing gems; Their beggard blaze wants lustre for my lay; Goes out in darkness: if, on towering wing. I send it through the boundless vault of stars; (The stars, though rich, what dross their gold to Thee, Great 1 good 1 wise 1 wonderfal 1 etenal King !) If to those conscious stars thy throne around, Praise ever pouring, and inbibing bliss; And ask their strain; they want it, more they want, Poor their abundance, humble their subline, Languid their energy, their andor cold : Indebted still, their highest rapture burns; Short of its mark, detective, though divine.

Still more-This theme i - man's, and man's alone ; Their vast appointments reach it not : they see On earth a bounty not indulged on high ; And downward look for Heaven's superior praise ! First-born of ether ! high in fields of light ! View man, to see the glory of your God ! Could angels envy, they had envied here ; And some did envy; and the rest, though gods, Yet still gods unredeem'd, (there triumphs man, Tempted to weigh the dust against the skies,) They less would feel, though more adorn, my theme They sung creation ; (for in that they shared :) How rose in melody that child of love ! Creation's great superior, man ! is thine ; Thine is redemption : they just gave the key ; "Tis thine to raise and eternize the song; Though human, yet divine ; for should not this Raise man o'er man, and kindle seraphs here ? Redemption ! 'twas creation more sublime : Redemption ! 'twas the labor of the skies ; Far more than labor-it was death in heaven : A truth so strange ! 'twere bold to think it true, [heaven ? If not far bolder still to disbelieve.

Here pause, and ponder-Was there death in What then on earth? on earth, which struck the blow? Who struck it? Who? Oh, how is man enlarged, Seen through this medium ! how the pigmy towers ! How counterpoised, his origin from dust! How counterpoised, to du t his sad return ! How voided his vast dista; ce from the skles! How near he presses on the teraph's wing! Which is the seraph ? which the born of clay ? How this demonstrates, through the thickest cloud Of guilt and clay condensed, the Son of Heaven! The double son : the made, and the re-made ! And shall Heaven's double property be lost? Man's double madness only can destroy. To man the bloeding cross has promised all ; The bleeding cross has sworn eternal grace; Who gave his life, what grace shall He deny ? O ye ! who from this Rock of Ages leap, Disdainful, plunging headlong in the deep ! What cordial joy, what consolation strong, Whatever winds arise, or billows roll, Our interest in the Master of the storm ? Cling there, and in wreck'd nature's ruin smile; While vile apostates tremble in a calm.

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

Man ! know thyself. All wisdom centres there; To none man seems ignoble, but to man; Angels that grandeur, men o'erlook, admire : How long shall human nature he their book, Degenerate mortal ! and unread by thee ? The beam dim reason sheds shows wonders there; What high contents ! illustrious faculties ! But the grand comment, which displays at full Our human height, scarce sever'd from divine, By Heaven composed, was publish'd on the cross.

Who looks on that, and sees not in himself An awful stranger, a terrestrial god ? A glorious partner with the Deity In that high attribute, immortal life ? If a God bleeds, he bleeds not for a worm : I gaze, and, as I gaze, my mounting soul Catches strange fire, eternity ! at thee ; And drops the world—or rather, more enjoys. How changed the face of nature ! how improved !

NIGHT IV.

What seem'd a chaos shines a glorious world, Or, what a world, an Eden; heighten'd all ! It is another scene ! another self ! And still another, as time rolls along ; And that a self far more illustrious still. Beyond long ages, yet roll d up in shades Unpierc'd by bold conjecture's keenest ray, What evolutions of surprising fate ! How nature opens and receives my soul In boundless walks of raptured thought ! where gods Encounter and embrace me ! what new births Of strange adventure, foreign to the sun ; Where what now charms, perhaps, whate'er exists, Old time and fair creation, are forgot !

Is this extravagant ? of man we form Extravagant conception, to be just: Conception unconfined wants wings to reach him: Beyond its reach, the Godhead only, more. He, the great Father! kindled at one flame The world of rationals; one spirit pour'd From spirit?s awful fountain; pour'd Himself Through all their souls; but not in equal stream, Profuse, or frugal, of th' inspiring God, As his wise plan demanded; and, when pass'd Their various trials, in their various spheres, If they constitutes, and heir various spheres, If they continue rational, as made, Resorbs them all into Himself again; His throne their centre, and his smile their crown.

Why doubt we, then, the glorious truth to sing; Though yet unsung, as deem'd, perhaps, too bold ? Angels are men of a superior kind; Angels are celestial mountains wing'd in flight; And men are angels, loaded for an hour, Who wade this miry vale, and climb, with pain And slippery step, the bottom of the steep. Angels their failings, mortals have their praise; While here, of corps thereal, such enroll'd, And summon'd to the glorious standard soon, Which fines eternal crimson through the skies

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

Nor are our brothers thoughtless of their kin, Yet ab-ent; but not ab-ent from their love. MICHAEL has fought our battles; RAPHAEL sung Our triumphs; GABRIEL on our errands flown, Sent by the SoveReisor: and are these, O man ! Thy friends, thy warm allies 3 and thou (shame burn The cheek to cinder!) rival to the brute ?

Religion's all. Descending from the skies To wretched man, the goddess in her left Holds out this world, and in her right the next: Religion! the sole voucher man is man; Supporter sole of man above himself; Even in this night of frailty, change, and death, She gives the sonl a soul that acts a god. Religion! Providence! an after state! Here is firm footing; here is solid rock; This can support us; all is sea besides; Sinks under us; bestorms, and then devours. His hand the good man fastens on the skies, And bids earth roll, nor feels her idle whirl.

As when a wretch, from thick polluted air, Darkness, and stench, and suffocting damps, And dungeon horrors, by kind fate discharged, Climbs some fair eminence, where ether pure Surrounds him, and Elysian pro-pects rise; His heart exults, his spirits cast their load ; As if new-born, he triumphs in the change : So joys the soul, when from inglorious aims, And sordid sweets, from feculence and frolh Of ties terrestrial set at large, she mounts To reason's region, her own element, Breathes hopes immortal, and affects the skies,

Religion 1 thou the soul of happiness; And groaning Calvary, of thee! There shine The noblest truths; there strongest motives sting; There, sacred violence assaults the soul; There, nothing but compulsion is forborne. Can love allure us ? or can terror awe ? He weeps 1—the falling drop puts out the sun; He sighs 1—the sigh earth's deep foundation shakes.

NIGHT IV.

If, in his love so terrible, what then His wrath inflamed ? his tenderness on fire; Like soft, smooth oil, outblazing other fires ? Can prayer, can praise, avert it ?—Thou, my all ! My stength in age! my rise in low estate ! My soul's ambition, pleasure, wealth !—my world ! My light in darkness ! and my life in death ! My boast through time ! bliss through eternity ! Eternity, too short to speak thy praise ! Or fathom thy profound of love to man ! To man of men the meanest, even to me; My sacrifice ! my God !—what things are these !

What then art THOU ? by what name shall I call Knew I the name devout archangels use, [Thee ? Devout archangels should the name enjoy, By me unrivall'd; thousands more sublime, None half so dear as that which, though unspoke, Still glows at heart. Oh how omnipotence Is lost in love ! Thou great PHILANTHROPIST ! Father of angels! but the friend of man! Like JACOB, fondest of the younger-born ! Thou, who didst save him, snatch the smoking brand From out the flames, and quench it in thy blood ! How art thou pleased, by bounty to distress ! To make us groan beneath our gratitude, Too big for birth ! to favor and confound ; To challenge, and to distance all return ! Of lavish love's stupendous heights to soar, And leave praise panting in the distant vale ! Thy right too great defrauds thee of thy due; And sacrilegious our sublimest song. But since the naked will obtains thy smile. Beneath this monument of praise unpaid, And future life symphonious to my strain, (That noblest hymn to heaven !) for ever lie Entomb'd my fear of death ! and every fear, The dread of every evil, but Thy frown.

Whom see I yonder so demurely smile ? Laughter a labor, and might break their rest.

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

Ye quietists, in homage to the skies! Serene! of soft address! who mildly make An unobtrusive tender of your hearts, Abhorring violence! who halt indeed; But, for the blessing, wre the not with Heaven ? Think you my song too turbulent ? too warm } Are passions, then, the Pagans of the soul ? Reason alone baptized ? alone ordain'd To touch things sacred ? Oh, for warmer still ! Guilt chilts my zeal, and age beaunds my powers ; Oh for an humbler heart and prouder oug ! Thore, my much higured theme! with that soft eyee Which melted o'er doom'd Salem, deign to look Compassion to the coldness of my breast, And pardon to the winter in my strain.

O ye cold hearted, frozen formalists ! On such a theme 'tis impions to be calm; Passion is reason, transport temper here. Shall Heaven, which gave us ardor, and has shown Her own for man so strongly, not didadin What smooth emollients in theology, Recumbent virtue's downy doctors preach, That prose of piety, a lukewarm praise ? Rise odors sweet from incense uninflamed ? Devotion, when lukewarm, is undevont; But when it glows, its hert is struck to heaven : To human hearts her golden harps are strung; High heaven's orchestra chants Amen to man.

Hear 1. or dream I hear, their distant strain, Sweet to the soul, and tasting strong of heaven, Soft wafted on celestial pity's plume, Through the vast-paces of the universe, To cheer use in this melancholy gloom: Oh, when will death, (now stingless,) like a friend, Admit me of their choir? Oh, when will death This mouldering old partition-wall throw down? Give beings, one in nature, one abode ? O death divine! that givest us to the skies! Great future ! glorious patron of the past And present: when shall I thy shrine adore ?

NIGHT IV.

From nature's continent, immen 'ely wide, Immensely bless'd, this little isle of life, This dark incarcerating colony Divides us. Happy day! that breaks our chain: That manunits; that calls from exile home; That leads to nature's great metropolis, And readmits us, through the guardian hand Of elder brothers, to our Father's throne; Who hears our Advocate, and, through his wounds Beholding mun, allows that tender name. 'Tis this makes Christian triumph a command; This this makes ioy a duty to the wise:

Seest thou, LORENZO ! where hangs all our hope ? Touch'd by the cross, we live; or, more than die : That touch which touch'd not angels; more divine Than that which touch'd confusion into form, And darkness into glory; partial touch ! Ineffably pre-eminent regard !

Sacred to man, and sovereign through the whole Long golden chain of miracles, which hangs From heaven through all duration, and supports, In one illustrious and annazing plan,

Thy welfare, Nature ! and thy God's renown ; That touch, with charm celestial, heals the soul Diseased, drives pain from guit, lights life in death ; Turns earth to heaven ; to heavenly thrones trans-The rha thy ruins of the mouldering tounb. - forms

Dost ask ine when ?--When He who died returns; Returns, how changed ! Where then the man of woe? In glory's terrors all the Godhead burns ; And all his conrts, exhausted by the tide Of deities triumphant in his train, Leave a stupendous solitude in heaven ; Replenish'd soon, replenish'd with increase Of pomp and multitude ; a radiant band Of angels new ; of angels from the tomb.

Is this by fancy thrown remote ? and rise Dark doubts between the promise and event ? I send thee not to volumes for thy cure;

THE CHRISTIAN TRIUMPH.

Read Nature ; Nature is a friend to truth : Nature is Ochristian; preaches to Gankind! And bids dead matter aid us in our creed. Hast thou ne'er seen the comet's flaming flight ? The illustrious stranger, pa-sion, terror sheds On gazing nations, from his fiery train, Of length enormous; takes his ample round Through depths of ether; coasts unnumber'd worlds, Of more than solar glory; doubles wide Heaven's mighty cape; and then revisits earth, From the long travel of a thousand years. Thas, at the destined period, shall return HE, once on earth, who bids the comet blaze; And, with Hinn, all our triunnph of er the tomb.

Nature is dumb on this important point; Or hope precarious in low whisper breathes: Fuith speaks aloud, distinct; even adders hear; But turn, and dart into the dark again. Fuith builds a bridge across the gulf of death, To break the shock blind nature cannot shun, And lands thought smoothly on the further shore, Death's terror is the mountain faith removes; That mountain-barrier between man and peace. This faith disarms destruction; and absolves, From every clamorous charge, the guilless tomb.

Why disbelieve ? LOREXZO ! "Reason bids, All sacred reason."—Hold her sacred still ; Nor shalt thou want a rival in thy flame. All sacred reason ! source, and soul, of all Demanding praise, on earth, or earth above ! My heart is thine : deep in its inmost folds, Live thou with life ; live dearer of the two. Wear I the blessed cross, by fortune stamp'd On passive Nature, before thought was born ? My birth's bind bigot! fired with local zeal! No ; reason re-baptized me when adult ; Weigh'd true, and false, in her impartial scale : My heart became the convert of my head ; And made that choice which once was but my fate. "On argument elone my faith is built."

NIGHT IV.

Reason pursued is faith : and, unpursued, Where proof inviges, 'this reason them no more : And such our proof, that, or our faith is right, Or reason lies, and Heaven design'd it wrong. Absolve we this ? What, then, is blasphemy ?

Fond as we are, and justly fond, of faith, Reason, we grant, deminds our first regard ; The mother honor'd, as the daughter dear. Reason the root ; fair faith is but the flower : The fading flower shall die ; but reason lives Immortal, as her Father in the skies. When faith is virtue, reason makes it so. Wrong not the Christian; think not reason yours; 'Tis reason our great Master holds so dear; 'Tis reason's injured rights his wrath resents; "Tis reason's voice obey'd his glories crown ; To give lost reason life, He pour'd his own. Believe, and show the reason of a man ; Believe, and taste the pleasure of a God; Believe, and look with triumph on the tomb. Through reason's wounds alone thy fiith can die: Which dying tenfold terror gives to death, And dips in venom his twice mortal sting.

Learn hence what honors, what loud pæans, due To those who push our antidote aside ; Those boasted friends to reason, and to man, Whose fatal love stabs every joy, and leaves Death's terror heighten'd, gnawing on his heart. These pompous sons of reason, idolized And vilified at once; of reason dead, Then deified, as monarchs were of old ; What conduct plants proud laurels on their brow ? While love of truth through all their camp resounds, They draw pride's curtain o'er the noontide ray. Spike up their inch of reason, on the point Of philosophic wit, called argument; And then, exulting in their taper, cry, "Behold the sun !" and, Indian like, adore. Talk they of morals ! O thou bleeding Love ! Thou maker of new morals to mankind !

The grand morality is love of Thee. As wise as Socrates, if such there were (Nor will they bate of that sublime remown,) As wise as Socrates might justly stand The definition of a modern fool.

A CHRISTIAN is the highest style of man. And is there, who the blessed cross wipes off, As a foul blot from his dishonored brow ? If angels tremble, 'tis at such a sight: The wretch they quit, de-ponding of their charge More struck with grief, or wonder, who can tell ?

Ye sold to sense! ye citizens of earth! (For such alone the Ubristian braner fly,) Know ye how wise your choice, how great your gain? Behold the picture of earth's happiest mun: "He calls his wish, it comest, he sends it back, And says, he call'd another; that arrives, Meets the same welcome; yet he still calls on; Till one calls him, who varies not his call, But holds him fast, in chains of darkness bound Till nature d.es, and judgment sets him free; A freedom far less welcome than his chain."

But grant man happy; grant him happy long; Add to life's highest prize her latest hour; That hour, so late, is nimble in approach. That, like a post, comes on in full career. How swift the shuttle flies that weaves thy shroud ! Where is the fable of thy former years ? Thrown down the gulf of time; as far from thee As they had ne'er been thine : the day in hand, Like a bird struggling to get loose, is going; Scarce now possess'd, so suddenly 'tis gone ; And each swift moment fled is death advanced By strides as swift. Eternity is all ! And whose eternity? Who triumphs there ? Bathing for ever in the font of bliss ? For ever basking in the Deity ! LORENZO ! who ?- Thy conscience shall reply.

O, give it leave to speak; 'twill speak ere long, Thy leave unask'd: LORENZO ! hear it now,

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT IV

While useful its advice, its accent mild. By the great edict, the divine decree, Truth is deposited with man's last hour : An honest hour, and faithful to her trust. Truth, eldest daughter of the Deity : Truth, of his council, when he made the worlds : Nor less, when he shall judge the worlds he made : Though silent long, and sleeping ne'er so sound, Smother'd with errors, and oppress'd with toys. That Heaven-commission'd hour no sooner calls. But from her cavern in the soul's abyss, Like him they fable under Ætna whelm'd. The goddess bursts in thunder and in flame : Loudly convinces, and severely pains. Dark demons I discharge, and Hydra stings ; The keen vibration of bright Truth-is hell: Just definition ! though by schools untaught. Ye deaf to truth ! peruse this parson'd page, And trust, for once, a prophet and a priest; "Men may live fools, but fools they cannot die."

68

Night the Fifth.

THE RELAPSE.

TO THE RIGHT HON. THE EARL OF LITCHFIELD.

LORENZO ! to recriminate is just. Fondness for fame is avarice of air. I grant, the man is vain who writes for praise : Praise no man e'er deserved, who sought no more.

As just thy second charge. I grant the muse Has often blush'd at her degenerate sons, Retain'd by sense to plead her filthy cause; To raise the low, to magnify the mean, And subtilize the gross into refined : As if to magic numbers' powerful charm 'Twas given, to make a civet of their song Obscene, and sweeten ordure to perfume. Wit, a true Pagan, deifies the brute, And lifts the swine enjoyments from the mire.

The fact notorious, hor obscure the cause. We wear the chains of pleasure and of pride. These share the man; and these distract him too; Draw different ways, and clash in their commands. Pride, like an eagle, builds among the stars; But pleasure, lurklike, nests upon the ground. Joys shared by brute creation, pride resents; Pleasure embraces: man would both enjoy, And both at once: a point so hard, how gain ! But what can't wit, when stung by strong desire ?

Wit dares attempt this ardnous enterprise. Since joys of sense can't rise to reason's taste, In subtle sophistry's laborious forge, Wit hammers out a reason new, that stoops To sordid scenes and greets them with applause,

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT V.

Wit calls the graces the chaste zone to loose : Nor less than a plump god to fill the bowl : A thousand phantoms, and a thousand spells, A thousand opiates scatters, to delude, To fascinate, inebriate, lay asleep, And the fool'd mind delightfully confound. [more ; Thus that which shock'd the judgment shocks no That which gave pride offence no more offends. Pleasure and pride, by nature, mortal foes, At war eternal, which in man shall reign, By wit's address, patch up a fatal peace, And hand in hand lead on the rank debauch. From rank refined to delicate and gay. Art, cursed art ! wipes off the indebted blush From nature's cheek, and bronzes every shame. Man smiles in ruin, glories in his guilt; And infamy stands candidate for praise.

All writ by man in favor of the soul, These sensual ethics far in bulk transcend, The flowers of eloquence, profusely pour'd O'er spotted vice, fill half the letter'd world. Can powers of genius exercise their page, And consecrate enormities with song ?

But let not these inexpiable strains Condemn the muse that knows her dignity; Nor meanly stops at time, but holds the world As 'fis, in nature's ample field, a point, A point in her esteem; from whence to start And run the round of universal space, To visit being universal there, And being's Source, that tumost flight of mind !

And being s source, that utilities ingred of mind; Yet spite of this so vast circumference, Well knows, but what is moral, nought is great, Sing Syrens only? Do not angels sing? There is in poesy a decent pride, Which well becomes her when she speaks to prose,

Her younger sister; haply, not more wise.

Think'st thou, LORENZO ! to find pastimes here ? No guilty passion blown into a flame, No foible flatter'd, dignity disgraced,

No fairy field of fiction all on flower, No rainbow colors here, or silken tale; But solemn connsels, images of awe, Truths, which eternity lets fall on mun With double weight, through the se revolving spheres, This death-deep silence, and incambent shade : Thoughts such as shall revisit your last hour; Visit uncall'd, and live when life expires: And thy dark pencil, midnight! darker still In metvancholy dipp'd, imbrowns the whole.

Yet this, even this, my laughter-loving friends ! LORENZO ! and thy brothers of the smile ! If what imports you most can most engage, Shall steal your ear, and chain you to my song. Or if you fail me, know, the wise shall taste The truths I sing; the truths I sing shall feel; And, feeling, give assent; and their assent Is ample recompense, is more than praise: But chiefly thine, O LITCHFIELD ! nor mistake ; Think not unintroduced I force my way : NARCISSA, not unknown, not unallied, By virtue or by blood, illustrious youth ! To thee, from blooming amaranthine bowers, Where all the language Harmony, descends Uncall'd, and asks admittance for the muse; A muse that will not pain thee with thy praise: Thy praise she drops, by nobler still inspired.

O thou, bless'd Spirit: whether the supreme, Great antenundane Father! in whose breast Embryo creation, unborn being, dwelt, And all its varions revolutions roll'd Present, though future; prior to themselves; Whose breath can blow it into nonght again; Or, from Hist throne some delegated power, Who, studious of our peace, dost turn the thought From vain and vile, to solid and sublime! Unseen thou lead'st me to delicious draughts Of inspiration, from a purer stream, And fuller of the god than that which burst From fame Casatajis; nor is yet allay'd

NIGHT V.

My sacred thirst; though long my soul has ranged Through pleasing paths of moral and divine, By Thee sustain'd, and lighted by the stars.

By them best lighted are the paths of thought; Nights are their days, their most illumined hours. By day, the soul, o'erlorne by life's career, Stunn'd by the din, and giddy with the glare, Reels far from reason, jostled by the throng. By day the soul is passive, all her thoughts Imposed, precarious, broken ere mature. By night, from objects free, from passion cool, Thoughts uncontroll'd and unimpress'd, the births Of pure election, arbitrary range. Not to the limits of one world confined; But from ethereal travels light on earth, As voyagers drop anchor, for repose.

Let Indians, and the gay, like Indians, fond Of feather'd fopperies, the sun adore : Darkness has more divinity for me ; It strikes thought inward ; it drives back the soul To settle on herself, our point supreme! There lies our theatre ; there sits our judge. Darkness the curtain drops o'er life's dull scene 'Tis the kind hand of 'Providence stretch'd out 'Twixt man and vanity ; 'tis reason's reign, And virtue's too : these tutelary shades Are man's asylum from the twinted throng! Night is the good man's friend and guardian too; It no less rescues virtue than inspires.

Virtue, for ever frail, as fair, below, Her tender nature suffers in the crowd, Nor touches on the world without a stain : The world's infectious ; few bring back at eve, Immaculate, the manners of the morn. Something we thought is blotted ; we resolved, Is shaken ; we renounced, returns again. Each salutation may slide in a sin Unthought before, or fix a former flaw. Nor is it strange : light, motion, concourse, noise, All scatter us abroad ; thought, ontward bound, Neglectful of her home affairs, flies off In tume and dissipation, quits her charge, And leaves the breast unguarded to the foe.

Present example gets within our guard, And acts with double force by few repell'd Ambition fires ambition : love of gain Strikes like a pestilence, from breast to breast. Riot, pride, perfidy, blue vapours breathe; And inhumanity is caught from man, From smiling man. A slight, a single glance, And shot at random, often has brought home A sudden fever to the throbbing heart, Of envy, rancour, or impure desire. We see, we hear, with peril; safety dwells Remote from multitude; the world's a school Of wrong, and what proficients swarm around We must or imitate or disapprove ; Must list as their accomplices or foes: That stains our innocence ; this wounds our peace. From nature's birth, hence, wisdom has been smit, With sweet recess, and languish'd for the shade.

This sacred shade and solitude, what is it ? 'Tis the felt presence of the Deity. Few are the faults we flatter when alone. Vice sinks in her allurements, as ungilt, And looks, like other objects, black by night. By night, an atheist half believes a God.

Night is fair virtue's immemorial friend: The conscious moon, through every distant age, Has held a lamp to wisdom, and let fall On contemplation's eye her purging ray. The famed Athenian, he who woo'd from heaven Philosophy the fair, to dwell with men, And form their manners, not inflame their pride; While o'er his head as fearful to molest His laboring mind, the stars in silence slide, And seem all gazing on their future guest. See him soliciting his ardent suit In private audience: all the livelong night, Rigid in thought, and motionless he stands;

NIGHT V.

Nor quits his theme or posture till the sun (Rude drunkard, rising rosy from the main!) Disturbs his nobler intellectual beam, And gives him to the tunualt of the world. [waste

Hail, precious incoments! stolen from the black Of murder'd time! auspicious midnight! hail! The world excluded, every passion hush'd, And open'd a calm intercourse with heaven, Here the soul sits in council; ponders past, Predestines future action; sees, not feels, Tumultuous life, and reasons with the storm; All her lies answers, and thinks down her charms

What awful joy! what mental liberty! I am not pent in darkness; rather say (If not too bold.) in darkness I'm embower'd. Delightful gloom ! the clustering thoughts around Spontaneous rice, and blosson in the shade; But droop by day, and sicken in the sun. Thought borrows ilght el-ewhere; from that first fire, Fountain of animation ! whence descends URANA, my celestial guest! who deigns Nightly to visit me, so mean; and now, Conscious how needful discipline to man, From plensing doillance with the charms of night, My wandering thought recalls, to what excites Far other beat of heart ; NARCISSA's tomb !

Or is it feehle nature calls me back, And breaks my spirit into grief again ? Is it a Stygian vapor in my blood ? A cold, slow puddle creeping through my veins ? Or is it thus with all unen ?—Thus with all. What are we ? How unequal ! now we soar, And now we sink ; to be the same transcends Our present prowess. Dearly pays the soul For lodging ill ; too dearly rents her clay. Reason, a baffled counsellor ! but adds The blu-th of weakness to the banc of woe. The noblext spirit fighting her hard fate, In this damp, dusky region, charged with storms, But feebly flutters, yet untaught to fly ; Or, flying, short her flight, and sure her fall. Our utmost strength, when down, to rise again; And not to yield, though beaten, all our praise.

'Tis vain to seek in men for more than man. Though proud in promise, big in previous thought, Experience damps our triumph. I, who late, Emerging from the shadows of the grave, Where grief detain'd me prisoner, mounting high, Threw wide the gates of everlasting day, And call'd mankind to glory, shook off pain, Mortality shook off, in ether pure, And struck the stars; now feel my spirits fail :

They drop me from the zenith; down I rush, Like him whom fable fledged with waxen wings, In sorrow drown'd—but not in sorrow lost. How wretched is the man who never mourn'd! I dive for precious pearl in sorrow's stream: Not so the thoughtless man that only grieves; Takes all the torment and rejects the gain, (Inestimable gain!) and gives heaven leave To make him but nore wretched, not more wise.

If wisdom is our less on, (and what else Ennobles man ? what else have angels learn'd ?) Grief? more proficients in thy school are made Than genius or proud learning e'er could boast. Voracious learning, often overled, Digests not into sense her motley meal. This bookcase, with dark booty almost burst, This forager on others' wisdom, leaves Her native form, her reason, quite untill'd. With mix'd manure she surficts the rank soil, Dung'd, but not dress'd ; and, rich to beggary, A pomp untameable of weeds prevails. Her servaut's weidth encumber'd wisdom mourns,

And what says genius ! " Let the d ull be wise." Genius, too hard for right, can prove it wrong; And love to boast, where blush men less inspired, It pleads exemption from the laws of sense; Considers reason as a leveller; And scorns to share a blessing with the crowd,

NIGHT V.

That wise it could be, thinks an ample claim To glory, and to pleasure gives the rest. CRASSUS but sleeps, ARDELIO is undone. Wisdon less shudders at a fool than wit.

But wisdom smiles when humbled mortals weep. When sorrow wounds the breast, as ploughs the glebe, And hearts obdurate feel her softening shower ? Her seed celestial, then, glad wisdom sows : Her golden harvest triumphs in the soil. If so, NARCISSA ! welcome my relapse ; I'll raise a tax on my calamity, And reap rich compensation from my pain. I'll range the plenteous intellectual field ; And gather every thought of sovereign power To chase the moral maladies of man: Thoughts which may bear transplanting to the skies. Though natives of this coarse penurious soil : Nor wholly wither there, where seraphs sing, Refined, exalted, not annull'd, in heaven. Reason, the sun that gives them birth, the same In either clime, though more illustrious there. These choicely cull'd, and elegantly ranged, Shall form a garland for NARCISSA's tomb: And, peradventure, of no fading flowers,

Say, on what themes shall puzzled choice descend, "The importance of contemplating the tomb! Why men decline it; suicide's fond birth; The various kind of grief; the faults of age; And death's dread character—invite my song."

And first, the importance of our end survey'd. Friends counsel quick dismission of our grief: Mistaken kindness! our hearts heal too soon. Are they more kind than he who struck the blow ? Who bid it do his errand in our hearts, And banish peace, till nobler guests arrive, And bring it back a true and endless peace ? Calamities are friends: as glaring day Of these unnumber'd lustres robs our sight; Prosperity puts out unnumber'd thoughts Of import high, and light divine, to man,

The man how bless'd, who, sick of gaudy scenes, (Scenes apt to thrust between us and ourselves !) Is led by choice to take his favorite walk, Beneath death's gloomy, silent, cypress shades, Unpierced by vanity's fantastic ray; To read his monuments, to weigh his dust, Visit his vaults, and dwell among the tombs ! LORENZO ! read with me NARCISSA's stone ; (NARCISSA was thy favorite ;) let us read Her moral stone; few doctors preach so well; Few orators so tenderly can touch The feeling heart. What pathos in the date ! Apt words can strike; and yet in them we see Faint images of what we here enjoy. What cause have we to build on length of life? Temptations seize when fear is laid asleep; And ill foreboded is our strongest guard.

See, from her tomb, as from an humble shrine, Truth, radiant goddess ! sallies on my soul, And puts delusion's dusky train to flight; Dispels the mists our sultry passions raise From objects low, terrestrial, and obscene; And shows the real estimate of things; Which no man, unafflicted, ever saw; Pulls off the veil from virtue's rising charms: Detects temptation in a thousand lies. Truth bids me look on men as autumn leaves ; And all they bleed for as the summer's dust, Driven by the whirlwind: lighted by her beams, I widen my horizon, gain new powers, See things invisible, feel things remote, Am present with futurities; think nought To man so foreign as the joys possess'd; Nought so much his as those beyond the grave.

No folly keeps its color in her sight: Pale worldly wisdom loses all her charms; In pompons promise for her schemes profound, If future fate she plans 'tis all in leaves, Like Sibyl, unsubstantial, fleeting bliss! At the first blast it vanishes in air.

NIGHT V.

Not so, celestial. Wouldst thou know, LORENZO ? How differ worldly wisdom, and divine ? Just as the waning and the waxing moon. More empty worldly wisdom every day ; And every day more fair her rival shines. When later, there's less time to play the fool. Soon our whole term for wisdom is expired, (Thou know'st she calls no council in the grave ;) And everlasting fool is writ in fire, Or real wisdom wafts us to the skies.

As worldly schemes resemble Sibyl's leaves, The good man's days to Sibyl's books compare, (In ancient story read, thou know'st the tale,) In price still rising as in number less, Inestimable quite his final hour. For that who thrones can offer, offer thrones; Insolvent worl's the purchase cannot pay. "Oh, let me die his death." all nature cries. "Then live his life."—All nature falters there. Our great physician daily to consult, To commune with the grave our only curé.

What grave prescribes the best ?—A friend's : and From a friend's grave how soon we disengage! [yet, Even to the dearest, as his marble, cold, Why are friends ravished from us ? "Tis to bind, By soft affection's ties, on human hearts, The thought of death, which reason, too supine Or misemploy'd, so rarely fastens there. Nor reason nor affection, no, nor both Combined, can break the witcherafts of the world. Behold, the inexorable hour at hand ! Behold, the inexorable hour forgot ! And to forget it the chief aim of life; Though well to ponder it is life's chief end.

Is death, that ever threatening, ne'er remote, That all important, and that only sure, (Come when he will.) an unexpected guest ? Nay, though invited by the londest calls Of blind imprudence, unexpected still; Though numerous messengers are sent before,

To warn his great arrival. What the cause, The wondrous cause of this mysterions ill? All heaven looks down astonish'd at the sight.

Is it, that life has sown her joys so thick, We can't thrust in a single care between ? Is it, that life has such a swarm of cares, The thought of death can't enter for the throng ? Is it, that time steals on with downy feet, Nor, wakes indulgence from her golden dream ? To-day is so like yesterday, it cheats; We take the lying sister for the same. Life glides away, LORENZO ! like a brook ; For ever changing unperceived the change. In the same brook none ever bathed him twice : To the same life none ever twice awoke. We call the brook the same ; the same we think Our life, though still more rapid in its flow : Nor mark the much irrevocably lapsed, And mingled with the sea. Or shall we say (Retaining still the brook to bear us on,) That life is like a vessel on the stream ! In life embark'd, we smoothly down the tide Of time descend, but not on time intent : Amused, unconscious of the gliding wave; Till on a sudden we perceive a shock : We start, awake, look out, what see we there ? Our brittle bark is burst on Charon's shore.

Is this the cause death flies all human thought? Or is it judgment by the will struck blind, That domineering mistress of the soul ! Like hum so strong, by Dalilah the fair ? Or is it fear turns sturtled reason back, From looking down a precipice so steep ? 'Tis dreadful; and the dread is wisely placed, By nature conscious of the make of man. A dreadful friend it is, a terror kind, A flaming sword to guard the tree of life. By that unawed, in life's most smiling hour, The good man would repine; would suffer joys, And burn impatient for his promised skies.

THE COMPLAINT.

The bad, on each punctilious pique of pride, Or gloom of humor, would give rage the rein; Bound o'er the barrier, rush into the dark, And mar the schemes of Providence below.

What groan was that, LORENZO ?--Furies ! rise ; And drown in your less exectable yell, Britannia's shame. There took her gloomy flight, On wing impetuous, a black sullen soul, Blasted from hell, with horrid lust of death. Thy friend, the brave, the gullant ALTAMONT, So call'd, so thought--and then he fled the field. Less base the fear of death than fear of life. O Britain, infamous for suicide ! An island in thy manners! fur disjoin'd From the whole world of rationals beside ! In ambient waves plange thy polluted head, Wash the dire stain, nor shock the continent.

But thou be shock'd, while I detect the eause Of self-assault, expose the monster's birth, And bid abhorrence hiss it round the world. Blame not thy clime, nor chide the distant sun; The sun is innocent, thy clime absolved : Immoral climes kind nature never made. The cause I sing, in Eden nlight prevail; And proves, it is thy folly, not thy fate.

The soul of man, (let man in homage bow, Who names his soul,) a native of the skies! High-born, and free, her freedom should maintain, Unsold, unmortgaged for earth's little bribes. Th' illustrious stranger, in this foreign land, Like strangers, jealous of her dignity, Studious of home, and ardent to return, Of earth suspicious, earth's enchanted cup With cool reserve light touching, should indulge On immortality her godlike taste; [there. There take large draughts; make her chief banquet

But some reject this sustenance divine; To beggarly vile appetites descend; Ask aims of earth, for guests that came from heaven; Sink into slaves; and sell, for present hire, Their rich reversion, and (what shares its fate) Their native freedom, to the prince who sways This nether world. And when his payments fail, When his foul basket gorges then no more, Or their pall'd palates loaithe the basket full; Are instantly, with wild demoniac rage, For breaking all the chains of Providence, And bursting their confinement; though fast barr'd By laws divine and human; guarded strong With horrors doubled to defend the pass, The blackest nature or dire guilt can raise; And moated round with fathouless destruction, Sure to receive, and whelm them in their fall.

Such, Britons' is the cause, to you anknown, Or worse, o'erlook'd; o'erlook'd by magistrates, Thus criminals themselves. I grant the deed Is madness; but the madness of the heart. And what is that 3 Our atmost bound of guilt. A sensual, unreflecting life is big With monstrous births; and suicide, to crown The black infernal brood. The bold to break Heaven's law supreme, and desperately rush, Herwen's law supreme, and desperately rush, Because they never think of death, they die. "The squally mem's duty, glory, gun, At once to shun, and mediatte his end.

When by the bed of languishment we sit, (The seat of wisdow 1 if our choice, not fate,) Or, o'er our dying friends in anguish hang, Wipe the cold dew, or stay the sinking head, Number their moments, and, in every clock, Start at the voice of an eternity; See the dim lamp of life just feebly fift An agonizing beam, at us to gaze, Then sink again, and quiver into death, That most pathetic herald of our own; How read we such sad scenes ? as sent to man In perfect venceance ? No; in pity sent, To melt him down, like wax, and then impress, Indelible, death's image on his heart;

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT V.

Bleeding for others, trembling for himself. We bleed, we tremble, we forget, we smile. The mind turns iool before the cheek is dry. Our quick returning folly cancels all; As the tide rushing razes what is writ In yielding sands, and smooths the letter'd shore.

LORENZO ! has' thou ever weigh'd a sigh ? Or studied the philosophy of texrs ? (A science, yet unlectured in our schools !) Hast thou descended deep into the breast, And seen their source ? If not, de-cend with me, And trace these briny riv'lets to their springs.

Our funeral tears from different causes rise, As if from separate cisterns in the soul, Of various kinds they flow. From tender hearts, By soft contagion call'd, some burst at once. And stream obsequious to the leading eye. Some ask more time, by curious art distill'd. Some hearts, in secret hard, unapt to melt. Struck by the magic of the public eye, Like Moses' smitten rock, gush out amain. Some weep to share the fame of the deceased. So high in merit, and to them so dear: They dwell on praises which they think they share; And thus, without a blush, commend themselves. Some mourn, in proof that something they could love: They weep not to relieve their grief, but show. Some weep in perfect justice to the dead, As conscious all their love is in arrear. Some mischievously weep, not unapprized, Tears, sometimes, aid the conquest of an eve. With what address the soft Ephesians draw Their sable net-work o'er entangled hearts ! As seen through crystal, how their roses glow, While liquid pearl runs trinkling down their cheek! Of hers not prouder Egypt's wanton queen, Carousing gems, herself dissolved in love. Some weep at death, abstracted from the dead, And celebrate, like CHARLES, their own decease, By kind construction some are deem'd to weep,

Because a decent veil conceals their joy. Some weep in earnest, and yet weep in vain As deep in indiscretion as in wee. Passion, blind passion ! impotently pours Tears, that deserve more tears ; while reason sleeps; Or gazes like an idiot, unconcern'd; Nor comprehends the meaning of the storm : Knows not it speaks to her, and her alone. Irrationals all sorrow are beneath, That noble gift! that privilege of man ! From sorrow's pang, the birth of endless joy. But these are barren of that birth divine : They weep impetuous as the summer storm. And full as short ! The cruel grief soon tamed. They make a pastime of the stingless tale; Far as the deep-resounding knell, they spread The dreadful news, and hardly feel it more. No grain of wisdom pays them for their woe. Half round the globe, the tears pump'd up by death, Are spent in watering vanities of life; In making folly flourish still more fair. When the sick soul, her wonted stay withdrawn, Reclines on earth, and sorrows in the dust;

Instead of learning, there, her true support, Though there thrown down her true support to learn, Without heaven's aid, impatient to be bless'd, She crawls to the next shrub, or bramble vile, Though from the stately cedar's arms she fell; With state, forsworn embraces, clings anew, The stranger weds, and blossoms, as before, In all the fruitless fopperies of life: Presents her weed, well fancied, at the ball, And raffles for the death's-head on the ring.

So wept AUREDA, till the destined youth Stepp'd in, with his receipt for making smiles, And blanching sables into bridal bloom. So wept LOREXEO fair Clarissa's fate; Who gave that angel boy, on whom he dotes; And died to give him, orphan'd in his birth ! Not such, NARCISSA, my distress for thee.

NIGHT V

I'll make an altar of thy sacred tomb, To sacrifice to wi-dom. What wast thou ? "Young, gay, and fortunate !" Each yields a theme I'll dwell on each, to shun thought more severe; (Heaven knows I labor with severer still !) I'll dwell on each, and quite exhaust thy death, A soul without reflection, like a pile Without inhabitant, to ruin runs.

And, first, thy youth. What says it to grey hairs ? NARCISSA, I'm become thy pupil now-Early, bright, transient, chaste, as morning dew, She sparkled, was exhaled, and went to heaven. Time on this head has snow'd; yet still 'tis borne Aloft: nor thinks but on another's grave. Cover'd with shame I speak it, age severe Old worn-out vice sets down for virtue fair; With graceless gravity chastising youth, That youth chastised surpassing in a fault, Father of all, forgetfulness of death : As if, like objects pressing on the sight, Death had advanced too near us to be seen: Or, that life's loan, time ripen'd into right, And men might plead prescription from the grave: Deathless, from repetition of reprieve. Deathless? far from it! such are dead already : Their hearts are buried, and the world their grave. Tell me, some god ! my guardian angel ! tell, What thus infatuates ! what enchantment plants The phantom of an age 'twixt us and death, Already at the door ? He knocks, we hear, And yet we will not hear. What mail defends Our untouch'd hearts ? What miracle turns off The pointed thought, which from a thousand quivers Is daily darted, and is daily shunn'd ? We stand, as in a battle, throngs on throngs Around us falling; wounded oft ourselves; Though bleeding with our wounds, immortal still! We see time's furrows on another's brow, And death, intrench'd, preparing his assault : How few themselves in that just mirror, see !

Or, seeing, draw their inference as strong ! There death is certain ; doubtful here : he must, And soon : we may, within an age, expire. [green ; Though grey our heads, our thoughts and aims are Like damaged clocks, whose hand and bell dissent ; Folly sing; six, while nature points at twelve. Absurd longevity ! More, more, it cries ; More life, more wealth, more trash of every kind. And wherefore mad for more, when relish fails ? Object, and appetite, must club for joy : Shall folly labor hard to mend the bow, Baubles, I mean, that strike us from without. While nature is relaxing every string ? Ask thought for joy; grow rich, and hoard within. Think you the soul, when this life's rattles cease, Has nothing of more manly to succeed ? Contract the taste immortal ; learn, even now, To relish what alone subsists hereafter : Divine, or none, henceforth your joys for ever. Of age the glory is, to wish to die. That wish is praise, and promise; it applauds Past life, and promises our future bliss. What weakness see not children in their sires ? Grand-climacterical absurdities ! Grey-hair d authority, to faults of youth, How shocking ! It in thes folly thrice a fool : And our first childhood might our last despise. Peace and esteem is all that age can hope. Nothing but wisdom gives the first ; the last, Nothing, but the repute of being wise. Folly bars both; our age is quite undone. What folly can be ranker ? Like our shadows.

What folly can be ranker ? Like our shadows, Our wi-he: lengthen as our sun declines. No wish should loiter, then, this side the grave. Our hearts should leave the world, before the knell Calls for our carcasses to mend the soil. Enough to live in tempest, die in port; Age should fly concour-e, cover in retreat Defects of judgment, and the will subdue; Walk thoughtful on the silent solemn shore Of that vast ocean it must sail so soon; And put good works on board; and wait the wind That shortly blows us into worlds unknown: If unconsidered too, a dreadful scene!

All should be prophets to themselves; foresee Their future fate; their future fate foretaste; This art would waste the bitterness of death. The thought of death alone the fear destroys. A disaffection to that precious thought Is more than midnight darkness on the soul, Which sleeps beneath it, on a precipice, Puffd off by the first blast, and lost for ever.

Dost ask, LORENZO, why so warmly press'd, By repetition hummer'd on thine ear, The thought of death ? that thought is the machine, The grand machine ! that heaves us from the dust, And rears us into men. That thought plied home, Will soon reduce the ghastly precipice O'erhanging hell, will soften the descent, And gently slope our passage to the grave ; How warmly to be wish'd! what heart of flesh Would triffe with tremendous ? dare extremes ? Yawn o'er the fate of infinite ? What hand, Beyond the blackest brand of censure hold, (To speak a language too well known to thee,) Would at a moment give its all to chance, And stamp the die for an eternity ?

Aid me, NARCISA! aid me to keep pace With destiny; and ere her scissors cut My thread of life, to break this tougher thread Of moral death, that ties me to the world. Sting thon my slumbering reason to send forth A thought of observation on the foe; To sally and survey; the rapid march Of his ten thousand messengers to man; Who JEHT-ike, behind him turns them all. All accident apart, by nature sign'd, My warrant is gone out, though dormant yet: Perhaps behind one moment lurks my fate. Must I then forward only look for death ?

Backward I turn mine eye, and find him there. Man is a self-survivor every year. Man, like a stream, is in perpetual flow. Death's a destroyer of quotidian prey. My youth, my noontide, his ; my yesterday; The bold invader shares the present hour. Each moment on the former shuts the grave. While man is growing, life is in decrease ; And cradles rock us nearer to the tomb. Our birth is nothing but our death begun; As tapers waste that instant they take fire. Shall we then fear, lest that should come to pass, Which comes to pass each moment of our lives ? If fear we must, let that death turn us pale Which murders strength and ardor; what remains Should rather call on death than dread his call. Ye partners of my fault, and my decline ! Thoughtless of death but when your neighbor's knell (Rude visitant!) knocks hard at your dull sense. And with its thunder scarce obtains your ear! Be death your theme in every place and hour; Nor longer want, ye monumental sires. A brother tomb to tell you you shall die. That death you dread (so great is nature's skill !) Know you shall court before you shall enjoy. But you are learn'd; in volumes deep you sit;

Would you he reall at a fit of the steep you sit; In wisdom shallow. Pompous ignorance ! Would you be still more learned than the learn'd ? Learn well to know how much need not be known, And what that knowledge which impairs your sense. Our needful knowledge, like our needful food, Unhedged, lies open in life's common field : And bids all welcome to the vital feast. You scorn what lies before you in the page Of nature and experience, moral truth ; Of indispensable, eternal fruit; Fruit, on which mortals feeding turn to gods ; And dive in science for distinguished names, Disknonest fomentation of your pride ; Sinking in wirtue, as you rise in fame.

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT V.

Your learning, like the lunar beam, affords Light, but not heat; it leaves you undevout, Frozen at heart, while speculation shines. Awake, ye curious indigators ! fond Of knowing all, but what avails you known. If you would learn death's character, attend : All custs of conduct, all degrees of health, All dyes of fortune, and all dates of age, Together shook in his impartial ura, Come forth at random ; or, if choice is made, The choice is quite sarcastic, and insults All blod conjecture and fond hopes of man. What countless multitudes not only leave, But deeply disappoint us, by their deaths ! Though great our sorrow, greater our surprise.

Like other tyrants, denti delights to smite What, smitten, most proclaims the pride of power, And arbitrary nod. His joy supreme, To bid the wretch survive the fortunate : The feelbe wrap the athletic in his shroud; And weeping fathers build their children's tomb; Me thine, NARCISA !—What, though short thy date? Virtue, not rolling suns, the mind matures. That life is long which answers life's great end. The time that bears no fruit deserves no name; The man of wisdom is the man of years. In hoary youth METHCSALEMS may die; Oh, how misdated on their flattering tombs !

NARCISSA'S youth hath lectured me thus far. And can her gaiety give coursel too ? That, like the Jews' famed oracle of gems, Sparkles instruction; such as throws new light, And opens more the character of death; Ill known to thee, LORENZO! This thy vaunt: "Give death his due, the wretched, and the old; E'en let him sweep his rubbish to the grave : Let hiun not violate kind nature's laws, But own man born to live, as well as die." Wretched and old thou givest him; young and gay. Hé takes; and plunder is a tyrant's joy.

What if I prove, "The furthest from the fear, Are often nearest to the stroke, of fate ?" All, more than common, menaces an end. A braze betokens brevity of life ; As it bright embers should emit a flame, Glad spirits sparkled from NARCISSA's eye, And made youth younger, and trught life to live. As nature's opposites wage endless war, For this offence, as treason to the deep Inviolable stupor of his reign, Where lust and turbulent ambition sleep, Death took swift vengeance. As he life detests, More life is still more odious; and, reduced By conquest, aggrandizes more his power. But wherefore aggrandized ? By Heaven's decree, To plant the soul on her eternal guard, In awful expectation of our end. Thus runs death s dread commission : "Strike, but so As most alarms the living by the dead." Hence stratagem delights him, and surprise, And cruel sport with man's securities. Not sumple conquest, triumph is his aim ; And, where least fear'd their conquest triumphs This proves my bold assertion not too bold. What are his arts to lay our fears asleep ? Tiberian arts his purposes wrap up In deep di simulation's darkest night. Like princes unconfess'd in foreign courts, Who travel under cover, death assumes The name and look of life, and dwells among us. He takes all shapes that serve his black designs; Though master of a wider empire far Than that o'er which the Roman eagle flew : Like Nero, he's a fiddler, charioteer, Or drives his pheaton in female guise ; Quite unsuspected, till, the wheel beneath, His disarray'd oblation he devours. He most affects the form least like himself.

NIGHT V.

Behind the rosy bloom he loves to luck, Or ambush in a smile, or, wanton, dive, In dimples deep; love's eddies, which draw in Unwary hearts, and sink them in despair. Such on NARCISSA'S couch he loiter'd long Unknown; and, when detected, still was seen To smile: such peace has innocence in death !

Most happy they whom least his arts deceive ! One eye on death, and one fuil fix'd on heaven, Becomes a mortal and immortal man. Long on his wiles a piqued and jealous spy, I've seen, or dream'd I saw, the tyrant dress ; Lay by his horrors, and put on his smiles. Say muse, for thou remember'st, call it back, And show LORENZO the surprising scene ; If 'twas a dream, his genius can explain.

"Twas in a circle of the gry I stood. Death would have enter 'd; nature push'd him back: Supported by a doctor of 'renown, His point he gain'd; then artifully dismiss'd The sage; for death design'd to be conceal'd. He gave an old vivacions usurer His meagre aspect, and his naked bones; In gratitude for plumping up his prey. A pamper'd spendthrift; whose fantastic air, Well fashion'd figure, and cockaded brow, He took in change, aud underneath the pride Of costly linen tuck'd his fithy shroud. His crooked bow he straighten'd to a cane; And hid his deadly shrafts in Myra's eve.

The dreadful masquerader, thus equipp'd, Out sallies on adventures. Ask you where ? Where is he not ? For his peculiar haunts, Let this suffice ; sure as night follows day, Death treads in pleasure's footsteps round the world, When, against reason riot shuts the door, And gaiety supplies the place of sense, Then, foremost at the banquet, and the ball, Death leads the dance, or stumps the deadly die ;

Nor ever fails the midnight bowl to crown, Gaily carousing to his gay compeers; Inly he laughs to see them laugh at him, As absent far: and when the revel burns, When fear is banish'd, and triumphant thought, Calling for all the joys beneath the moon, Against him turns the key, and bids him sup With their progenitors—he drops his mask; Frowns out at full; they start, de-pair, expire. Scarce with more sudden terror and surprise, From his black mask of nitre, touch'd by fire, He bursts, expands, roars, blazes, and devours. And more than simple conquest, in the fiend ?

And now, Lonevizo, dosi thoir wrap thy soul In soft security, because unknown Which moment is commission'd to destroy ? In death's uncertainty thy danger lies. Is death uncertaint? Therefore thou be fixed ; Fix'd as a sentinel, all eye, all ear, All expectation of the coming foe. Rouse, stand in arms, nor lean against thy spear ; Lest slumber steal one moment o'er thy soul, And fate surprise thee modeling. Watch, be strong ! Thus give each day the merit and renown Of dying well; though doomed but once to die. Nor let life's period, hidden, (as from most,) Hide too from thee the precious u.e of life.

Early, not sudden, was NARCISSA'S fate. Soon, not surprising, death his visit paid. Her thought went forth to meet him on his way, Nor gaiety forgot it was to die: Though fortune too, (our third and final theme,) As an accomplice, play'd her gaudy plumes, And every glittering gewgaw, on her sight, To dazzle and debauch it from its mark. Death's dreadful advent is the mark of man, And every thought that misses its blind. Fortune, with youth and gaiety, conspired To weave a triple wreath of happiness

NIGHT V.

(If happiness on earth) to crown her brow: [shield ? And could death charge through such a shining That shining shield invites the tyrant's spear, As if to damp our elevated aims, And strongly preach humility to man. O how portentous is prosperity; How, comet-like, it threatens while it shines ! Few years but yield us proofs of death's ambition To cull his victims from the fairest fold, And sheathe his shafts in all the pride of life. When flooded with abundance, purpled o'er With recent honors, bloomed with every bliss, Set up in ostentation, made the gaze, The gandy centre of the public eye; When fortune thus has toss'd her child in air, Snatch'd from the covert of an humble state, How often have I seen him dropp'd at once, Our morning's envy ! and our evening's sigh ! As if her bounties were the signal given, The flowery wreath to mark the sacrifice, And call death's arrows on the destined prey.

High fortune seems in crucl league with fate. Ask you, for what? To give his war on man The deeper dread, and more illustrious spoil; Thus to keep daring mortals more in awe. And burns LORENZO still for the sublime Of life ? to hang his airy nest on high, On the slight timber of the topmost bough, Rock'd at each breeze, and menacing a fall ? Granting grim death at equal distance there ; Yet peace begins just where ambition ends. What makes man wretched ? Happiness denied ? LORENZO ! no; 'tis happiness disdain'd. She comes too meanly dress'd to win our smile: And calls herself Content, a homely name ! Our flame is transport, and content our scorn. Ambition turns, and shuts the door against her, And weds a toil, a tempest, in her stead; A tempest to warm transport near of kin. Unknowing what our mortal state admits,

Life's modest joys we ruin, while we raise; And all our extactes are wounds to peace; Peace, the full portion of mankind below.

And since thy pence is dear, ambitious youth ! Of fortune fond ! as thoughtless of thy fate ! As late I drew death's picture, to stir up Thy wholesome fears; now, drawn in contrast, see Gay fortune's, thy vain hopes to reprimand. See, high in air, the sportive goddess hangs, Unlocks her casket, spreads her glittering ware, And calls the giddy winds to put if abroad Her random bounties o'er the gaping throng. All rush rapacious; friends o'er trodden friends, Sons o'er their fathers, subjects o'er the iair, (Still more adored.) to snatch the golden shower.

Gold glitters most, where virtue shines no more ; As stars from ab eat suns have leave to shine. O, what a precious pack of votaries, Unkennell'd from the prisons and the stews, Pour in, all opening in their idol's praise; Ail, ardent, eye each wafture of her hand. And, wide expanding their voracious jaws, Morsel on morsel swallow down unchew'd, Untasted, through mad appetite for more; Gorged to the throat, yet lean and ray'nous still: Sagacious all, to trace the smallest game, And bold to seize the greatest. If (bless'd chance !) Court-zephyrs sweetly breathe, they launch, they fly, O'er just, o'er sacred, all forbidden ground, Drunk with the burning scent of place or power, Staunch to the foot of lucre, till they die.

Or, if for men you take them, as I mark Their manners, thou their various fates survey. With aim mismeasured, and impetuous speed, Some darting, strike their ardent wish far off, Through fury to possess it: some succeed, But stumble, and let fall the taken prize. From some, by sudden blasts, 'tis whirl'd away, And lodged in bosoms that ne'er dream'd of gain

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT V.

To some it sticks so close that, when torn off, Torn is the man, and mortal is the wound. Some, o'er-enamor'd of their bags, run mad, Groan under gold, yet weep for want of bread. Together some, (unhappy rivals !) seize, And rend abundance into poverty; Loud croaks the rayen of the law, and smiles ; Smiles to the goddess; but smiles most at those (Just victims of exorbitant desire !) Who perish at their own request, and, whelm'd Beneath her load of lavish grants, expire. Fortune is famous for her number slain : The number small which happiness can bear. Though various for awhile their fates, at last One curse involves them all: at death's approach All read their riches backward into loss. And mourn, in just proportion to their store.

And death's approach (if orthodox my song) Is hasten'd by the lure of fortune's smiles. And art thou still a glutton of bright gold ? And art thou still apacious of thy ruin ? Death loves a shining mark, a signal blow ; A blow, which, while it executes, alarms ; And startles thousands with a single fall. As when some stately growth of oak or pine, Which nods aloft, and proudly spreads her shade, The sun's defiance, and the flock's defence ; By the strong strokes of laboring hinds subdued, Loud groans her last, and, rushing from her height, In cumbrous ruin thunders to the ground: The conscious forest trembles at the shock, And hill, and stream, and distant dale resound.

These high-aim'd darts of death, and these alone, Should I collect, my quiver would be full: A quiver which, su-spended in mid air, Or near heaven's archer, in the zodiac, hung, (So could it be.) should draw the public eye, The gaze and contemplation of mankind ! A constellation awful, yet benign, To guide the gay through life's tempestuous wave. Nor suffer them to strike the common rock ; "From greater danger to grow more secure, And, wrapp'd in happiness, forget their fate."

LYSANDER, happy past the common lot, Was warn'd of danger, but too gay to fear. He woo'd the fair Aspasia : she was kind : In youth, form, fortune, fame, they both were bless'd: All, who knew, envied ; yet in envy loved. Can fancy form more finish'd happiness ? Fix'd was the nuptial hour. Her stately dome Rose on the sounding beach. The glittering spires Float in the wave, and break against the shore : So break those glittering shadows, human joys. The faithless morning smiled : he takes his leave. To re-embrace, in extacles, at eve. The rising storm forbids. The news arrives : Untold, she saw it in her servant's eye. She felt it seen ; (her heart was apt to feel ;) And drown'd, without the furious ocean's aid, In suffocating sorrows, shares his tomb. Now round the sumptuous bridal monument. The guilty billows innocently roar; And the rough sailor, passing, drops a tear. A tear ! can tears suffice ?---but not for me. How vain our efforts! and our arts how vain ! The distant train of thought I took, to shun, Has thrown me on my fate-the e died together: Happy in ruin ! undivorced by death ! Or ne'er to meet, or ne'er to part, is peace,-NARCISSA! pity bleeds at thought of thee. Yet thou wast only near me; not myself. Survive myself ?- that cures all other woe. NARCISSA lives : PHILANDER is forgot. O the soft commerce ! O the tender ties, Close-twisted with the fibres of the heart! Which, broken, break them; and drain off the soul Of human joy; and make it pain to live .--And is it then to live ? when such friends part, 'Tis the survivor dies-My heart ! no more.

IN TWO PARTS.

CONTAINING THE NATURE, PROOF, AND IMPORTANCE OF IMMORTALITY.

PART THE FIRST.

WHERE, AMONG OTHER THINGS,

GLORY AND RICHES ARE PARTICULARLY CONSIDERED.

PREFACE.

Few ages have been deeper in dispute about religion than this. The dispute about religion, and the practice of it, seldom go together. The shorter, therefore, the dispute, the better. It hink it may be reduced to this single question. Is man immortal, or is he not ? If he is not, all our disputes are mere anuscements, or trais of skill. In this case, truth, reason, religion, which give our discourses such pomp and solemnity, are (as will be shown) mere empty sounds, without any meaning in them. But if man isimmortal, it will behoove him to be very serious about cerenal consequences; or, in other words, to be truly religions. And this great fundamental truth, unestablished, or unawakened in the minds of men, is, I concerve, the real source and support of all our infulelity; how remote sever the particular objections advanced may seen to be from it.

Sensible appearances affect most men much more than abstract reasonings; and we daily see bodies drop around us, but the soul is invisible. The power which inclination has over the judgment is greater than cau be well conceived by those that have not had an experience of it; and of what numbers is it the sad interest that sould should not survive! The heathen world confessed, that they rather hoped than firmly believed immortality; and how many heathens have we still amongst us ! The sacred page assures us, that life and immortality are brought to light by the Gospel; but by how many is the Gospel rejected or overlooked! From these considerations, and from my being, accidentally, privy to the semiments of some particular persons, I have been long persuaded, that most, if not all, our infidels (whatever name they take, and whatever scheme, for argument's sake, and to keep themselves in countenance, they patronize) are supported in their deplorable errors, by some doubt of their immortality, at the bottom. And I arm satisfield, that men once theroughly convinced of their immortality, are not far from being Christians. For it is pinness will certainly be his lot, should not carmently and imparpanes will certainly be his lot, should not carmently and impartially inquire after the surces means of excaping the one, and secuting the other. And of such an carnest and impartial inquiry, I well know the consequence.

Here, therefore, in proof of this most fundamental truth, some plan arguments are offered; arguments derived from principles which infidels admit in common with believers; arguments which appear to me altogether irressible; and such as, I am satisfied, will have great, weight with all who give themselves the small trouble of looking seriously into their own bosoms, and of observing with any tolerable degree of attention what daily passes round about them in the world. If some arguments shall here occur which others have declined, they are submitted with all deformant. For the plane plane is in the plane arguments shall here deformed the submitted of the series of the most imder but it is undisputed for this reason only. Wit: because, where the least pretunce to reason is admitted, it must for ever be initiaputable. And, of consequence, no man can be betrayed into a dispute of that nature by vanity; which has a principal share in animating our modern combatants against other arucles of our belief.

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

PART THE FIRST.

TO THE RIGHT HONORABLE HENRY PELHAM, FIRST LORD COMMISSIONER OF THE TREASURY, AND CHANCELLOR OF THE EXCHEQUER.

SUE,⁸ (for I know not yet her name in heaven,) Not early, like NARCISSA, loft the scene; Nor sudden, like PARCISSA, loft the scene; This seeming mitigation but inflames; This fancied med'cine heightens the disease. The longer known, the closer still she grew; And gradual parting is a gradual death. 'Tis the grim tyrant's engine, which extorts, By tardy pressure's still increasing weight, From hardest hearts, confession of distress.

Oh the long, dark approach, through years of pain, Death's gallery ! (might I dare to call it so,) With dismal doubt, and sable terror, hung ; Stek hope's pale lamp its only glimmering ray: There Fate my melancholy walk ordain'd, Forbid self-love itself to flatter there. How oft I gazed, prophetically sad! How oft I saw her dead ! while yet in smiles ! In smiles she sunk her grief, to lessen mine. She spoke me comfort, and increased my pain. Like powerful armies trenching at a town, By slow, and silend, but tesistless sap, In his pale progress gently gaining ground, Death urged his deadly siege ; in spite of art, Of all the balmy blessings nature lends

* Referring to Night the Fifth.

THE INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

To succor frail humanity. Ye stars! (Not now first made familiar to my sight,) And thou, O moon ! hear witness; many a night He tore the pillow from beneath my head, Tied down my sore attention to the shock, By ceaseless depredations on a life Dearer than that he left me. Dreadful post Of observation ! darker every hour ! Less dread the dry that drove me to the brink, And pointed at eternity below : When my soul shudder'd at futurity ; When, on a moment's point, the important die Of life and death span doubtful, cre if fell, ' And turned up life ; my tidle to more wee.

But why more woe \hat{f} more comfort let it be. Nothing is dead but that which wish'd to die : Nothing is dead, but wretchedness and pain ; Nothing is dead, but wretchedness and pain ; Nothing is dead, but what encumber'd, gall'd, Block'd up the pass, and bar'd from real life. Where dwells that wish most ardent of the wise \hat{t} Too dark the sun to see it; highest stars Too low to reach it; death, great death alone, O'er stars and sun triumphant, lands us there.

Nor dreadful our transition; though the mind, An artist at creating self-alarns, Rich in expedients for inquietude, Is prone to paint it dreadful. Who can take Death's portrait true I The tyrant never sat. Our sketch all random strokes, conjecture all; Close shuts the grave, nor tells one single tale. Death, and his image rising in the brain, Bear faint resemblance; never are alike : Fear shakes the pencil; fancy loves excess; Dark ignorance is lavish of her shades; And these the formidable picture draw.

But grant the worst; 'tis past; new prospects rise; And drop a veil eternal o'er her tomb. Far other views our contemplation claim; Views that o'erpay the rigors of our life; Views that suspend our agonies in death.

NIGHT VI.

Wrapp'd in the thought of immortality, Wrapp'd in the single, the triumphant thought! Long life might lapse, age unperceived come on ; And find the soul unsated with her theme. Its nature, proof, importance, fire my song. Oh that my song could emulate my soul! Like her immortal. No !--the soul disdains A mark so mean ; far nobler hope inflames; If endless ages can ontweigh an hour, Let not the lancel, but the palm, inspire.

Thy nature, immortality! who knows ? And yet who knows it not? It is but life In stronger thread of brighter color spun. And spun for ever. Dipp'd by cruel fate In Stygian dye, how black, how brittle here ! How short our correspondence with the sun ! And, while it lasts, inglorious ! Our best deeds, How wanting in their weight! our highest joys Small cordials to support us in our pain. And give us strength to suffer. But how great, To mingle interest, converse, amities, With all the sons of reason, scattered wide Through habitable space, wherever born, Howe'er endow'd ! to live free citizens Of universal nature ! to lay hold, By more than feeble faith, on the Supreme ! To call heaven's rich, unfathomable mines (Mines which support archangels in their state) Our own ! to rise in science, as in bliss. Initiate in the secrets of the skies ! To read creation, read its mighty plan In the bare bosom of the Deity The plan and execution to collate ! To see, before each glance of piercing thought, All cloud, all shadow, blown remote ; and leave No mystery-but that of love divine, Which lifts us on the seraph's flaming wing, From earth's Aceldama, this field of blood, Of inward anguish, and of outward ill. From darkness and from dust, to such a scene !

Love's element! true joy's illustrious home ! From earth's sad contrast (now deplored) more fair ! What exquisite vicissitude of fate ! Bless'd absolution of our blackest hour !

LORENZO, these are thoughts that make man Man, The wise illumine, aggrandise the great, How great, (while yet we tread the kindred clod, And every moment fear to sink beneath The clod we tread ; soon trodden by our sons ;) How great, in the wild whirl of time's pursuits, To stop, and pause, involved in high presage, Through the long vista of a thousand years, To stand contemplating our distant selves, As in a magnifying mirror seen, Enlarged, ennobled, elevate, divine ! To prophesy our own futurities : To gaze in thought on what all thought transcends ! To talk with fellow candidates, of joys As far beyond conception as desert, Ourselves th' astonished talkers, and the tale !

LORENZO, swells thy bosom at the thought ? The swell becomes thee: 'tis an honest pride. Revere thyself,-and yet thyself despise. His nature no man can o'errate ; and none Can underrate his merit. Take good heed, Nor there be modest where thou shouldst be proud : That almost universal error shun. How just our pride, when we behold those heights ! Not those ambition paints in air, but those Reason points out, and ardent virtue gains : And angels emulate ; our pride how just ! When mount we ? when those shackles cast ? when This cell of the creation ? this small nest, fauit Stuck in a corner of the universe, Wrapp'd up in fleecy cloud, and fine-spun air ? Fine-spun to sense ; but gross and feculent To souls celestial ; souls ordain'd to breathe Ambrosial gales, and drink a purer sky ; Greatly triumphant on Time's farther shore, Where virtue reigns, enrich'd with full arrears :

NIGHT VI.

While pomp imperial begs an alms of Peace.

In empire high, or in proud science deep, Ye born of earth! on what can you confer, With half the dignity, with half the gain, The gust, the glow of rational delight, As on this theme, which angels praise and share ! Man's fates and favors are a theme in heaven.

What wretched repetition cloys us here ! What periodic potions for the sick ! Distemper'd bodies ! and distemper'd minds ! In an eternity, what scenes shall strike ! Adventures thicken, novelties surprise ! What webs of wonder shall unravel there ! What full day pour on all the paths of heaven, And light th' Almighty's footsteps in the deep ! How shall the blessed day of our discharge Unwind, at once, the labyrinths of Fate, And straighten its inextricable maze !

If inextinguishable thirst in man To know ; how rich, how full our banquet there ! There, not the moral world alone unfolds ; The world material, lately seen in shades, And, in those shades, by fragments only seen, And seen those fragments by the lab'ring eye, Unbroken, then, illustrious, and entire, Its ample sphere, its universal frame, In full dimensions, swells to the survey : And enters, at one glance, the ravish'd sight. From some superior point (where who can tell? Suffice it; 'tis a point where gods reside) How shall the stranger man's illumined eye, In the vast ocean of unbounded space. Behold an infinite of floating worlds Divide the crystal waves of ether pure, In endless voyage without port! The least Of these disseminated orbs, how great ! Great as they are, what numbers these surpass. Huge, as Leviathan, to that small race, Those twinkling multitudes of little life, He swallows unperceived ! Stupendous these !

Yet what are these stupendous to the whole ? As particles, as atoms ill perceived ; As circulating globules in our veins ; So vast the plan. Fecundity divine ! Exuberant source ! perhaps I wrong thee still.

If admiration is a source of joy, What transport hence! Yet this the least in heaven. What this to that illustrious robe He wears, Who toss'd this mass of wonders from his hand, A specimen, an eurnest of his power! 'Tis to that glory, whence all glory flows, As the mead's meanest flow'ret to the sun, Which gave it birth Bnt what, this Sun of heaven ? This blass supreme of the supremely bless'd ? Death, only death the question can resolve. By death cheap bought the ideas of our joy : The bare ideas ! Solid happiness So distant from its shadow chased below.

And chase we still the phantom through the fire, O'er bog, and brake, and precipice, till death ? And toil we still for sublunary pay? Defy the dangers of the field and flood. Or, spider-like, spin cut our precious all. Our more than vitals spin (if no regard To great futurity) in curious webs Of subtle thought, and exquisite design, (Fine net-work of the brain,) to catch a fly ! The momentary buzz of vain renown ! A name ! a mortal immortality ! Or, (meaner still,) instead of grasping air, For sordid lucre plunge we in the mire ? Drudge, sweat, through every shame, for every gain, For vile contaminating trash, throw up Our hope in heaven, our dignity with man, And deify the dirt, matured to gold ? Ambition. avarice ; the two demons these, Which goad through every slough our human herd, Hard-trayell'd from the cradle to the grave. How low the wretches stoop ! how steep they climb ! These demons burn mankind ; but most possess

NIGHT VI.

LORENZO'S bosom, and turn out the skies. Is it in time to hide eternity ?

And why not in an atom on the shore To cover ocean ? or a mote, the sun ? Glory and wealth ! have they this blinding power ? What if to them I prove LORENZO blind ? . Would it surprise thee ? Be thou then surprised ; Thou neither know's: their nature learn from me.

Mark well, as foreign as these subjects seem. What close connexion ties them to my theme. First, what is true ambition? The pursuit Of glory, nothing less than man can share. Were they as vain as gaudy-minded man, As flatulent with fumes of self-applause, Their arts and conquests animals might boast. And claim their laurel crowns as well as we: But not celestial. Here we stand alone ; As in our form, distinct, pre-eminent. If prone in thought, our stature is our shame : And man should blush his forehead meets the skies. The visible and present are for brutes. A slender portion ! and a narrow bound ! These reason, with an energy divine, O'erleaps : and claims the future and unseen : The vast unseen! the future fathomless ! When the great soul buoys up to this high point. Leaving gross nature's sediments below, Then, and then only, Adam's offspring quits The sage and hero of the fields and woods, Asserts his rank, and rises into man. This is ambition: this is human fire.

Can parts or place (two bold pretenders !) make LORENZO great, and pluck him from the throng ?

Genius and art, ambition's boasted wings, Our boast but ill deserve. A feeble aid! Dedalian enginery! if these alone Assist our flight, fame's flight is glory's fall. Heart-merit wanting, mount we ne'er so high, Our height is but the gibbet of our name. A celebrated wretch when I behold,

104

When I behold a genius bright, and base, Of towering talents, and terrestrial aims; Methinks I see, as thrown from her high sphere, The glorious fragments of a soul immortal, With rubbish mix'd, and glittering in the dust. Struck at the splendid, melancholy sight, At once compassion soft, and envy, rise— But wherefore envy? Talents angel-bright, If wanting worth, are shining instruments In false ambition's hand, to finish faults Illustrious, and give infany renown.

Great ill is an achievement of great powers. Plain sense but rately leads us far astray. Reason the means, affections choose our end; Means have no merit, if our end amiss. If wrong our hearts, our heads are right in vain: What is a PELHAN's head, to PELHAN's heart? Hearts are proprietors to all applause. Right ends and means make wisdon: worldly-wise Is but half-witted, at its highest praise.

Let genius then despair to make thee great; Nor flatter station : what is station high ? Tis a proud mendicant; it boasts and begs; It begs an alms of homage from the throng, And oft the throng denies its charity. Monarchs, and ministers, are awful names; Whoever wear them, challenge our devoir. Religion, public order, both exact External homage, and a supple knee, To beings pompously set up, to serve The meanest slave : all more is merit's due, Her sacred and inviolable right ; Nor ever paid the monarch, but the man. Our hearts ne'er bow but to superior worth ; Nor ever fail of their allegiance there. Fools, indeed, drop the man in their account, And vote the mantle into majesty. Let the small savage boast his silver fur; His royal robe, unborrow'd and unbought, His own, descending fairly from his sires.

NIGHT VI.

Shall man be proud to wear his livery, And souls in ermine scorn a soul without ? Can place or lessen us, or aggrandize? Pigmies are pigmies still, though perch'd on Alps; And pyramids are pyramids in vales. Each man makes his own stature, builds himself: Virtue alone outbuilds the pyramids: Her monuments shall last when Egypt's fall. Of these sure truths dost thou demand the cause ? The cause is lodged in immortality. Hear, and assent. Thy bosom burns for power: What station charms thee ? I'll install thee there: 'Tis thine. And art thou greater than before ? Then thou before wast something less than man. Has thy new post betrayed thee into pride ? That treacherous pride betrays thy dignity : That pride defames humanity, and calls The being mean which staffs or strings can raise. That pride, like hooded hawks, in darkness soars, From blindness bold, and towering to the skies. 'Tis born of ignorance, which knows not man : An angel's second ; nor his second long. A NERO quitting his imperial throne, And courting glory from the tinkling string, But faintly shadows an immortal soul. With empire's self to pride or rapture fired. If nobler motives minister no cure. E'en vanity forbids thee to be vain. High worth is elevated place : 'tis more : It makes the post stand candidate for thee; Makes more than monarchs, makes an honest man :

A makes the possistant cannates to mice, i Makes more than monarchs, makes an honest man : Though no exchequer it commands, 'iis renown; Renown that would not quit thee though disgraced, Nor leave thee pendent on a master's smile. Other ambition nature interdicts; Nature proclams it most absurd in man, By pointing at his origin and end : Milk and a swathe, at first, his whole demand; His whole domain, at last, a turf or stone;

To whom, between, a world may seem too small. Souls truly great dart forward, on the wing Of just ambition, to the grand result, The curtain's fail. There, see the buskin'd chief Unshod behind this momentary scene; Reduced to his own stature, low or high, As vice or virtue sinks him or sublimes; And laugh at this fantastic mummery, This antic prelude of grotesque events, Where dwarfs are often stilted, and betray A littleness of soul by worlds o'errun, And nations laid in blood. Dread sacrifice To Chri-tian pride ! which had with horror shock'd The darkest Pagana, ofter dot drig gods.

O thou most Christian enemy to peace ! Again in arms ! again provoking fate ? That prince, and that alone is truly great, Who draws the sword reluctant, gladly sheathes; On empire builds what empire far outweighs, And makes his throne a scatfoid to the skies.

Why this so rare ? because forgot of all The day of death; that venerable day, Which sits a judge; that day, which shall pronounce On all our days, absolve them, or condemn. Lowexzo, never shut thy thought against it; Be levese ne'er so full, aftord it room, And give it audience in the cabinet. That friend consulted, flatteries apart, Will tell thee fair, if thou art great or mean.

To dote on aught may leave us or be left, Is that ambition ? then lef flames descend, Point to the centre their inverted spires, And learn humiliation from a soul Which boasts her lineage from celestial fre. Yet these are they the world pronounces wise; The world, which cancels nature's right and wrong, And casts new wisdom; e'en the grave man lends His solenn face, to countenance the coin. Wisdom for parts is madness for the whole. This stamps the paradox, and gives us leave

NIGHT VI.

To call the wisest weak, the richest poor, The most ambitious unambitious, mean; In triumph mean, and abject on a throne. Nothing can make it less than mad in man, To put forth all his ardour, all his art, And give his soul her full unbounded flight, But reaching Him, who gave her wings to fly. When bilind ambition quite mistakes her road, And downward pores, for that which shines above, Substantial happiness and true renown; Then, like an idiot gazing on the brook, We leap at stars, and fasten in the mud; At glory grasp, and sink in infamy.

Ambition 'powerful source of good and ill ! Thy strength in man, like length of wing in birds, When disengaged from earth, with greater ease And swifter flight transports us to the skies; By toys entangled, or in guilt bemired, It turns a curse; it is our chain and scourge, In this dark dungeon, where confined we lie, Close grated by the sordid bars of sense; All prospect of eternity shut out; And, but for execution, ne'er set free.

With error in ambition justly charged, Find we LORENZO wiser in his wealth ? What if thy rental J reform ? and draw An inventory new, to set thee right ? Where thy true treasure ? Gold says, "Not in me :" And, "Not in me," the diamond. Gold is poor; India's insolvent: seek it in thyself, Seek in thy naked self, and find it there; In being so descended, form'd, endow'd ; Sky-born, sky-guided, sky-returning race ! Erect, immortal, rational, divine ! In senses, which inherit earth, and heavens; Enjoy the various riches nature yields; Far nobler! give the riches they enjoy : Give taste to fruits; and harmony to groves; Their radiant beams to gold, and gold's bright sire Take in at once the landscape of the world.

At a small inlet which a grain might close, And half create the wondrous world they see. Our senses, as our reason, are divine. But for the magic organ's powerful charm, Earth were a rude, uncolored chaos still, Objects are but th' occasion ; ours th' exploit ; Ours is the cloth, the pencil, and the paint. Which nature's admirable picture draws : And beautifies creation's ample dome. Like Milton's Eve, when gazing on the lake, Man makes the matchless image man admires. Say, then, shall man, his thoughts all sent abroad, Superior wonders in himself forgot, His admiration waste on objects round, When Heaven makes him the soul of all he sees ? Absurd ! not rare ! so great, so mean, is man.

What wealth in senses such as these ! what wealth In fancy, fired to form a fairer scene Than sense surveys! in memory's firm record, Which, should it perish, could this world recall From the dark shadows of o'erwhelming years : In colors fresh, originally bright, Preserve its portrait, and report its fate ! What wealth in intellect, that soy'reign power [Which sense and fancy summons to the bar: Interrogates, approves, or reprehends; And from the mass those underlings import. From their materials, sifted and refined. And in truth's balance accurately weigh'd. Forms art and science, government and law: The solid basis, and the beauteous frame, The vitals and the grace of civil life ! And manners, (sad exception !) set aside, Strikes out, with master hand, a conv fair Of his idea, whose indulgent thought Long, long ere chaos teem'd, plann'd human bliss.

What wealth in souls that soar, dive, range around, Disdaining limit, or from place or time; And hear at once, in thought extensive, hear Th' Almighty Fiat, and the trumpet's sound !

NIGHT VI.

Bold, on creation's outside walk, and view What was, and is, and more than e'er shall be : Commanding with omnipotence of thought. Creations new in fancy's field to rise ! Souls that can grasp whate'er the Almighty made, And wander wild through things impossible ! What wealth, in faculties of endless growth, In quenchless passions, violent to crave, In liberty to choose, in power to reach, And in duration, (how thy riches rise !) Duration to perpetuate-boundless bliss ! Ask you, what power resides in feeble man That bliss to gain ? Is virtue's then unknown ? Virtue, our present peace, our future prize. Man's unprecarious, natural estate, Improveable at will, in virtue lies ; Its tenure sure ; its income is divine,

High-built abundance, heap on heap! for what? To breed new wants, and beggar us the more; Then, make a richer scramble for the throng ! Soon as this feelie pulse, which leaps so long Ahmost by miracle, is tired with play, Like rubbish from disploding engunes thrown, Our magazines of hoarded trifles fly; Fly diverse; fly to foreigners, to foes, New masters court, and call the former fools, (How justly !) for dependence on their stay : Wide scatter, first, our play things; then our dust.

Dost conrt abundance for the sake of peace ? Learn, and lament thy self-defeated scheme : Riches enable to be richer still ; And, richer still, what mortal can resist ? Thus wealth, (a cruel task-master !) enjoins New toils, succeeding toils, an endless train ! And murders peace, which taught it first to shine. The poor are half as wretched as the rich ; Whose prond and painfil privilege it is, At once to bear a double load of woe ; To feel the stings of envy and of want, Outrageous want ! both Indies cannot cure.

A competence is vital to content. Much wealth is corpulence, if not disease; Sick, or encumber'd, is our happiness. A competence is all we can enjoy. Oh be content, where Heaven can give no more ! More, like a flash of water from a lock, Quickens our spirits' movement for an hour; But soon its force is spent, nor rise our joys Above our native temper's common streau. Hence, disappointment larks in every prize, As bees in flowers, and stings us with success

The rich man, who denieš it, proudly feigns; Nor knows the wise are privy to the lie. Much learning shows how little mortals know; Much wealth, how little worldlings can enjoy: At best it bibles us with endless toys, And keeps us children till we drop to dust. As monkeys at a mirror stand awarzed, They full to find what they so plainly see; Thus men, in shining riches, see the face Of happiness, nor know it is a shade; But gaze, and touch, and peep, and peep again, And wish, and wonder it is ab-ent still.

How few can rescue opulence from want! Who lives to nature rarely can be poor; Who lives to fancy never can be rich. Poor is the man in debt; the man of gold, In debt to fortune, trenubles at her and death. Oh, what a patrimony this! A being Of such inherent strength and majesty, Not worlds possess'd can raise it; worlds destroy'd Can't injure; which holds on its glorious course, When thine; O nature ! ends; too bless'd to mourn Creation's obsequies. What treasure this ! The monarch is a beggar to the man.

IMMORTAL! Ages pass'd, yet nothing gone ! Morn without eve ! a race without a goal ! Unshorten'd by progression infinite ! Futurity forever future ! Life

NIGHT VI.

Beginning still where computation ends ! 'Tis the description of a deity !

'Tis the description of the meanest slave ! The meanest slave dares then LORENZO scorn ! The meanest slave thy sov'reign glory shares. Proud youth ! fastidious of the lower world ! Man's lawful pride includes humility; Stoops to the lowest; is too great to find Inferiors; all immortal ! Brothers all ! Proprietors eternal of thy love,

Immortal! What can strike the sense so strong As this the soul ? It thunders to the thought: Reason amazes: gratitude o'erwhelms! No more we slumber on the brink of fate: Roused at the sound, th' exulting soul ascends, And breathes her native air; an air that feeds Ambitions high, and fans ethereal fires : Quick kindles all that is divine within us : Nor leaves one loitering thought beneath the stars. Has not LORENZO's bosom caught the flame ? Immortal! Were but one immortal, how Would others envy! how would thrones adore ! Because 'tis common, is the blessing lost ? How this ties up the bounteous hand of Heaven! Oh vain, vain, vain, all else ! Eternity ! A glorious and a needful refuge, that, From vile imprisonment in abject views. 'Tis immortality, 'tis that alone, Amid life's pains, abasements, emptiness. The soul can comfort, elevate, and fill, That only, and that amply, this performs ; Lifts us above life's pains, her joys above ; Their terror those, and these their lustre lose : Eternity depending covers all: Eternity depending all achieves : Sets earth at distance ; casts her into shades ; Blends her distinctions; abrogates her powers; The low, the lofty, joyous, and severe, Fortune's dread frowns, and fascinating smiles, Make one promiscuous and neglected heap.

The man beneath; If I may call him man Whom immortality's full force inspires. Nothing terrestrial touches his high thought; Suns shine unseen, and thunder- roll unheard, By minds quite conscious of their high descent, Their present province, and their future prize; Divinely darting upward every wish, Warm on the wing, in glorious absence lost!

Doubt you this fruth ? Why labors your belief? If earth's whole orb by some due distanced eye Were seen at once, her towering Alps would sink, And level'd Atlas leave an even sphere. Thus earth, and all that earthly minds admire is swallow'd in eternity's vast round. To that stupendous view when souls awake, So large of late, so mountainous to man, Time's toys subside; and equad all below.

Enthusiastic this ? Then all are weak But rank enthusiasts. To this godlike height Some soul's have soar'd; or marryrs ne'er had bled; And all may do what has by man been done. Who, benten by these sublumry storms, Boundless, interminable joys can weigh, Unraptured, unexalted, manfhamed ? What slave unbless'd, who, from to-morrow's dawn Expects an empire ? He forgets his chain, And throned in thought, his absent sceptre waves.

And what a sceptre waits us! what a throne ! Her own immense appointments to compute, Or comprehend her high prerogatives, In this her dark minority, how toils, How vainly pants the human soul divine ! Too great the bounty seems for earthly joy; What heart but trembles at so strange a bliss ?

In spite of all the truths the muse has sung, Ne'er to be prized enough ! enough revolved ! Are there who wrap the world so close about them, They see no further than the clouds ? and dance On heedless vanity's fantastic toe, Till, stumbling at a straw in their career,

NIGHT VI.

Headlong they plunge where end both dance and Are there, LORENZO? Is it possible ? [song ? Are there on earth (let me not call them men) Who lodge a soul immortal in their breasts; Unconscious as the mountain of its ore ; Or rock of its inestimable gem ? When rocks shall melt, and mountains vanish, these Shall know their treasure ; treasure then no more, Are there, (still more amazing!) who resist The rising thought ? who smother in its birth, The glorious truth ? who struggle to be brutes ? Who through this bosom-barrier burst their way, And, with reversed ambition, strive to sink ? Who labor downwards through th' opposing powers Of instinct, reason, and the world against them, To dismal hopes, and shelter in the shock Of endless night ? night darker than the grave's ! Who fight the proofs of immortality ? With horrid zeal, and execrable arts, Work all their engines, level their black fires, To blot from man this attribute divine. (Than vital blood far dearer to the wise,) Blasphemers, and rank atheists, to themselves ? To contradict them, see all nature rise: What object, what event, the moon beneath, But argues or endears an after scene ? To reason proves, or weds it to desire ?

All things proclain it needful; some advance One precious step heyond, and prove it sure. A thousand arguments swarm round my pen, From heaven, and earth, and man. Indulge a few, By nature, as her common habit, worn; So pressing Providence a truth to teach, Which truth untaught, all other truths were vain. Thou; whose all providential eve surveys.

Whose hand directs, whose Spirit fills and warms Creation, and holds empire far beyond ! Eternity's Inhabitant august ! Of two eternities amazing Lord !

One pass'd ere man's or angel's had begun ; Aid ! while I rescue from the foe's assault Thy glorious immortality in man : A theme for ever, and for all, of weight, Of moment infinite ! but relish'd most By those who love thee most, who most adore. Nature, thy daughter, ever changing birth Of thee, the great Immutable, to man Speaks wisdom; is his oracle supreme; And he who most consults her is most wise LORENZO, to this heavenly Delphos haste; And come back all immortal; all divine: Look nature through, 'tis revolution all; All change ; no death. Day follows night ; and night The dying day; stars rise, and set, and rise; Earth takes th' example. See, the summer gay, With her green chaplet and ambrosial flowers, Droops into pallid autumn : winter grey, Horrid with frost and turbulent with storm. Blows autumn and his golden fruits away : Then melts into the spring : soft spring, with breath Favonian, from warm chambers of the south, Recalls the first. All, to reflourish, fades ; As in a wheel, all sinks, to reascend. Emblems of man, who passes, not expires. With this minute distinction, emblems just, Nature revolves, but man advances ; both Eternal ; that a circle, this a line. That gravitates, this soars. The spiring soul, Ardent and tremulous, like flame ascends, Zeal and humility her wings, to heaven. The world of matter, with its various forms,

All dies into new life. Life born from death Rolls the vast mass, and shall for ever roll. No single atom, once in being, lost, With change of counsel charges the Most High.

What hence infers LOREZO? Can it be? Matter immortal ? and shall spirit die ? Above the nobler shall less noble rise ? Shall man alone, for whom all else revives,

NIGHT VI.

No resurrection know ? shall man alone, Imperial man ! be sown in barren groand, Less privileged than grain, on which he feeds ? Is man, in whom alone his power to prize The bills of being, or with previous pain Deplore its period, by the spicen of fate, Severely domi'd death's single unredeem'd ?

If nature's revolution speaks aloud, In her gradation, hear her louder still. Look nature through, 'tis neat gradation all. By what minute degrees her scale ascends ! Each middle nature join'd at each extreme, To that above it join'd, to that beneath. Parts into parts reciprocally shot, Abhor divorce : what love of union reigns ! Here dormant matter waits a call to life -Half-life, half-death, join there : here, life and sense ; There, sense from reason steals a glimmering ray : Reason shines out in man. But how preserved The chain unbroken upward, to the realms Of incorporeal life ? those realms of bliss, Where death has no dominion ? Grant a make Half-mortal, half-immortal ; earthy, part, And part ethereal : grant the soul of man Eternal; or in man the series ends. Wide yawns the gap; connexion is no more: Check'd reason halts; her next step wants support; Striving to climb, tumbles from her scheme; A scheme, analog Fronounced so true ; Analogy, man's surest guide below.

Thus, far, all nature calls on thy belief. And will LOAENZO, careless of the call, False attestation on all nature charge, Rather than violate his league with death ? Renounce his reason, rather than renounce The dust beloved, and run the risk of heaven ? Oh, what indignity to deathless souls ! What treason to the majesty of man ! Of man innuortal ! Hear the lofty style: 'If so decreed, th' Almighty will be done. Let earth dissolve, yon pondrous orbs descend, And grind us into dust. The soul is safe ; The man emerges ; mounts above the wreck, As towering flame from nature's funeral pyre; O'er devastation, as a gainer, smiles ; His charter, his inviolable rights, Well pleased to learn from thunder's impotence, Death's pointless darts, and hell's defeated storms." But these chimeras touch not thee, LORENZO ! The glories of the world thy sevenfold shield. Other ambition than of crowns in air, And superlunary felicities And turn those glories that enchant, against thee. Thy bosom warm. I'll cool it. if I can; What ties thee to this life proclaims the next. If wise, the cause that wounds thee is thy cure. Come, my ambitious ! let us mount together, (To mount, Lorenzo never can refu-e,) And from the clouds, where pride delights to dwell, Look down on earth. What seest thou ? Wondrous Terrestial wonders, that eclipse the skies. [things! What lengths of labor'd lands ! what loaded seas ! Loaded by man, for pleasure, wealth, or war! Seas, winds, and planets, into service brought, His art acknowledge, and promote his ends. Nor can th' eternal rocks his will withstand. What level'd mountains ! and what lifted vales ! O'er vales and mountains sumptuous cities swell, And gild our landscape with their glittering spires. Some 'mid the wandering waves majestic rise; And Neptune holds a mirror to their charms, Far greater still ! (what cannot mortal might ?) See, wide dominions ravish'd from the deep ! The narrow'd deep with indignation foams. Or southward turn; to delicate and grand; The finer arts there ripen in the sun. How the tall temples, as to meet their gods, Ascend the skies! the proud triumphal arch Shows us half heaven beneath its ample bend. High through mid air, here, streams are taught to flow:

NIGHT VI.

Whole rivers, there, laid by in basons, sleep. Here, plains turn oceans; there vast oceans join. Through kingdoms channel'd deep from shore to shore:

And changed creation takes its face from man. Beats thy brave breast for formid the scenes, Where fame and empire wait upon the sword ? See fields in blood; hear naval thunders rise; BRITANSIA's voice ! that awes the world to peace. How yon enormous mole projecting breaks The mid-sea furions waves ! Their roar andids, Out-peaks the Deity, and says, "O main ! Thus far, nor farther: new restraints obey." Earth's disembowel'd ! measured are the skies ! Stars are detected in their deep recess ! Creation widens ! vanuish'd nature yields ! Her secrets are extorted ! art prevails ! What monument of genius, spirit, power !

And now, Lonexzo? raptured at this scene, Whose glories render heaven superfluous ! say, Whose footstep: these ?-Inmontals have been here, Could less than souls immortal this have done ? Earth's cover'd o'er with proofs of souls immortal, And proofs of immortality forgot.

To flatter thy grand toible, I confess, These are ambition's works: and these are great; But this, the least immortal souls can do; Transcend them all. But what can these transcend? Dost ask me, what 2—One sigh for the distress'd. What then for infidels? A deeper sigh. 'T'is moral grandeur mykes the mighty man: How little they, who think aught great below! All our ambitions death defeats, but one; And that it crowns. Here cease we: but, ere long, More powerful proof shall take the field against thee, Stronger than death, and smiling at the tomb.

BEING THE SECOND PART OF THE

INFIDEL RECLAIMED.

CONTAINING THE NATURE, PROOF, AND IMPORTANCE

OF IMMORTALITY.

PREFACE.

As we are at war with the power, it were well if we were at war with the manners of France. A land of levity is a land of guilt. A serious mind is the native soil of every virtue, and the single character that does true honor to mankind. The soul's immortality has been the favorite theme with the serious of all ages. Nor is it strange : it is a subject by far the most interesting and important that can enter the mind of man. Of highest moment this subject always was, and always will be. Yet this its highest moment seems to admit of increase at this day : a sort of occasional importance is superadded to the natural weight of it, if that opinion which is advanced in the preface to the preceding Night be just. It is there supposed, that all our infidels, what-ever scheme, for argument's sake, and to keep themselves in countenance, they patronize, are betrayed into their deplorable error, by some doubts of their immortality at the bottom. And the more I consider this point, the more I am persnaded of the truth of that opinion. Though the distrust of a futurity is a strange error; yet it is an error into which bad men may naturally be distressed. For it is impossible to hid defiance to final ruin, without some refuge in imagination, some presumption of escape. And what presumption is there ? There are but two in nature ; but two within the compass of human thought. And these are,-That either Gon will not, or cannot punish. Considering the divine attributes, the first is too gross to he digested by our strongest wishes. And since omnipotence is as much a divine attribute as holiness, that God cannot punish is as absurd a supposition as the former. Gop certainly can puttsh as long as wicked men exist. In non-existence, therefore, is their only refuge; and consequently non-existence is their strongest wish.

PREFACE.

And strong wishes have a strange influence on our opinionas they has the judgment up a manner almost incredible. And side on this member of their alternative there are some very small appearances in their tavor, and none at all on the other, they catch at this reed, they lay hold on this chinera, to save themselves from the shock and horror of an immediate and absolute despart.

On reviewing my subject, by the light which this argument, and others of like tensiency, three upon it, I was more included than ever to pursue it, as it appeared to me to strike directly at the main root of all our infilency. In the following pages it is, accordingly, pursued at large; and some arguments for unnortality, new at least to me, are ventured on in them. There also the writer has made an attempt to set the gross aburdhies and horrors of annihaltion in a til er and more affecting view than is (1 think) to be met with elsewhere.

The gentlemen for whose sake this attempt was chiefly made profess great admiration for the wisdom of heathen antiquity. What pity it is they are not sincere ! If they were sincere, how would it inortify them to consider, with what contempt and abhorrence their notions would have been received by those whom they so much admire ? What degree of contempt and abhorrence would fall to their share may be conjectured by the following matter of fact (in my opinion) excremely memorable. Of all their beathen worthies, Socrates (it is well known) was the most guarded, dispassionate and composed: yet this great master of temper was angry; and angry at his last hour; and angry with his friend; and angry for what deserved acknowledgment; angry for a right and tender instance of true friendship towards hun. Is not this surprising ? What could be the cause ? The cause was for his honor; it was a truly noble though, perhaps, a too punctillious regard for immortality; for his friend asking him, with such an affectionate concern as became a friend, "Where he should deposite his remains ?" it was resented by Socrates, as implying a dishonorable supposition, that he could be so mean as to have a regard for anything, even in himself, that was not

This fact, well considered, would make our infidels withdraw their admiration from Socrates; or make them euleenvor, by their imitation of this illustrious example, to share his gloy; and, consequently, it would incline them to persus the following pages with candor and imparianity; which is all l desire; and that, for their sakes; for 1 am persuaded, that an unprejudiced infidel must necessarily receive some advantageous impressions from them.

PART THE SECOND.

HEAVEN gives the needful but neglected call. What day, what hour but knocks at human hearts, To wake the soul to sense of future scenes ? Deaths stand, like Mercuries, in every way, And kindly point us to our journey's end. POPE, who couldst make immortals ! art thou dead ? I give thee joy; nor will I take my leave ! So soon to follow. Man but dives in death : Dives from the sun, in fairer day to rise; The grave, his subterranean road to bliss. Yes, infinite indulgence plaun'd it so: Through various parts our glorious story runs ; Time gives the preface, endless age unrolls The volume (ne'er unroll'd !) of human fate. This earth and skies * already have proclaim'd. This world's a prophecy of worlds to come ; And who what Gop foretells (who speaks in things Still louder than in words) shall dare deny ? If nature's arguments appear too weak, Turn a new leaf, and stronger read in man. If man sleeps on, untaught by what he sees, Can he prove infidel to what he feels ? He, whose blind thought futurity denies, Unconscious bears, BELLEROPHON ! like thee, His own indictment; he condemns himself: Who reads his bosom reads immortal life; Or, nature, there, imposing on her sons, Has written fables; man was made a lie.

" Night the Sixth.

NIGHT VII.

Why discontent for ever harbor'd there ? Incurable consumption of our peace ! Resolve me, why the cottager and king, He whom sea-sever'd realms obey, and he Who steals his whole dominion from he waste, Repelling wintry blasts with mud and straw, Disquieted alike, draw sigh for sigh, In fate so distant, in complaint so near ?

Is it that things terrestial can't content ? Deep in rich pasture will thy flocks complain ? Not so: but to their master is denied To share their sweet serene. Man, ill at ease, In this, not his own place, this foreign field, Where nature fodders him with other food Than was ordain'd his cravings to suffice. Poor in abundance, famish'd at a feast. Sighs on for something more, when most enjoy'd. Is Heaven then kinder to thy flocks than thee ? Not so; thy pasture richer, but remote ; In part remote ; for that remoter part Man bleats from instinct, though, perhaps, debauch'd By sense, his reason sleeps, nor dreams the cause. The cause how obvious when his reason wakes ! His grief is but his grandeur in disguise; And discontent is immortality.

Shall sons of ether, shall the blood of heaven Set up their hopes on earth, and stable here, With brutal acquiescence in the mire ? Lorexzo, no! they shall be nobly pain'd; The glorious foreigners, distress'd, shall sigh On thrones; and thon congratulate the sigh. Man's misery declares him born for bliss; His anxious heart asserts the truth 1 sing, And gives the sceptic in his head the lie.

Our heads, our hearts, our passions, and our powers Speak the same language; call us to the skies; Unripeu'd these, in this inclement clime, Scarce rise above conjecture and mistake; And for this land of trifles those too strong Tumultuous rise, and tempest human life:

What prize on earth can pay us for the storm ? Meet objects for our passions Heaveen ordain'd, Objects that challenge all their fire, and leave No fault but in defect. Ble.s'd Heaven ! avert A bounded ardor for unbounded bliss ! Oh for a bliss unbounded! Far beneath A soul immorted i a mortal joy. Nor are our powers to perish immuture ; But, after feeble effort here, beneath A brighter sun, and in a nobler soil, Transplanted from this sublumary bed, Shall flourish fair, and put forth all their bloom.

Reason progressive, instinct is complete ; Swift instinct leaps ; slow reason feebly climbs. Brutes soon their zenith reach ; their little all Flows in at once; in ages they no more Could do, or know, or covet, or enjoy. Were man to live coevel with the sun, The patriarch pupil would be learning still, Yet, dying, leave his lesson half unlearn'd. Men perish in advance, as if the sun Should set, ere noon, in eastern oceans drown'd : If fit, with dim, illustrious to compare, The sun's meridian with the soul of man. To man, why, stepdame nature, so severe ? Why thrown aside thy masterpiece half wrought, While meaner efforts thy last hand enjoy ? Or, if abortively poor man must die, Nor reach what reach he might, why die in dread ? Why cursed with foresight ? wise to misery ? Why of his proud prerogative the prey ? Why less pre-eminent in rank than pain ? His immortality alone can tell; Full ample fund to balance all amiss, And turn the scale in favor of the just! His immortality alone can solve That darkest of enigmas, human hope; Of all the darkest, if at death we die. Hope, eager hope, th' assassin of our joy. All present blessings treading under foot,

Is scarce a milder tyrant than despair. With no past toils content, still planning new, Hope turns us o'er to death alone for ease. Possession, why more tasteless than pursuit? Why is a wish far dearer than a crown ? That wish accomplish'd, why the grave of bliss ? Because, in the great future, buried deep, Beyond our plans of empire and renown, Lies all that man with ardor should pursue ; And HE who made him bent him to the right.

Man's heart the ALMIGHTY to the future sets, By secret and inviolable springs; And makes his hope his sublumary joy. Man's heart eats all things, and is hungry still; "More, more !" the glutton cries: for something new So rages appetite, if man can't mount, He will descend. He starves on the posses'd. Hence the world's master, from ambition's spire, In Caprea plunged, and dived beneath the brate. In that rank sty why wallow'd empire's son Supreme ? Because he could no higher fly; His riot was ambition in despair.

Old Rome consulted birds, LORENZO ! thou With more success, the flight of hope survey; Of restless hope, for ever on the wing: High-perch'd o'er every thought that falcon sits, To fly at all that rises in her sight; And, never stooping but to mount again; Next moment, she botrays her aim's mistake, And owns her quarry lodged beyond the grave.

There should it fail us, (it must fail us there, If being fails.) more mournful riddles rise, And virtue vies with hope in mystery. Why virtue ? Where its praise, its being fied ? Virtue is true self-interest pursued: What true self-interest of quite mortal man ? To close with all that makes him happy here. If vice (as sometimes) is our friend on earth, Then vice is virtue; 'tis our sov'reign good. 't self-applause is virtue's golden prize;

No self-applause attends it, on thy scheme, Whence self-applause ! from com-cience of the right, And what is right but means of happiness ! No means of happine s when virtue yields; That basis failing, fulls the building too, And larys in ruin every virtuous joy,

The rigid guardian of a biancies's heart, So long revered, so long repated wite, Is weak, with rank knight-errentries of erran. Why beats thy bo-om with iff retrious dreams Of self-exposure, luad, he and great ? Of gallant enterprise and glorious death ? Die for thy country ! Thou romantic foo! ! Seize, seize the plank thyself, and let her sink : Thy country ! what to thee !--Tise Godhead, what ? (I speak with awe?) though II e-hould bid thee bleed? If, with thy blood, thy final hope is spillid, Nor can Onnipotence reward the olive : Be deaf; preserve thy being; disobey.

Not is it disobedience. Know, Lokenzo, Whate'er th' ALMIGHTY's Sub-equent command, His first command is this :---- 'Man, love thyself." In this alone free agents are not free. Existence is the basis, bliss the prize : If virtue cost existence, 'tis a crime; Bold violatior of our law supreme, Black suicide, though nations, which consult Their gain at thy expense, resound applause.

Since virtue's recompense is doubtid here, If man dies wholly, well may we demand, Why is man suffer'd to be good in vain ? Why to be good in vain is man enjoin'd ? Why to be good in vain is man heray'd ? Betray'd by traitors lodged in his own breast, By sweet complacencies from virtue feit ? Why whispers nature lies on virtue's part ? Or if blind instinct (which assumes the name Of sacred conscience) plays the fool in man, Why areason made accomplice in the praise ?

NIGHT VII.

Can man by reason's beam be led astray ? Or, at his peril, imitate his Gon ? Since virtue sometimes ruins us on earth, Or both are true, or man survives the grave.

Or man survives the grave, or own, LORENZO, Thy boast supreme a wild absurdity. Danntless thy spirit; cowards are thy scorn : Grant man immortal, and thy scorn is just. The man immortal, rationally brave, Dares rush on death—because he cannot die. But if man loses all when life is lost He lives a coward, or a fool expires. A daring infidel, (and such there are, From pride, example, lucre, rage, revenge, Or fall earth's madmen, most deserves a chain.

When to the grave we tollow the renown'd For valour, virtue, science, all we love, And all we praise; for worth, whose noontide beam, Enabling us to think in higher style, Mends our ideas of ethereal powers; Dream we, that lustre of the moral world Goes out in stench, and rottenness the close ? Why was he wise to know, and warm to praise, And strenuous to describe, in human life, The Mind Almighty ? Could it be, that fate, Just when the lineaments began to shine, And dawn, the DETY should smatch the draught, With night eternal blot it out, and give The skies alarm, lest angels too might die ?

If human souls, why not angelic too Extinguish'd' and a solitary Gon, O'er ghastly ruin, frowning from his throne ? Shall we this moment gaze or Gon in man ? The next, lose man for ever in the dust ? From dust we disengage, or man mistakes ; And there, where least his jndgment fears a flaw. Wisdom and worth, how boldly he commends ! Wisdom and worth are sacred names; revered, Where not embraced; applauded; defined !

Why not compression 'd too? If spirits die, Both are calumities, inflicted both, To make us but more wretched. Wisdom's eye, Acute, for what? To spy more miseries; And worth, so recompensed, new points their stings. Or man surmounts the grave, or gain is loss, And worth exalted humbles us the more. Thou will not patronise a scheme that makes Weakness and vice the refuge of mankind.

" Has virtue then no joys?" Yes, joys dear bought. Talk ne'er so long in this imperfect state, Virtue and vice are at eternal war. Virtue's a combat; and who fights for nonght? Or for precatious, or for small reward? Who virtue's self-reward so lond resonnd, Would take degrees angelic here below, And virtue, while they compliment, betray, By feeble motives, and unfathful guards. The crown, th' unfathful grown her soul inspires: "Tis that, and that alone cun conntervail The body's trencheries and the world's assaults: On earth's poor pay our famish'd virtue dies. Truth incontestable ! in spite of all A BAYLE has preach'd, or a VOLTARE believed.

In man, the more we dive, the more we see Heaven's signet stamping an immortal make. Dive to the bottom of his soul, the base Sustaining all; what find we ? Knowledge, love: As light, and heat, e-sential to the sun, These to the soul. And why, if souls expire ? How little lovely here ? How little known ? Small knowledge we dig up with endless toil; And love unfeign'd may purchase perfect hate. Why starved, on earth, our angel appetites; While brutal are indulged their fulsome fill? Were then capacities divine conferr'd. As a mock diadem, in savage sport, Rank insult of our pompous poverty, Which reaps but pain, from seeing claims so fair ? In future age lies no redress ? and shuts

Eternity the door on our complaint ? If so, for what strange ends were mortals made : The worst to wallow, and the best to weep ; The man who merits most mutst most complain : Can we conceive a disregard in Heaven, What the worst perpetrate, or best endure ?

This cannot be. To love, and know, in man Is boundless appetite, and boundless power; And these demonstrate boundless objects too. Objects, powers, appetites, Heaven suits in all; Nor, nature through, elev violates this sweet, Eternal concord, on her tuneful string. Is man the sole exception from her laws? Eternity struck off from human hope, (I speak with truth, but veneration too.) Man is a monster, the reproach of Heaven, A stain, a dark impenetrable cloud On nature's beauteous aspect; and deforms, (Amazing blot!) deforms her with her lord. If such is man's allotment, what is Heaven? Or own the soul immortal, or blaspheme.

Or own the soul immortal, or invert All order. Go, mock-majesty ! go, man ! And bow to thy superiors of the stall ; Through every scene of sense superior far: They graze the turf untill'd ; they drink the stream Unbrew'd, and ever full, and unimbitter'd With doubts, fears, fruitless hopes, regrets, despairs, Mankind's peculiar ! reason's precious dower ! No foreign clime they ransack for their robes : Nor brothers cite to the litigious bar ; Their good is good entire, unmix'd, unmarr'd: They find a paradise in every field, On boughs forbidden where no curses hang; Their ill no more than strikes the sense ; unstretch'd By previous dread, or murmer in the rear: When the worst comes, it comes unfeared; one stroke Begins and ends their woe: they die but once: Bless'd, incommunicable privilege ! for which Proud man, who rules the globe, and reads the stars,

Philosopher, or hero, sighs in vain. Account for this prerogative in brutes. No day, no glimpse of day, to solve the knot, But what beams on it from eternity. O sole and sweet solution ! That unties

The difficult, and softens the severe : The cloud on nature's beauteous face dispels; Restores bright order; casts the brute beneath; And reinthrones us in supremacy Of joy, even here. A dmit immortal life, And virtue is knight-errantry no more; Each virtue brings in hand a golden dower, Far richer in reversion: hope exults; And though much bitter in our cup is thrown, Predominates, and gives the taste of heaven. Oh, wherefore is the Derry so kind ? Astonishing beyond astonishment! Heaven our reward—for heaven enjoy'd below.

Still unsubdued thy stubborn heart' for there The traitor lurks who doubts the truth I sing. Reason is guiltless; will alone rebels. What, in that stubborn heart, if I should find New, unexpected witnesses against thee ? Ambition, pleasure, and the love of gain ! Canst thou suspect that these, which make the soul The slave of earth, should own her heir of heaven ? Canst thou suspect what makes us disbelieve Our immortality, should prove it sure ?

First, then, ambition summon to the bar. Ambition's shame, extravagance, disgust, And unextinguishable nature, speak. Each much deposes; hear them in their turn.

The soul, how passionately fond of fame ! How anxious that fond passion to conceal ! We blush, detected in designs on praise, Though for best deeds, and from the best of men. And why ? Because immortal. Art divine Has made the body tutor to the soul ; Heaven kindly gives our blood a moral flow, Bids it ascend the glowing cheek, and there

NIGHT VII.

Upbraid that little heart's inglorious aim, Which stoops to court a character from man; While o'er us, in tremendous judgment, sit Far more than man with endless praise and blame.

Ambition's boundless appetite outspeaks The verdict of its shame. When souls take fire At high presumptions of their own desert, One age is poor applause; the mighty shout, The thunder by the living few begun, Late time must each o; worlds unborn, resound. We wish our names eternally to live: Wild dream! which ne'er had haunted human Had not our natures been eternal too. [thought Instinct points out an interest in hereafter; But our blind reason sees not where it lies; Or, seeing, gives the substance for the shade.

Fame is the shade of immortality, And in itself a shadow. Soon as caught, Contem'd; it shrinks to nothing in the grasp. Consult the abilitous, 'is ambition's cure. "And is this all?" cried C#sara at his height, Disgusted. This third proof ambition brings Of immortality. The first in fame, Observe him near, your envy will abate : Shamed at the disproportion wast, between The passion and the purchase, he will sigh At such success, and blush at his renown. And why? because far richer prize invites His heart; far more illustrious glory calls : It calls in whispers, yet the deafest hear.

And can ambituon a fourth proof supply? It can, and stronger than the former three; Yet quite o'erlook'd by some reputed wise. Though disappointments in ambition pain, And though success disgusts; yet still LORENZO, In vain we strive to pluck it from our hearts; By nature planted for the noblest ends. Absurd the famed advice to PYRRHUS given, More praised than ponder'd; specious, but unsound Sooner that hero's sword the word had quell'd,

Than reason his ambition. Man must soar. And obstinate activity within, An insuppressive spring, will toss him up In spite of fortune's load. Not kings alone, Each villager has his ambition to; No sultan prouder than his fetter'd slave : Slaves build their little Babylons of straw, Echo the proud Assyrian in their hearts, And cry " Behold the wonders of my might:" And why? Because immortal as their lord: And souls immortal must for ever heave At something great; the glitter, or the gold; The praise of mortals, or the praise of Heaven.

Nor absolutely vain is human praise, When human is supported by divine. I'll introduce LORENZO to himself. Pleasure and pride (bad masters!) share our hearts. As love of pleasure is ordain'd to guard And feed our bodies, and extend our race ! The love of praise is planted to protect. And propagate the glories of the mind. What is it, but the love of praise, inspires. Matures, refines, embellishes, exalts Earth's happiness ? From that, the delicate. The grand, the marvellous of civil life. Want, and convenience, under-workers, lay The basis, on which love of glory builds. Nor is thy life, O virtue ! less in debt To praise, thy secret stimulating friend. Were men not proud what merit should we miss! Pride made the virtues of the Pagan world, Praise is the salt that seasons right to man. And whets his appetite for moral good. Thirst of applause is virtue's second guard : Reason, her first; but reason wants an aid : Our private reason is a flatterer: Thirst of applause calls public judgment in, To poise our own, to keep an even scale, And give endanger'd virtue fairer play. Here a fifth proof arises, stronger still :

NIGHT VII.

Why this so nice construction of our hearts ? These delicate moralities of sense ; This constitutional reserve of aid To succour virtue, when our reason fails ; If virtue, kept alive by care and toil, And oft the mark of injuries on earth, When labor'd to maturity (its bill Of disciplines and pains unpaid) must die ? Why freighted rich, to dash against a rock ? Were man to perish when most fit to live, Oh, how misspent were all those stratagems, By skill divine inwoven in our frame ! Where are Heaven's holiness and mercy fled ? Laughs Heaven, at once, at virtue and at man? If not, why that discouraged, this destroy'd ? Thus far ambition. What says avarice ? This her chief maxim, which has long been thine : "The wise and wealthy are the same." I grant it. To store up treasure with incessant toil, This is man's province, this his highest praise. To this great end keen instinct stings him on : To guide that instinct, reason ! is thy charge ; "Tis thine to tell us where true treasure lies: But, reason, failing to discharge her trust, Or to the deaf discharging it in vain,

A blunder follows; and blind industry, Gall'd by the spur, but stranger to the course, (The course where stakes of more than gold are won,) O'erloading, with the cares of distant age, The jaded spirits of the present hour, Provides for an eternity below.

"Thou shalt not covet," is a wise command; But bounded to the wealth the sun surveys: Look further, the command stunds quite reversed, And avarice is a virtue most divine. Is faith a refuge for our happiness ? Most sure : and is it not for renson too ? Nothing this world unriddles, but the next. Whence unextinguishable thirst of gain ? From unextinguishable life in man.

Man, if not meant, by worth, to reach the skies, Had wanted wing to fly so far in guilt. Sour grapes, I grant, ambition, avarice; Yet still their root is inmortality. These its wild growths, so bitter and so base, (Pain and reproach !) religion can reclaim, Refine, exalt, throw down the poisonous lee, And make them sparkle in the bowl of bliss.

See, the third witness laughs at bliss remote, And falsely promises an Eden here : Truth she shall speak for once, though prone to lie, A common cheat, and Pleasure is her name. To pleasure never was LORENZO deaf; Then hear her now, now first thy real friend.

Since nature made us not more fond than proud Of happiness, (whence hypocrites in joy !) Makers of mirth ! artificers of smiles ! Why should the joy most poignant sense affords Burn us with blushes, and rebuke our pride ?-Those heaven-born blushes tell us, man descends. E'en in the zenith of his earthly bliss: Should reason take her infidel repose, This honest instinct speaks our lineage high ; This instinct calls on darkness to conceal Our rapturous relation to the stalls. Our glory covers us with noble shame, And he that's unconfounded is unmann'd. The man that blushes is not quite a brute. Thus far with thee, LORENZO, will I close: Pleasure is good, and man for pleasure made : But pleasure full of glory, as of joy; Pleasure, which neither blushes nor expires.

The witnesses are heard; the cause is o'er: Let conscience file the sentence in her court, Dearer than deeds that half a realm convey: Thus seal'd by truth, th' authentic record runs;

"Know, all; know, infidels,—unapt to know! "Tis immortality your nature solves; "Tis immortality deciphers man, And opens all the myst'ries of his make.

Without it, hulf his instincts are a riddle; Without it, all his virtues are a dream. His very crimes attest his dignity; His sateless thirst of pleasure, gold, and fame, Declares him born for blessings infinite: What less than infinite makes unabsurd Passions, which all on earth but more inflames? Fierce passions, so mismeasured to this scene, Stretch'd out, like eagles' wings, beyond our nest, Far, far beyond the worth of all below, For earth too large, presage a nobler flight, And evidence our title to the skies."

Ye gentle theologues, of calmer kind ! Whose constitution dictates to your pen; Who, cold yourselves, think ardor comes from hell ! Think not our passions from corruption sprung, Though to corruption now they lend their wings; That is their mistress, not their mother. All (And justly) reason deem divine : I see, I feel a grandeur in the passions too, Which speaks their high descent, their glorious end ; Which speaks them rays of an eternal fire. In Paradise itself they burn'd as strong, Ere ADAM fell ; though wiser in their aim. Like the proud Eastern, struck by Providence, What though our passions are run mad, and stoop With low terrestial appetite, to graze On trash, on toys, dethroned from high desire ? Yet still, through their disgrace, no feeble ray Of greatness shines, and tells us whence they fell : But these, (like that fallen monarch when reclaim'd,) When reason moderates the rein aright, Shall reascend, remount their former sphere, Where once they soar'd illustrious; ere seduced By wanton Eve's debauch, to stroll on earth, And set the sublunary world on fire.

But grant their frenzy lasts; their frenzy fails To disappoint one providential end, For which Heaven blew up ardor in our hearts; Were reason silent, boundless passion speaks

A future scene of boundless objects too, And brings glad tidings of eternal day. Eternal day! 'tis that enlightens all; And all, by that enlighten'd, proves it sure. Consider man as an innort il being, Intelligible all; and all is great; A crystalline transparency prevails, And strikes full lustre through the human sphere: Consider man as mortal, all is dark, And wretched; reason weeps at the survey.

The learn'd LORENZO cries, "And let he'r weep, Weak modern reason; ancient times were wise. Authority, that venerable guide, Stands on my part; the famed Athenian porch (And who for wisdom so renown'd as they ?) Denied this inmortality to man." I grant it, but affirm, they proved it too. A riddle, this ?-Have patience; Pil explain.

What noble vanities, what moral flights, Glittering through their romantic wisdom's page, Make us at once, despise them and admire ? Fable is flat to these high-season'd sires; They leave the extravagance of song below. "Flesh shall not feel; or, feeling, shall enjoy The danger or the rack; to them, alike A bed of roses, or the burning bull." In men exploding all beyond the grave, Strange doctrine this ! As doctrine it was strange ! But not, as prophecy ; for such it proved, And, to their own amazement, was fulfill'd: They feign'd a firmness Christans need not feign. The Christian truly triumph'd in the flame : The Stoic saw, in double wonder lost, Wonder at them, and wonder at himself, To find the bold adventures of his thought Not bold, and that he strove to lie in vain.

Whence, then, those thoughts ? those towering thoughts, that flew

Such monstrous heights ? From instinct and from The glorious instinct of a deathless soul, [pride,

NIGHT VII.

Confusedly conscious of her dignity, Suggested truths they could not understand. In lust's dominion, and in passion's storm, Truth's system broken, scatter'd fragments lay, As light in chaos, gliunmering through the gloom : Smit with the pomp of lotty sentiments, Pleased pride proclain'd, what reason disbelieved. Pride, like the Delphic priestess, with a swell, Raved nonsense, destined to be future sense. When life immortal, in full day, should shine ; And death's dark shadows fly the Gospel sun. They spoke, what nothing but immortal souls Could speak; and thus the truth they question'd

Can then absurdities, as well as crimes, [proved. Speak man immortal ? All things speak him so. Much has been urged; and dost thou call for more ? Call; and with endless questions be distress'd, All unresolvable, if carth is all.

"Why life, a moment ? infinite, desire ? Our wish, eternity? our home, the grave? Heaven's promise dormant lies in human hope ; Who wishes life immortal proves it too. Why happiness pursued, though never found ? Man's thirst of happiness declares it is; (For nature never gravitates to nought :) That thirst, unquench'd declares it is not here. My LUCIA, thy CLARISSA call to thought : . Why cordial friendship riveted so deep, As hearts, to pierce at first, at parting, rend, If friend and friendship vanish in an hour ? Is not this torment in the mask of joy ? Why by reflection marr'd the joys of sense ? Why past and future preying on our hearts, And putting all our present joys to death ? Why labors reason ? Instinct were as well ! Instinct far better; what can choose can err: Oh, how infallible the thoughtless brute ! "Twere well his Holiness were half as sure. Reason with inclination, why at war ? Why sense of guilt ? why conscience up in arms ?

Conscience of guilt is prophecy of pain, And bosom-counsel to decline the blow. Reason with inclination ne'er had jarr'd, If nothing future paid forbearance here: Thus on-these, a thousand pleas uncall'd, All promise, some ensure a second scene; Which, were it doubtful, would be dearer far Than all things else most certain ; were it false, What truth on earth so precious as the lie ? This world it gives us, let what will ensue ; This world it gives, in that high cordial, hope : The future of the present is the soul. How this life groans, when sever'd from the next ! Poor mutilated wretch, that disbelieves ! By dark distrust his being cut in two, In both parts perishes ; life void of joy, Sad prelude of eternity in pain !

Couldst thou persuade me, the next life could fail Our ardent wishes; how should I pour out My bleeding heart in anguish, new as deep! Oh! with what thoughts, thy hope, and my despair, Abhorr'd axwintLartors! blasts the soul, And wide extends the bounds of human woe! Could I believe LORENZO'S system true, In this black channel would my ravings run:

"Grief from the future borrow'd peace, crewhile, The future vanish'd ! and the present pain'd ! Strange import of upprecedented ill ! Fall, how profound ! like Lucerers's, the fall ! Unequal fatte ! his fall, without his guilt ! From where fond hope built her pavilion high, The gods among, hurl'd headlong, hurl'd at once To night ! to nothing : darker still than night ! If 'twas a dream, why wake me, my worst foe, Loreszo, boastful of the name of friend ! Oh for delusion ! Oh for error still ! Could vengeance strike much stronger than to plant A thinking being in a world like this, Not over rich before, now beggar'd quite ; More cursed than at the fall ? the sun goes out ! The thorns shoot up! what thorns in every thought! Why sense of better ? It embitters worse.

Why sense ? why life ? if but to sigh, then sink To what I was ? Twice nothing ! and much woe ! Woe, from Heaven's bounties ! woe from what was To flatter most, high intellectual powers ! [wont

"Thought, virtue, knowledge ! blessings, by thy scheme

All poison'd into pains. First, knowledge, once My soul's ambition, now her greatest dread. To know myself, true wisdom ? No, to shun That shocking science, parent of despair ! Avert thy mirror : if I see, I die.

"Know my Creator ! climb this bless'd abode By painful speculation, pierce the veil, Dive in his nature, read his attributes, And gaze in admiration--on a foe, Obtruding life, withholding happiness ! From the full rivers that surround his throne, Not letting fall one drop of joy on man; Man gasping for one drop that he might cease To curse his birth, nor envy reptiles more ! Ye sable clouds ! ye darkest shades of night! Hide him, for ever hide him from my thought! Once all my comfort; source and soul of joy ! Now leagued with furies, and with thee*, against me. "Know his achievements ! study his renown ! Contemplate this amazing universe. Dropp'd from his hand, with miracles replete !

To find the being which alone can know And praise his works, a blemish on his praise ? Through nature's ample range, in thought to stroll, And start at man, the single mourner there, [death ? Breathing high hope, chain'd down to pangs and

"Knowing is suffering : and shall virtue share The sigh of knowledge ? Virtue shares the sigh. By straining up the steep of excellent,

*LORENZO.

By battles fought, and from temptation won, What gains she, but the pang of seeing worth, Angelic worth, soon shuffled in the dark With every vice, and swept to brutal dust ? Merit is madness ; virtue is a crime ; A crime to reason, if it costs us pain Unpaid. What pain, amidst a thousand more, To think the most abandon'd, after days Of triumph o'er their betters, find in death As soft a pillow, nor make fouler clay !

"Duty ! Religion !---- These, our duty done, Imply reward. Religion is mistake. Duty !---- There's none, but to repel the cheat. Ye cheats, away! ye daughters of my pride ! Who feign yourselves the fav'rites of the skies : Ye towering hopes ! abortive energies ! That toss, and struggle, in my lying breast, To scale the skies, and build presumptions there, As I were heir of an eternity. Vain, vain ambitions ! trouble me no more. Why travel far in quest of sure defeat ? As bounded as my being be my wish. All is inverted; wisdom is a fool. Sense ! take the rein ; blind passion ! drive us on ; And ignorance ! befriend us on our way ; Ye new, but truest patrons of our peace ! Yes; give the pulse full empire; live the brute, Since, as the brute, we die. The sum of man, Of godlike man! to revel, and to rot.

"But not on equal terms with other brutes : Their revels a more poignant relish yield, And safer too ! they never poisons choose. Instinct than reason makes more wholesome meals, And sends all-marring nurmer far away. For sensual life they best philosophize ; Theirs, that serene the sages sought in vain : "I's man alone exposulates with Heaven ; His all the power and all the cause to mourn. Shall human eyes alone dissolve in tears ? And bleed in anguish, none but human hearts ?

NIGHT VIL.

The wide-stretch'd realm of intellectual woe, Surpassing sensual far is all our own. In life so fatally distinguish'd, why Cast in one lot, confounded, lump'd in death?

"Ere yet in being, was mankind in guilt? Why thunder'd this peculiar clause against us, All mortal, and all wretched ? Have the skies Reasons of state their subjects may not scan, Nor humbly reason, when they sorely sigh ? All mortal, and all wretched ! "Tis too much; Unparallel'd in nature: 'dis too much; On being unrequested at thy hands, Omstroortsrt ! for I see nought but power,

"And why see that ? why thought ? to toil and eat, Then make our bed in darkness, needs no thought. What superfluities are reasoning souls ! Oh, give eternity ! or thought destroy ! But without thought our curse were half unfelt; Its blunted edge would spare the throbbing heart; And, therefore, 'tis bestow'd. I thank thee, reason ! For aiding life's too small calamities, And giving being to the dread of death. Such are thy bounties !-- Was it then too much For me to trespass on the brutal rights ? Too much for Heaven to make one emmet more ? Too much for chaos to permit my mass A longer stay with essences unwrought, Unfashion'd, untormented into man? Wretched preferment to this round of pains ! Wretched capacity of frenzy, thought! Wretched capacity of dying, life ! Life, thought, worth, wisdom, all, (Oh foul revolt !) Once friends to peace, gone over to the foe,

"Death then has changed its nature too: O death ! Come to my bosom thou best girl of Heaven ! Best friend of man ! since man is man no more. Why in this thorny wilderness so long, Since there's no promised land's ambrosial bower, To pay me with its honey for my stings ? If needful to the selfish schemes of Heaven

To sting us sore, why mock'd our misery ! Why this so sumptuous insult of er our heads ? Why this illustrious canopy display'd ? Why so magnificently lodged despair ? At stated periods, sure returning, roll These glorious orbs, that mortals may compute Their length of labors and of pains; nor lose Their misery's full measure ? Smiles with flowers, And fruits, promiscous, ever teeming earth, That man may languish in luxurious scenes, And in an Eden mourn his wither'd joys ? Claim earth and skies man's admiration, due For such delights ! Bless'd animals ! too wise To wonder, and too happy to complain !

"Our doom decreed demands a mournful scene : Why not a dungeon dark, for the condemn'd ? Why not the dragon's subterranean den, For man to howl in ? why not his abode Of the same dismal color with his fate ? A Thebes, a Babylon, at vast expense Of time, tof, treasure, art, for owls and adders, As congruous as, for man this lofty donne, [sire ; Which prompts prond thought, and kindles high de-If, from her humble chamber in the dust, While proud thought swells, and high desire inflames, The poor worm calls us for her inmates there : And, round us, death's inexorable hand Draws the dark curtain close ; undrawn no more.

"Undrawn no nore ! behind the cloud of death, Once, I beheld a sun ; a sun which gilt That sable cloud, and turned it all to gold. How the grave's altered ! fathomless as hell ! A real hell to those who dreamed of heaven, ANNIMLATION ! how it yawns before me ! Next moment I may drop from thought, from sense, The privilege of angels, and of worms, An outcast from existence ! and this spirit, This all-pervading, this all-conscious soul, This particle of energy divine, Which travels nature, flices from star to star,

NIGHT VIL.

And visits gods, and enulates their powers, For ever is extinguish'd. Horror ! death ! Death of that death ! tearless once survey'd !— When horror universal shall descend, And heaven's dark concave urn all human race, On that enormous, unrefunding tomb, How just this verse! this uncouncental sight !"

Beneath the lumher of demolish'd worlds, Deep in the rubbish of the general wreck, Swept ignominious to the common mass Of matter never dignified with life, Here lie proad rationals; the sons of Heaven ! The lords of earth! the property of worms ! Beings of yesterday, and not to-morrow ! Who lived in terror, and in pange expired ! All gone to rot in Chaos; or, to make Their happy transit into blocks or brutes, Nor longer sully their Creator's name.

LORENZO ! hear, pause, wonder, and pronounce. Just is this history ? If such is man, Mankind's historian, though divine, might weep. And dares LORENZO smile !-- I know thee proud ; For once let pride befriend thee: pride looks pale At such a scene, and sighs for something more. Amid thy boasts, presumptuous, and displays, And art thou then a shadow ? less than shade ? And nothing ? less than nothing ? To have been, And not to be, is lower than unborn. Art thou ambitions ? Why then make the worm Thine equal ? Runs thy taste of pleasure high ? Why paironize sure death of every joy ? Charm riches ? Why choose begg'ry in the grave, Of every hope a bankrupt ! and for ever ? Ambition, pleasure, avarice persuade thee To make that world of glory, rapture, wealth, They* lately proved thy soul's supreme desire.

* In the Sixth Night.

What art thou made of ? Bather, how unmade ? Great nature's master appetite de-troy'd ? Is endless life and happiness despired ? Or both wish'd here, where neither can be found ? Such man's perver e, eternal wur with Heaven ! Darest thou persist ? And is there nought on earth, But a long train of transitory forms, Rising, and breaking, millions in an hour ? Bubbles of a faults-tic deity, blown up In sport, and then in cruchty destroy'd ? Oh! for what crime, unmerciful Lockszo ! Destroy's thy scheme the whole of human race ? Kind is fell LUCIFER, compared to thee : Oh! spare this waste of being half divine ; And vandicate th' economy of Heaven.

Heaven is all love; all joy in giving joy; It never had created, but to bless: And shall it then strike off the list of life A being bless'd, or worthy so to be? Heaven starts at an annihilating Gop.

Is that all nature starts at, thy desire ? Art such a clod, to wish thyself all clay ? What is that dreadful wish ? The dying groan Of nature, nurdered by the blackest guilt. What deadly poison has thy nature drunk ? To nature, undebauch'd, no shock so great ; Nature's first wish is cndless heuppiness ; Annibilation is an after-thought, A monstrons wish, unborn till virtue dies. And, oh ! what depth of horror lies enclosed ! For non-existence no man ever wish'd, But, first, he wish'd the Deyrry destroy'd.

If so, what words are dark enough to draw Thy picture true? The darkest are too fair. Beneath what baleful planet, in what hour Of desperation, by what fury's aid, In what infernal posture of the soul, All hell invited, and all hell in joy At such a birth, a birth so near of kin, Did thy foul fancy whelp so black a scheme Of hopes abortive, faculties half blown, And deities begun, reduced to dust ? There's nought (thou say'st) but one eternal flux Of feeble essences, tumultuous driven Through time's rough billows into night's abyss. Say, in this rapid tide of human ruin, Is there no rock, on which man's tossing thought Can rest from terror, dare his fate survey, And boldly think it something to be born ? Amid such hourly wrecks of being fair, Is there no central, all-sustaining base, All realizing, all connecting power, Which, as it call'd forth all things, can recall, And force destruction to refund her spoil ? Command the grave restore her taken prey ? Bid death's dark vale its human harvest yield, And earth and ocean pay their debt of man, True to the grand deposit trusted there ? Is there no potentate, whose outstretch'd arm. When ripening time calls forth th' appointed hour Pluck'd from foul devastation's famish'd maw, Binds present, past, and future to his throne ? His throne how glorious, thus divinely graced. By germinating beings clustering round ! A garland worthy the Divinity ! A throne, by Heaven's omnipotence in smiles, Built (like a Pharos towering in the waves) Amidst immense effusions of his love ! An ocean of communicated bliss !

An all-prolific, all-preserving Gop ! This were a Gop indeed. And such is man, As here presumed : he rises from his fall. Think'st thou Omnipotence a naked root, Each blossom fair of DEITY destroy'd ? Nothing is dead : nay, nothing sleeps : each soul, That ever animated human clay, Now wakes: is on the wing: and where, Oh where Will the swarm settle ?--When the trumpet's call, As sounding brass, collects us round Heaven's throne Conglobed, we bask in everlasting day, (Paternal splendor!) and adhere for ever. Had not the soul this outlet to the skies, In this vast vessel of the universe, How should we gasp as in an empty void ! How in the progs of famish'd hope expire !

How bright my prospect shines ! how gloomy thine ! A trembling world ! and a devouring god ! Earth, but the shambles of Omninotence ! Heaven's face all stain'd with causeless massacres Of countless millions, born to feel the pang Of being lost. LORENZO! can it be ? This bids us shudder at the thoughts of life. Who would be born to such a phantom world. Where nought substantial but our misery ? Where joy (if joy) but heightens our distress, So soon to perish, and revive no more ? The greater such a joy, the more it pains. A world so far from great (and yet how great It shines to thee !) there's nothing real in it; Being, a shadow ! consciousness, a dream ! A dream, how dreadful ! universal blank Before it and behind ! Poor man, a spark From non-existence struck by wrath divine; Glittering a moment, nor that moment sure : 'Midst upper, nether, and surrounding night, His sad, sure, sudden, and eternal tomb !

LORENZO, dost thou teet these arguments ? Or is there nought but vengeance can be felt ? How hast thou dared the DETRY dethrone ? How dared indict him of a world like this ? If such the world, creation was a crime ; For what is crime but cause of misery ? Retract, blasphemer ! and unriddle this, Of endless arguments, above, below, Without us, and within, the short result— "If man's immortal, there's a Goo in heaven."

But wherefore such redundancy, such waste Of argument? One sets my soul at rest? One obvious, and at hand, and, oh !--at heart: So just the skies, PHLANDEE's life so pain'd,

His heart so pure ; that, or succeeding scenes Have palms to give, or ne'er had he been born.

"What an old tale is this!" LORENZO cries. I grant this argument is old; but truth No years impair : and had not this been true, Thou never hadst despised it for its age. Truth is immortal as thy soul; and fable As fleeting as thy joys. Be wise, nor make Heaven's highest blessings vengeance; Oh, be wise ! Nor make a curse of immortality.

Say, know'st thou what it is, 'or what thou art ? Know'st thou the importance of a soul immortal ? Behold this midnight glory : worlds on worlds ! Amazing pomp ! redouble this anaze ; Ten thou and add ; and twice ten thousand more ; Then weigh the whole ! one soul outweighs them all ; And calls th' a tonishing magnificence Of unintelligent creation, poor.

For this believe not me; no man believe: Trust not in words, but deeds; and deeds no less Than those of the SURRENE; nor his a few; Consult them all; consulted, all proclaim Thy soul's importance. Tremble at thyself; For whom Omnipotence has waked so long: Has waked, and work'd for ages; from the birth Of nature to this unbelieving hoar.

In this small province of His vast domain, (All nature bow, while I pronounce His name!) What has Gon done, and not for this sole end, To rescue souls from death? The soul's high price Is writ in all the conduct of the skies. The soul's high price is the creation's key, Unlocks its mysteries, and naked lays The genuine cause of every deed divine : That, is the chain of ages, which maintains Their obvious correspondence, and unites Most distant periods in one bless'd design : That, is the mightly hinge, on which have turn'd All revolutions, whether we regard The natured, civil, or religious world;

The former two but servants to the third : To that their duty done, they both expire ; Their mass new-cast, forgot their deeds renown'd; And angels ask, " where once they shone so fair ?" To lift us from this abject, to sublime ; This flux, to permanent; this dark, to day; This foul, to pure : this turbid, to serene : This mean, to mighty !- for this glorious end Th' ALMIGHTY, rising, his long sabbath broke ! The world was made; was ruin'd; was restor'd; Laws from the skies were publish'd ; were repeal'd ; On earth, kings, kingdoms rose; kings, kingdoms fell; Famed sages lighted up the Pagan world; Prophets from Sion darted a keen glance Through distant age ; saints travell'd ; martyrs bled ; By wonders, sacred nature stood controll'd; The living were translated; dead were raised; Angels, and more than angels, came from heaven; And, oh ! for this, descended lower still ! Gilt was hell's gloom; astonish'd at his guest, For one short moment LUCIFER adored ; LORENZO! and wilt thou do less ?-For this, That hallowed page, fools scoff at, was inspired, Of all these truths, thrice venerable code Deists ! perform your quarantine ; and then Fall prostrate, ere vou touch it, lest vou die. Nor less intensely bent infernal powers

Nor less intensely bent internal powers To mar, than those of light this end to gain. Oh what a scene is here !-Lorenzo, wake ! Rise to the thought; evert, expand thy soul To take the vast idea; it denies All else the name of great. Two warring worlds ! Not Europe against Afric; warring worlds, Of more than mortal ! mounted on the wing ! On ardent wings of energy and zeal, High-hovering o'er this little brand of strife ! This sublunary ball. But strife, for what ? In their own cause conflicting ! No; in thine, In their own cause conflicting ! No; in thine, In their own cause conflicting ! No; in thine,

NIGHT VII.

Which kindles war immortal. How it barns ! Tunutluous swarms of deities in arms : Force force opposing, till the waves run high, And tempest nature's universal sphere. Such opposites eternal, steadfast, stern, Such foes implacable, are Good and III; [them. Yet man, vain man, would mediate peace between

Think not this fiction, "There was war in heaven." From heaven's high crystal mountain, where it hung, Th' ALMGATY'S outretch'd arm took down his And shot his indignation at the deep: [bow, Re-thunder'd hell, and darted all her fires,— And seems the stake of little moment still ? And slumbers man, who singly caused the storm ? He sleeps. And art thou shock'd at mysteries ? The greatest, thou. How dreadful to reflect, What ardour, care, and counsel mortals cause In breasts divine ! how little in their own !

Where'er I turn, how new proofs pour upon me! How happily this wondrous view supports My former argument ! How strongly strikes Immortal life's full demonstration, here ! Why this exertion ? Why this strange regard From heaven's Omnipotent indulged to man ? Because, in man, the glorious, dreadful power, Extremely to be pain'd, or bless'd, for ever. Duration gives importance, swells the price. An angel, if a creature of a day, What would he be ? A trifle of no weight; Or stand or fall; no matter which; he's gone. Because immortal, therefore is indulged This strange regard of deities to dust. Hence, heaven looks down on earth with all her eyes Hence, the soul's mighty moment in her sight : Hence, every soul has partisans above, And every thought a critic in the skies: Hence clay, vile clay ! has angels for its guard. And every guard a passion for its charge: Hence, from all age, the cabinet divine Has held high counsel o'er the fate of man.

Nor have the clouds those gracious counsels hid. Angels undrew the curtain of the throne, And PROVIDENCE came forth to meet mankind: In various modes of emphasis and awe, He spoke his will, and trembling nature heard: He spoke it loud, in thunder and in storm. Witness, thou Sinai! whose cloud-cover'd height, And shaken basis, own'd the present Gop : Witness, ye billows ! whose returning tide, Breaking the chain that fasten'd it in air. Swept Egypt and her menaces to hell : Witness, ye flames ! th' Assyrian tyrant blew To sevenfold rage, as impotent as strong : And thou, earth ! witness, whose expanding jaws Closed o'er presumption's sacrilegious sons.* Has not each element, in turn, subscribed The soul's high price, and sworn it to the wise ? Has not flame, ocean, ether, earthquake, strove To strike this truth through adamantine man? If not all adamant, LORENZO ! hear: All is delusion; nature is wrapp'd up, In tenfold night, from reason's keenest eve : There's no consistence, meaning, plan or end, In all beneath the sun, in all above (As far as man can penetrate,) or heaven Is an immense, inestimable prize. Or all is nothing, or that prize is all. And shall each toy be still a match for heaven, And full equivalent for groans below ? Who would not give a trifle to prevent. What he would give a thousand worlds to cure ?

LORENZO ! thoù bast seen (if thine to see) All nature, and her Gon (by nature's course, And nature's course controll'd) declare for me : The skies above proclaim, "Immortal man !" And, "Man immortal !" all below resounds. The world's a system of theology, Read by the greatest strangers to the schools : If honest, learn'd; and sages o'er a plough.

*KORAH, &c.

Is not LORENZO, then, imposed on thee This hard alternative; or, to renomme Thy reason and thy sense : or to believe ? What then is imbelief? "Tis an exploit; A strenuous enterpri-e: to gain it, man Must burst through every bar of common sense, Of common shaine, m-gnanimonsly wroug. And what rewards the sturdy combatant? His prize, repentance; inflany, his crown.

But wherefore infamy ? for want of faith, Down the deep precipice of wrong he slides; There's nothing to support him in the right. Faith in the future wanting, is, at least In embryo, every weakness, every guilt; And strong temptation ripens it to birth. If this life's gain invites him to the deed. Why not his country sold, his father slain ? 'Tis virtue to pursue our good supreme ; And his supreme, his only good is here. Ambition, avarice, by the wise disdain'd, Is perfect wisdom, while mankind are fools, And think a turf or tombstone covers all: These find employment, and provide for sense A richer pasture, and a larger range ; And sense by right divine ascends the throne, When virtue's prize and prospect are no more ; Virtue no more we think the will of Heaven. Would Heaven quite beggar virtue, if beloved ?

" Has virtue charms ?¹⁷ I grant her heavenly fair : But if unportion'd, all will interest wed ; Though that our admiration, this our choice. The virtues grow on immortality ; That root destroy'd, they wither and expire. A DERY believed will nought avail ; Rewards and punishments make Goo adored ; And hopes and fears give conscience all her power. As in the dying parent dies the child, Virtue, with immortality, expires. Whate'er his boast, has told me, he's a knave. His duty, 'tis to love himself alone; Nor care, though mankind perish, if he smiles. Who thinks are long the man shall wholly die, Is dead already; nought but brate survives.

And are there such ? Such candidates there are For more than death; for utter loss of being; Being the basis of the DEITY ? Ask you the cause ? The cause they will not tell; Nor need they : oh the sorceries of sense ! They work this transformation on the soul; Dismount her, like the serpent at the fall, Dismount her from her native wing, (which soar'd Erewhile ethereal heights,) and throw her down, To lick the dust, and crawl in such a thought.

Is it in words to paint you ? O ye fallen ! Fallen from the wings of reason and of hope ! Erect in stature, prone in appetite ! Patrons of pleasure, posting into pain ! Lovers of argument, averse to sense ! Boasters of liberty, fast bound in chains ! Lords of the wide creation, and the shame ! More senseless than th' irrationals you scorn ! More base than those you rule! than those you pity, Far more undone ! O ye most infamous Of beings, from superior dignity ! Deepest in woe, from means of boundless bliss ! Ye cursed by blessings infinite ! because Most highly favor'd, most profoundly lost ! Ye motley mass of contradiction strong ! And are you, too, convinced, your souls fly off In exhalation soft, and die in air. From the full flood of evidence against you ? In the coarse drudgeries and sinks of sense, Your souls have quite worn out the make of Heaven, By vice new cast, and creatures of your own : But though you can deform, you can't destroy ; To curse, not uncreate, is all your power.

LORENZO! this black brotherhood renounce; Renounce St. Evremont, and read St. Paul. Ere rapt by miracle, by reason wing'd,

NIGHT VII.

His mounting mind made long abode in heaven. This is freethinking, uncontined to parts, To send the soul, on curious travel bent, Through all the provinces of human thought: To dart her flight through the whole sphere of man ; Of this vast universe to make the tour; In each recess of space and time, at home; Familiar with their wonders : diving deep ; And, like a prince of boundless interests there, Still most ambitious of the most remote ; To look on truth unbroken, and entire; Truth in the system, the full orb; where truths By truths enlighten'd, and sustain'd, afford An arch-like, strong foundation, to support Th' incumbent weight of absolute, complete Conviction : here, the more we press, we stand More firm ; who most examine, most believe. Parts, like half-sentences, confound; the whole Conveys the sense, and Gob is understood; Who not in fragments writes to human race: Read his whole volume, sceptic ! then reply.

This, this is thinking free, a thought that grasps Beyond a grain, and looks beyond an hour. Turn up thine eye, survey this midnight scene; What are earth's kingdoms to yon boundless orbs, Of human souls one day the destined range! And what yon boundless orbs to godlike man? Those numerous worlds that throng the firmament, And ask more space in heaven, can roll at large In man's capacious thought, and still leave room For ampler orbs; for new creations there. Can such a soul contract itself to gripe A point of no dimension, of no weight? It can: it does; the world is such a point; And, of that point, how small a part enslaves!

How small a part—of nothing shall I say? Why not?—Friends, our chief treasure, how they Lucta, NARCISSA fair, PHILANDER, gone ! [drop ? The grave, like fabled Cerberus, has oped A triple mouth; and, in an awful voice,

Loud calls my soul, and utters all I sing. How the world falls to pieces round about us, And leaves us in a ruin of our joy ! What says this transportation of my friends ? It bids me love the place where now they dwell, And scorn this wretched spot they leave so poor. Eternity's vast ocean lies before thee ; There, there, LORENZO ! thy CLARISSA Sails. Give thy mind sea-room ; keep it wide of earth, That rock of souls immortal ; cut thy cord; : Weigh anchor ; spread thy sails ; call every wind; Weigh anchor ; spread thy sails ; call every wind; Weigh anchor ; spread the land of life.

Two'kinds of life has double-natured man, And two of death; the last far nore severe. Life animal is nurtured by the sun; Thrives on his bounties, triuunphs in his beams. Life rational subsists on higher food, Triumphant in His beams who made the day. When we leave that sun, and are left by this, (The fate of all who die in stubborn guilt.) 'Tis utter darkness; strictly double death. We sink by no judicial stroke of Heaven, But nature's course as subannets fall. Since Goo, or man, nuust alter, ere they meet, (For light and darkness blend not in one sphere,) 'Tis markets, Lorexzo, who must change.

If, then, that double death should prove thy lot, Blame not the bowels of the DErry: Man shall be bless'd, as far as man permits. Not man alone, all rationals, Heaven arms With an illustrious, but tremendous power To counteract its own most gracious ends; And this, of strict necessity, not choice ; That power denied, men, angels, were no more But passive engines, void of praise or blame. A nature rational implies the power Of being bless'd or wretched, as we please; Else idle reason would have nought to do; And he that would be barr'd capacity Of pain courts incapacity of bliss.

Heaven wills our happiness, allows our doom ; Invites us ardently, but not compels. Heaven but persuades, almighty man decrees ; Man is the maker of innuortal fates. Man fails by man, if finally he fails ; And fail he must, who learns from death alone, The dreadful secret—that he lives for ever

Why this to thee ?—thee yet, perhaps, in doubt Of second life ? But wherefore doubtful still ? Eternal life is nature's ardent wish : What ardently we wish, we soon believe : Thy tardy faith declares that wish destroy'd : What has destroy'd it ?—Shall I tell thee what ? When fear'd the future. 'tis no longer wish'd; And when unwish'd, we strive to disbelieve. "Thus infidelity our guilt betrays." Nor that the sole detection ! Blush, LORENZO ! Blush for hypocrisy, if not for guilt.

The future fear'd ! An infidel, and fear ? Fear what ? a dream ? a fable ?—How thy dread, Unwilling evidence, and therefore strong, Affords my cause an undesign'd support ! How disbelief affirms what it denies ! "It, unawares, asserts immortal life."— Surprising ! infidelity turns out A creed, and a confession of our sins ; Apostates, thus, are orthodox divines.

LORENZO ! with LORENZO clash no more; Nor longer a transparent vizor wear. Think'st thou RELIGION only bas her mask ? Our infidels are Satan's hyporites; Pretend the worst, and, at the bottom, fall. When visited by thought, (thought will intrude,) Like him they serve, they tremble and believe. Is their hyporrisy so foul as this ? So fatal to the welfare of the world ? What detestation, what contempt their due ? And, if unpaid, be thank'd for their escape That Christian eandor they strive hard to scorn. If not for that asylum, they might find

A hell on earth ; nor 'scape a worse below. With insolence, and impotence of thought. Instead of racking fancy, to refute, Reform thy manners, and the truth enjoy .--But shall I dare confess the dire result? Can thy proud reason brook so black a brand ? From purer manners, to sublimer faith, Is nature's unavoidable ascent; An honest deist, where the Gospel shines, Matured to nobler, in the Christian ends. When that bless'd change arrives, e'en cast aside This song superfluous : life immortal strikes Conviction, in a flood of light divine. A Christian dwells, like URIEL, in the sun ;* Meridian evidence puts doubt to flight: And ardent hope anticipates the skies. Of that bright sun, LORENZO! scale the sphere; 'Tis easy ! it invites thee; it descends From heaven to woo, and waft thee whence it came : Read and revere the sacred page ; a page Where triumphs immortality; a page Which not the whole creation could produce ; Which not the conflagration shall destroy ; 'Tis printed in the mind of gods for ever: In nature's ruins not one letter lost. In proud disdain of what e'en gods adore,

In protect distant of what lear goes autor, Dost smile ? Poor wretch ! thy guridian angel weeps. Angels and men assent to what I sing; Wits smile, and thank me for ny midnight dream. How vicious hearts fume frenzy to the brain ! Parts push us on to pride, and pride to shame; Pert infidelity is wit's cockade. To grace the brazen brow that braves the skies, By loss of being, dreadfully secure. LowExxo! if thy doctrine wins the day, And drives my dreams, defeated, from the field If this is all, if earth a final scene, Take heed; stand fast; be sure to be a knave :

* MILTON.

NIGHT VII.

A knave in grain ! ne'er deviate to the right : Shouldst thou be good—how nitinite thy loss ! Guilt only makes annihilation gain. Bless'd scheme ! which life deprives of comfort, death Of hope ; and which vice only recommends. If so, where, infidels ! your bait thrown out To catch weak converts ? Where your lofty boast Of zeal for virtue, and of love to man ? Annihilation ! I confess in these.

What can reclaim you ? Dare I hope profound Philosophers the converts of a song ! Yet know, its title * flatters you, not me: Yours be the praise to make my title good ; Mine, to bless Heaven, and triumph in your praise. But since so pestilential your disease, Though soy'reign is the medicine I prescribe, As yet, I'll neither triumph, nor despair : But hope, ere long, my midnight dream will wake Your hearts, and teach your wisdom-to be wise : For why should souls immortal, made for bliss, E'er wish (and wish in vain !) that souls could die ? What ne'er can die, oh ! grant to live ; and crown The wish, and aim, and labor of the skies ; Increase, and enter on the joys of heaven: Thus shall my title pass a sacred seal, Receive an imprimatur from above, While angels shout-An infidel reclaim'd !

To close, LORENZO. Spite of all my pains, Still seems it strange, that thou shouldst live for ever ? Is it less strange that thou shouldst live at all ? This is a miracle ; and that no more. Who gave beginning can exclude an end. Deny thou art: then, doubt if thou shalt be, A miracle with miracles enclosed, Js man: and starts his faith at what is strange ? What less than wonders, from the Wonderful : What less than miracles, from Gop, can flow ? Admit a Gom—that mystery supreme !

* The Infidel reclaimed.

That cause uncaused ! all other wonders cease ; Nothing is marvellous for Him to do : Deny Him—all is mystery besides ! Millions of mysteries ! each darker far, Than that thy wisdom would, unwisely, shun. If weak thy faith, why choose the harder side ? We nothing know, but what is marvellous ; Yet what is marvellous we can't believe. So weak our reason, and so great our Gon, What most surprises in the sacred page, Or full as strange, or stanger, must be true. Faith is not reason's labor, but repose.

To faith and virtue why so backward, man? From hence:—The present strongly strikes us all; The future, faintly. Can we, then, be men ? If men, LORENKO, the reverse is right. Reason is man's peculiar; sense, the brute's. The present is the scanty realm of sense; The future, reason's empire unconfined: On that expending all her godlike power, Sne plans, provides, expatiates, trumphs, there; There builds her blessings; there expects her praise ! And nothing asks of fortune or of men. And what is reason ? Be she thus defined : Reason is upright stature in the soul. Oh ! be a man ;—and strive to be a god.

"For what ! (thou say'st:) To damp the joys of No; to give heart and substance to thy joys. That tyrant, llope, mark how she domineers: She bids us quit realities for dreams; Safety and peace for hazard and alarm; . That tyrant o'er the tyrants of the soul, She bids ambition quit its taken prize, Spurn the luxuriant branch on which it sits, Though bearing crowns, to spring at distant game; And plunge in toils and dangers—for repose. If hope precarious, and it things, when gain'd, Of little moment, and at little stay, Can sweeten toils and dangers inte joys; What, then, that hope which nothing can defeat,

NIGHT VIL.

Our leave unask'd ? rich hope of boundless bliss ! Bliss, past man's power to paint it ; time's, to close !

This hope is earth's most estimable prize: This is man's portion, while no more than man: Hope, of all pressions, most befriends us here; Passions of prouder name befriend us less. Joy has her tears; and tran-port has her death: Hope, like a cordial, innocent, though strong, Man's heart, at once, inspirits and serenes; Nor makes him pay his wisdom for his joys; This all our present state can safely bear, Health to the frame, and vigor to the mind ! A joy attemper'd ! a chastived delight! Like the fair summer evening, mild and sweet !

A bless'd hereafter, then, or hoped or gain'd, Is all: our whole of happiness; full proof, I chose no trivial or inglorious theme. And know, ye foes to song ! (well meaning men, Though quite forgotten half your Bible's * praise !) Important truths, in spite of verse, may please. Grave minds you praise, nor can you praise too much (If there is weight in an Eternity, Let the grave listen;—and be graver still.

* The poetical parts of it.

Night the Zighth.

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY;

OR,

THE MAN OF THE WORLD ANSWERED.

IN WHICH ARE CONSIDERED, THE LOVE OF THIS LIFE; THE AMBITION AND PLEASURE, WITH THE WIT AND WISDOM; OF THE WORLD.

AND has all nature, then, espoused my part ? Have I bribed heaven and earth to plead against thee ? And is thy soul immortal ? what remains ? All, all, LORENZO ! make immortal, bless'd. Unbless'd immortals ! what can shock us more ? And yet LORENZO still affects the world ; There stows his treasure ; thence his title draws, Man of the world ! (for such wouldst thou be call'd.) And art thou proud of that inglorious style ? Proud of reproach ? for a reproach it was, In ancient days; and CHRISTIAN,-in an age, When men were men, and not ashamed of heaven. Fired their ambition, as it crown'd their joy. Sprinkled with dews from the Castalian font, Fain would I rebaptize thee, and confer A purer spirit and a nobler name.

Thy fond attachments, fatal and inflamed, Point out my path and dictate to my song : To thee the world how fair ' how strongly strikes Ambition : and gay pleasure stronger still ! Thy triple bane ' the triple bolt that lays Thy virtue dead ! he these my triple theme; Nor shall thy wit or wisdom be forgot.

Common the theme; not so the song; if she My song invokes, URANIA deigns to smile.

NIGHT VIII.

The charm that chains us to the world, her foe, If she dissolves, the man of earth, at once, Starts from his trance, and sighs ior other scenes; Scenes, where these sparks of night, these stars, shall Unnumber/d suns; (for all things as they are [shine The bless'd behold;) and in one glory pour Their blended blaze on man's astonish'd sight; A blaze—the least illustrious object there.

LORENZO ! since eternal is at hand, To swallow time's ambitions ; as the vast Leviathan, the bubbles vain, that ride, High on the foaming billow ; what avail High titles, high descent, attainments high, If unattain'd our highest ? O LORENZO ! What lofty thoughts, these elements above, What towering hopes, what sallies from the sun, What grand surveys of destiny divine, And pompous presage of unfathom'd fate, Should roll in bosoms where a spirit burns Bound for Eternity ! in bosoms read By Him who foibles in archangels sees ! On human hearts He bends a jealous eye, And marks, and in heaven's register enrolls, The rise and progress of each option there ; Sacred to doomsday ! That the page unfolds, And spreads us to the gaze of gods and men.

And what an option, O LOREXZO! thine! This world: and this unrivall'd by the skies! A world, where lust of pleasure, grandeur, gold, Three demons that divide its realms between them, With strokes alternate buffet to and fro Man's restless heart, their sport, their flying ball; Till, with the giddy circle sick and tired, It pants for peace, and drops into despair. Such is the world LOREXZO sets above That glorious promise angels were esteem'd Too mean to bring; a promise, their Adored Descended to communicate, and press, By counsel, miracle, life, death, on man. Such is the world LOREXZO's Wisdom woos,

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

And on its thorny pillow seeks repose; A pillow, which, like opiates ill prepared, Intoxicates, but not composes; fulls The visionary mind with gay chimeras, All the wild trush of sleep, without the rest; What unfegn'd travele, and what dreams of joy!

How frail, men, thing :! How momentary both ! Fantastic chase of shadows hunting shades ! The gay, the busy, equal, though unlike; Equal in wisdom, differently wise ! Through flowery merdows and through dreary wastes One bustling, and one doncing, into death. There's note a day, but to the main of thought, Betrays some secret that throws new reproach. On life, and makes him sike of seeing more. The scenes of business tell us—" What are men;" There, others we despise; and here, ourselves. Amid disgust eternan, dwells delight ! "Its approbation strikes the string of joy.

Whit wondrous prize has kindled this career, Stuns with the din, and chokes us with the dust, On life's gay stage, one inch above the grave ? The prond rmn up and down, in quest of eyes; The sensual, in pursuit of something worse; And all, of other butterflies as vain ! As eldies draw things fivolous and light, How is man's heart by vanity drawn in; On the swift circle of returning toys, [gulf'd, Whirt'd straw-like, round and round, and then in-Where gay delasion darkens to despair !

"This is a beaten track." Is this a track Should not be beaten ? Never beat enough, Till enough learn'd the truths it would inspire. Shall truth be silent because folly frowns ? Turn the world's history ; what find we there But fortune's sports, or nature's cruel claims, Or woman's artifice, or man's revenge, And endless is humanities on man ?

NIGHT VIII.

Fame's trumpet seldom sounds, but, like the knell, It brings sad tidings : how it hourly blows Man's misadventures round the listening world ! Man is its the tale of narrative old Time ; Sad tale ! which high as Paradise begins ; As if, the toil of travel to delude, From stage to stage, in his eternal round, The days, his daughters, as they spin our hours On fortune's wheel, where accident unthought Off, in a moment, snaps life's strongest thread, Each, in her turn, some tragic story tells, With, now and then, a wretched farce between ; And fills his chronicle with human woes.

Time's daughters, true as those of men, deceive us; Not one, but puts some cheat on all mankind: While in their father's bosom, not yet ours, They flatter our fond hopes; and promise much Of amiable; but hold hin not of erwise, Who dares to trust them: and laugh round the year At still confiding, still confounded man, Confiding, though confounded; hoping on, Untaught by trial, unconvinc'd by proof, And ever looking for the never seen. Life to the last, like harden'd felons, lies; Nor owns itself a cheat till it expires. Its little joys go out by one and one, And leave poor man, at length, in perfect night; Night, darker than what now involves the pole.

O THOU, who dost permit these ills to fall, [mourn : For gracious ends, and wouldst that man should O THOU, whose hands this goodly fabric framed, What is this sublunary world? A vapor! [know! A vapor all it holds: itself a vapor, From the damp bed of chaos, by thy beam Exhaled, ordain'd to swim its destined hour In ambient air, then melt and disappear. Earth's days are number'd, nor remote her doom; A sent, though less transient than her sons Yet they dote on her, as the world and they Were both eternal, solid; THOU, a dream. They dote, on what? Immortal views apart, A region of outsides ! a land of shadows ! A fruitful field of flowery promises ! A wilderness of joys ! perplex'd with doubts, And sharp with thorns ! a troubled occean, spread With bold adventurers, their all on board ! No second hope, if here their fortune frowns ! Frown soon it must. Of various rates they sail. Of ensigns various; all alike in this, All restless, anxious ; toss'd with hopes and fears, In calmest skies ; obnoxious all to storm ; And stormy the most general blast of life ; All bound for happiness : yet few provide The chart of knowledge, pointing where it lies; Or virtue's helm, to shape the course design'd : All, more or less, capracious fate lament, Now lifted by the tide, and now resorb'd. And further from their wishes than before : All, more or less, against each other dash. To mutual hurt, by gusts of passion driven, And suffering more from folly than from fate.

Ocean ! thou dreadful and tumultuous home Of dangers, at eternal war with man ! Death's capital, where most he domineers. With all his chosen terrors frowning round, (Though lately feasted high at Albion's cost.*) Wide op'ning and loud roaring still for more ! Too faithful mirror ! how dost thou reflect The melancholy face of human life ! The strong resemblance tempts me further still. And, haply, Britain may be deeper struck By moral truth, in such a mirror seen, Which nature holds for ever at her eve.

Self flatter'd, unexperienced, high in hope. Igay. When young, with sanguine cheer, and streamers We cut our cable, launch into the world. And fondly dream each wind and star our friend.

*Admiral BALCHEN, &c.

NIGHT VIII.

All in some darling enterprise embark'd: But where is he can fathom its event ? Amid a multitude of artless hands. Ruin's sure perquisite ! her lawful prize ! Some steer aright ; but the black blast blows hard. And puffs them wide of hope: with hearts of proof. Full against wind and tide, some win their way; And when strong effort has deserved the port, And tugg'd it into view, 'tis won! 'tis lost ! Though strong their oar, still stronger is their fate: They strike; and, while they triumph, they expire. In stress of weather, most; some sink outright; O'er them, and o'er their names, the billows close: To-morrow knows not they were ever born. Others a short memorial leave behind, Like a flag floating, when the bark's ingulf'd ! It floats a moment, and is seen no more : One CÆSAR lives ; a thousand are forgot. How few, beneath auspicious planets born, (Darlings of Providence ! fond Fate's elect !) With swelling sails make good the promised port. With all their wishes freighted ! Yet, even these, Freighted with all their wishes, soon complain : Free from misfortune, not from nature free, They still are men; and when is man secure ? As fatal time, as storm ! the rush of years Beats down their strength : their numberless escapes In ruin end: and, now, their proud success But plants new terrors on the victor's brow : What pain to quit the world just made their own; Their nest so deeply down'd, and built so high ! Too low they build, who build beneath the stars.

Wee then apart, (if woe apart can be From mortal man,) and fortune at our nod, The gay! rich! great! triumphant! and august! What are they?—The most happy (strange to say!) Convince me most of human misery: What are they? Smiling wretches of to-morrow! More wretched, then, than e'er their slave can be; Their treacherous blessings, at the day of need,

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Like other faithless friends, unmask, and sting Then, what provoking indigence in wealth! What aggravated inpotence in power ! High titles, then, what insult of their pain; If that sole anchor equal to the waves, Immortal hope ! defies not the rude storm, Takes comfort from the foaming billows' rage, And makes a welcome harbor of the tomb.

Is this a sketch of what thy soul admires ? "But here (thou say'st) the miseries of life Are huddled in a group. A more distinct Survey, perhaps, might bring thee better news." Look on life's stages: they speak plainer still; The plainer they, the deeper wilt thou sigh. Look on thy lovely boy; in him behold The best that can befall the best on earth; The boy has virtue by his mother's side: Yes, on FLORELLO look: a father's heart Is tender, though the man's is made of stone: The truth, through such a medium seen, may make Impression deep, and fondness prove thy friend.

FLORELLO, lately cast on this rude coast, A helpless infant; now a heedless child: To poor CLARISSA's throes thy care succeeds ; Care full of love, and yet severe as hate ! O'er thy soul's joy how oft thy fondness frowns ! Needful austerities his will restrain : As thorns fence in the tender plant from harm. As yet, his reason cannot go alone, But asks a sterner nurse to lead it on. His little heart is often terrified : The blush of morning, in his cheek turns pale ; Its pearly dew-drop trembles in his eye; His harmless eye ! and drowns an angel there. Ah ! what avails his innocence ? The task Enjoin'd must discipline his early powers : He learns to sigh, e'er he is known to sin; Guiltless and sad! a wretch before the fall ! How cruel this ! more cruel to forbear. Our nature such, with necessary pains

NIGHT VIII.

We purchase prospects of precarious peace: Though not a father, this might steal a sigh.

Suppose him disciplined aright; (if not 'Twill sink our poor account to poorer stil;) Ripe from the tutor, proud of liberty, He leaps inclosures, bounds into the world ! The world is taken, after ten year's toil, Like ancient Troy; and all its joys his own. Alas ! the world's a tutor more severe; Its lessons hard, and ill desorve his pains : Unteaching all his virtues nature taught, Or books (fair virtue's advocates !) inspired.

For who receives him into public life ? Men of the world, the terræ-filial breed, Welcome the modest stranger to their sphere, (Which glitter'd long, at distance, in his sight,) And, in their hospitable arms enclose : Men, who think nought so strong of the romance, So rank knight-errant, as a real friend : Men, that act up to reason's golden rule, All weakness of affection quite subdued ; Men that would blush at being thought sincere, And feign, for glory, the few faults they want; That love a lie, where truth would pay as well ; As if, to them, vice shone her own reward.

LORENZO ! canst thou bear a shocking sight ? Such, for f'LORELLO'S sake, 'twill now appear: See the steel'd files of season'd veterans, Train'd to the world, in burnish'd falsehood bright; Deep in the fatal stratagems of peace; All soft sensation, in the throng, rubb'd off; All their keen purpose in politeness sheath'd: His friends eternal—during interest; His foes implacable—when worth their while; At war with every welfare but their own; As wise as LUCIFER; and half as good; And by whom none but LUCIFER can gain— Naked through these, (so common fate ordains,) Naked of heart, his cruel course he runs, Stung out of all most anniable in life,

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Prompt truth, and open thought, and smiles unfeign'd; Affection, as his species, wide diffused; Noble presumptions to mankind's renown; Ingennous trust, and confidence of love.

These claims to joy (if mortals joy might claim) -Will cost him many a sigh ; till time and pains, From the slow mistress of this school, Experience, And her assistant, pausing, pale distrust, Purchase a dear-bought cine to lead his youth Through serpentine obliquities of life, And the dark labyrinth of human hearts. And happy ! if the clue shall come so cheap : For, while we learn to fence with public guilt, Full oft we feel its foul contagion too. If less than heavenly virtue is our guard. Thus a strange kind of curs'd necessity Brings down the sterling temper of his soul. By base alloy, to hear the current stamp, Below call'd wisdom; sinks him into safety; And brands him into credit with the world: Where specious titles dignify disgrace, And nature's injuries are arts of life ; Where brighter reason prompts to bolder crimes; And heavenly talents make infernal hearts : That insurmountable extreme of guilt.

Poor MACHAVEL! who lichored hard his plan, Forgot that genus needs not go to school; Forgot that man, without a tutor wise, His plan had practised long before 'twas writ. The world's all title-page; there's no contents: The world's all face; the man who shows his heart Is hooted for his nudities, and scorn'd. A man I knew, who lived upon a smile; And well it fed him: he look'd plump, and fair; While rankest venom foan'd through every vein. Lorexzo ! what I tell thee take not ill: Living, he fawn'd on every fool alive; And, dying, cursed the friend on whon he lived. To such proficients thou art half a saint. In foreign realms (for thou hast travel'd far)

NIGHT VIII.

How curious to contemplate two state rooks, Studious their nests to leather in a trice; With all the necromantics of their art, Playing the game of faces on each other; Making court sweetmeats of their latent gall, In foolish hope to steal each other's trust; Both cheating, both exulting, both deceived; And, sometimes, both (let earth rejoice) undone! Their parts we doubt not; but be that their shame : Shall men of talents, fit to rule mankind, Stoop to mean wiles, that would disgrace a fool; And lose the thanks of those few friends they serve ? For who can thank the man he cannot see ?

Why so much cover ? It defeats itself. Ye that know all things ! know ye not men's hearts Are therefore known, because they are conceal'd ? For why conceal'd ? The cause they need not tell. I give him joy that's awkward at a lie; Whose feeble nature truth keeps still in awe : His incapacity is his renown.

'Tis great, 'tis manly, to disdain disguise; It shows our spirit, or it proves our strength. Thou say'st 'tis needful. Is it therefore right? Howe'er, I grant it some small sign of grace, To strain at an excuse. And wouldst thou then Escape that cruel need? Thou may'st with ease: Think no post needful that demands a knave. When late our civil helm was shifting hands, So P — thought: think better if you can.

But this, how rare ! the public path of life Is dirty. Yet allow that dirt its due, It makes the noble mind more noble still : The world's no neuter : it will wound or save ; Or virtue quench, or indignation fire. You say, the world, well known, will make a man. The world, well known, will give our hearts to heaven Or make us demons long before we die.

To show how fair the world, thy mistress, shines, Take either part, sure ills attend the choice; Sure, though not equal, detriment ensues.

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY

Not virtue's self is deified on earth : Virtue has her retapses, conflicts, foes; Foes, that ne'er fail to make her feel their hate. Virtue has her peculiar set of pains. Trie; friends to virtue last and least complain; But if they sigh, can others hope to smile ? If wisdom has her miscries to mourn, How can poor folly lead a happy life ? And if both suffer, what has earth to boast, Where he's most happy who the least laments ? Where much, much patience, the most envied state, And some forgiveness, needs the best of friends ? For friend, or happy life, who looks not higher, Of neither shall he find the shadow here.

The world's sworn advocate without a fee, LORENZO smartly, with a smile, replies: "Thus far thy song is right; and all must own, Virtue has her peculiar set of pains. And joys peculiar who to vice denies 3 If vice it is, with nature to comply : If pride and sense are so predominant, To check, not overcome them, makes a saint: Can nature in a plainer voice proclaim Pleasure and glory the chief good of man 2"

Can pride, and sensuality rejoice ? From purity of thought all pleasure springs ; And, from an humble spirit all our peace. Ambition, pleasure ! Let us talk of these : Of these the Porch and Academy taik'd; Of these each following age had much to say ; Yet unexhausted still the needful theme. Who taiks of these, to mankind all at once He taiks ; for where's the saint from either free ? Are these thy refuge ? no : these rush upon thee, Thy vitals seize, and, vulture-like, devour. Pli try if 1 can pluck thee from thy rock, PROMETHEUS ! from this barren ball of earth ! If reason can unchain thee, thou art free.

NIGHT VIII.

Of conrted woes! and courted through mistake ? 'Tis not ambition charms thee; 'tis a cheat Will make thee start, as H = -at his Moor.Dost grasp at greatness? First, know what it is; Think'st thou thy greatness in distinction lies ? Not in the feather, wave it e'er so high. By fortune stuck, to mark us from the throng, Is glory lodg'd; 'tis lodged in the reverse : In that which joins, in that which equals all, The monarch and his slave; $--^*$ a deathless soul, Unbounded prospect, and immortal kin, A Father God, and brothers in the skies;" Elder, indeed, in time; but less remote In excellence, perhaps, than thought by man : Why greater what can fall than what can rise ?

If still delirious, now, LORENZO, go; And with thy full-blown brothers of the world, Throw scorn around thee: cast it on thy slaves; Thy slaves, and equals: how scorn, cust on them, Redounds on thee ! If man is mean, as man, Art thou a god? If fortune makes him so, Beware the consequence: a maxim that, Which draws a monstrous picture of mankind; Where, in the drapery, the man is lost; Externals fluttering, and the soul forgot. Thy greatest glory when disposed to hoast, Boast that alond in which thy servants share.

We wisely strip the steed we mean to buy: Judge we, in their caparisons, of men? It nonght avails thee where, but what, thou art; All the destinctions of this little life Are quite cataneous, foreign to the man, When, through death's straits, earth's subtle serpents Which wriggle into wealth, or climb renown, [creep, As crooked Satan the forbidden tree; They leave their party-color'd robe behind, All that now glitters, while they rear aloft Their brazen crests, and hiss at us below. Of fortune's fucus strip them, yet alive; Strip them of body too; nay, closer still,

Away with all, but moral, in their minds; And let what then remains impose their name, Pronounce them weak, or worthy; great or mean. How mean that snuff of glory fortune lights, And death puts out: Dost thou demand a test, A test at once infallible and short, Of real greatness? That man greatly lives, Whate'er his fate or fame, who greatly dies; High-flu-hed with hope, where heroes shall despair. If this a true criterion, many courts, Illustrious, might afford but few grandees.

The Almighty, from his throne, on earth surveys Nought greater than an honest, humble heart; An humble heart his residence ! pronounced His second seat; and rival to the skies. The private path, the secret acts of men, If noble, fur the noblest of our lives ! How far above Lockzwo's glory sits Th' illustrious master of a name unknown ? Whose worth, unrivall'd and unwitness'd, loves Life's sacred shades, where gods converse with men; And peace, beyond the world's conception, smiles ! As thou, (now dark), before we part, shalt see.

But thy great soul this skulking glory scorns. LORENZO'S sick, but when LORENZO'S seen ; And when he shrugs at public business, lies. Denied the public eye, the public voice, As if he lived on others' breath, he dies. Fain would he make the world his pedestal; Mankind, the gazers ; the sole figure he. Knows he, that mankind praise against their will, And mix as much detraction as they can ? Knows he, that faithless fame her whisper has, As well as trumpet ? that his vanity Is so much tickled, from not hearing all ? Knows this all-knower, that from itch of praise, Or, from an itch more sordid, when he shines, Taking his country by five hundred ears, Senates at once admire him and despise, With modest laughter lining loud applause,

NIGHT VIII.

Which makes the smile more mortal to his fame? His fame, which, (like the mighty CESAR,) crown'd With laurels, in full senate, greatly falls By seeming friends, that honor and destroy. We rise in glory as we sink in pride : Where boasting ends, there dignity begins; And yet, mistaken beyond all mistake, The blind LORENZO's proud-of being proud: And dreams himself ascending in his fall.

An eminence, though fancied, turns the brain : All vice wants hellebore ; but, of all vice, Pride loudest calls, and for the largest bowl; Because, all other vice unlike, it flies, In fact, the point in fancy most pursued. Who court applause oblige the world in this: They gratify man's passion to refuse. Superior honor, when assumed, is lost; E'en good men turn banditti, and rejoice, Like KOULI-KAN, in plunder of the proud.

Though somewhat disconcerted, steady still To the world's cause, with half a face of joy, LORENZO cries-" Be then ambition cast. Ambition's dearer far stands unimpeach'd. Gay pleasure ! Proud ambition is her slave : For her he soars at great, and hazards ill; For her he fights, and bleeds or overcomes; And paves his way with crowns, to reach her smile . Who can resist her charms ?" -- Or, should ? LORENZO !

What mortal shall resist, where angels yield ? Pleasure's the mistress of ethereal powers ; For her contend the rival gods above ; Pleasure's the mistress of the world below; And well it is for man that pleasure charms: How would all stagnate but for pleasure's ray; How would the frozen stream of action cease ! What is the pulse of this so busy world ? The love of pleasure : that, through every vein Throws motion, warmth; and shuts out death from Though various are the tempers of mankind, [life.

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

Pleasure's gay family holds all in chains ; Some most affect the black : and some the fair ! Some honest pleasure court: and some obscene. Pleasures obscene are various as the throng Of passions that can err in human hearts; Mistake their objects, or transgress their bounds. Think you there's but one whoredom ? Whoredom, But when our reason licenses delight. Dost doubt, LORENZO ? Thou shalt doubt no more. Thy father chides thy gallantries ! yet hugs An ugly, common harlot, in the dark ; A rank adulterer with others' gold ! And that hag, Vengeance, in a corner, charms. Hatred her brothel has, as well as love, Where horrid epicures debauch in blocd. Whate'er the motive, pleasure is the mark : For her the black assassin draws his sword : For her dark statesmen trim their midnight lamp. To which no single sacrifice may fall : For her, the saint abstains ; the miser starves ; The Stoic proud for pleasure, pleasure scorn'd ; For her, affliction's daughters grief indulge, And find, or hope, a luxary in tears : For her, guilt, shame, toil, danger, we defy; And, with an aim voluptuous, rush on death. Thus universal her de-potic power !

And as her empire wide, her praise is just. Patron of pleasure ! doter on delight ! I am thy rival; pleasure I profess; Pleasure is nought but virtue's gayer name ; I wrong her still, I rate her worth too low; Virtue the root, and pleasure is the flower; And honest Erceurce' foes were fools.

But this sounds harsh, and gives the wise offence; If o'erstrain'd wisdom still retains the name. How knits austerity her cloudy brow, And blames, as hold and hazardous, the praise Of pleasure, to mankind, unpraised, too dear1 Ye modern Stoics! hear my soft reply;

NIGHT VIII.

Their senses men will trust : we can't impose : Or, if we could, is imposition right? Own honey sweet; but, owning, add this sting; "When mix'd with poison it is deadly too." Truth never was indebted to a lie. Is nought but virtue to be praised as good ? Why then is health preferr'd before disease ? What nature loves is good, without our leave. And where no future drawback cries, "Beware;" Pleasure, though not from virtue, should prevail. 'Tis balm to life, and gratitude to Heaven : How cold our thanks for bounties unenjoy'd! The love of pleasure is man's eldest born, Born in his cradle, living to his tomb; Wisdom, her younger sister, though more grave, Was meant to minister, and not to mar. Imperial pleasure, queen of human hearts.

LORENZO ! thou, her majesty's renown'd, Though uncoift counsel, learned in the world ! Who think'st thyself a MURRAY with disdain Mayst look on me. Yet, my DEMOSTHENES ! Canst thou plead pleasure's cause as well as I? Know'st thou her nature, purpose, parentage ? Attend my song, and thou shalt know them all: And know thyself; and know thyself to be (Strange truth !) the most abstemious man alive. Tell not CALISTA: she will laugh thee dead ; Or send thee to her hermitage with L----, Absurd presumption ! thou who never knew'st A serious thought ! shalt thou dare dream of joy ? No man e'er found a happy life by chance ; Or yawn'd it into being with a wish : Or, with the snout of grovelling appetite, E'er smelt it out, and grubb'd it from the dirt. An art it is, and must be learn'd; and learn'd With unremitting effort, or be lost ; And leave us perfect blockheads in our bliss. The clouds may drop down titles and estates : Wealth may seek us ; but wisdom must be sought ; Sought before all; but (how unlike all else

We seek on earth !) 'tis never sought in vain. [see. First, pleasure's birth, rise, strength, and grandeur Brought forth by wisdom, nursed by discipline, By patience taught, by perseverance crown'd, She rears her head majestic ; round her throne, Erected in the bosom of the just, Each virtue, listed, forms her manly guard. For what are virtues? (formidable name!) What, but the fountain or defence of joy ? Why, then, commanded ? Need mankind commands At once to merit and to make their bliss ? Great Legislator! scarce so great as kind! If men are rational, and love delight, Thy gracious law but flatters human choice; In the transgression lies the penalty; And they the most indulge who most obey. Of pleasure next the final cause explore:

Its mighty purpose, its important end. Not to turn human brutal, but to build Divine on human, pleasure came from heaven. In aid to reason was the goddess sent; To call up all its strength by such a charm. Pleasure first succours virtue; in return, Virtue gives pleasure an eternal reign. What but the pleasure of food, friendship, faith, Supports life natural, civil, and divine ? 'Tis from the pleasure of repast we live ; 'Tis from the pleasure of applause we please ; 'Tis from the pleasure of belief we pray (All prayer would cease, if unbelieved the prize :) It serves ourselves, our species, and our Gop ; And to serve more is past the sphere of man. Glide, then, for ever, pleasure's sacred stream ! Through Eden as Euphrates ran, it runs, And fosters every growth of happy life; Makes a new Eden where it flows ;--but such As must be lost, LORENZO, by thy fall.

"What mean I by thy fall ?" Thou'lt shortly see, While pleasure's nature is at large display'd; Already sung her origin and ends.

NIGHT VIII.

Those glorious ends, by kind or by degree, When pleasure violates, 'tis then a vice, A vengeance too; it hastens into pain. From due refreshment, life, heaith, reason, joy ; From wild excess, pain, grief, distraction, death ; Heaven's justice this proclaims, and that her love. What greater evil can I wish my foe Than his full draught of pleasure, from a cask Unbroach'd by just anthority, ungauged By temperance, by reason unrefined ? A thousand demons lurk within the lee. Heaven, others, and ourselves ! uninjured these, Drink deep; the deeper, then, the more divine : Angels are angels, from indulgence there ; 'Tis unrepenting pleasure makes a god. Dost think thyself a god from other joys ? A victim, rather ! shortly sure to bleed. [fail ? The wrong must mourn ; can heaven's appointments Can man outwit omnipotence ? strike out A self-wrought happiness unmeant by Him Who made us, and the world we would enjoy ? Who forms an instrument, ordains from whence Its dissonance or harmony shall rise. Heaven bid the soul this mortal frame inspire ; Bid virtue's ray divine inspire the soul With unprecarious flows of vital joy: And, without breathing, man as well might hope For life, as, without piety, for peace. " Is virtue, then, and piety the same ?

"Is virtue, then, and piety the same i No; piety is more: 'it's virtue's source; Mother of every worth, as that, of joy. Men of the world this doctrine ill digest; They smile at piety; yet boast aloud Good will to men; nor know they strive to part What nature joins; and thus confue themselves. With piety begins all good on earth; 'Tis the first-born of rationality. Conscience, her first law broken, wounded lies; Enfeehled, lifeless, impotent to good; A feign'd affection bounds her utmost power.

Some we can't love, but for the Almighty's sake : A foe to GoD was ne'er true friend to man; Some sinister intent taints all he does : And, in his kindest actions, he's unkind. On piety humanity is built; And, on humanity, much happiness : And yet still more on piety itself. A soul in commerce with her God is heaven; Feels not the tumults and the shocks of life, The whirls of passion, and the strokes of heart. A Deity believed is joy begun; A Deity adored is joy advanced; A Deity beloved is joy matured. Each branch of piety delight inspires : Faith builds a bridge from this world to the next, O'er death's dark gulf, and all its horror hides : Praise, the sweet exhalation of our joy, That joy exalts, and makes it sweeter still : Prayer ardent opens heaven, lets down a stream Of glory on the consecrated hour Of man, in audience with the Deity. Who worships the Great Gop, that instant joins The first in heaven, and sets his foot on hell. LORENZO! when wast thou at church before ? Thou think'st the service long : but is it just? Though just, unwelcome : thou hadst rather tread Unhallow'd ground ; the muse, to win thine ear, Must take an air less solemn. She complies. Good conscience; at the sound the world retires; Verse disaffects it, and LORENZO smiles : Yet has she her seraglio full of charms ; And such as age shall heighten, not impair. Art thou dejected ? is thy mind o'ercast ? A mid her fair ones, thou the fairest choose, To chase thy gloom. NIGHT VIII.

Dost call the bowl, the viol, and the dance, Loud mirth, mad laughter ? Wretched comforters ! Physicians! more than half of thy disease, Laughter, though never censured yet as sin, (Pardon a thought that only seems severe,) Is half immoral. Is it much indulged ? By venting spleen, or dissipating thought. It shows a scorner, or it makes a fool : And sins, as hurting others or ourselves. "Tis pride or emptiness applies the straw. That tickles little minds to mirth effuse ; Of grief approaching the portentous sign ! The house of laughter makes a house of woe. A man triumphant is a monstrous sight ; A man dejected is a sight as mean. Why cause for triumph where such ills abound ? What for dejection where presides a Power Who call'd us into being to be bless'd ? So grieve as conscious grief may rise to joy ; So joy, as conscious joy to grief may fall. Most true, a wise man never will be sad ; But neither will sonorous, bubbling mirth. A shallow stream of happiness betray : Too happy to be sportive, he's serene.

Yet would'st thou laugh, (but at thy own expense.) This counsel strange should 1 presume to give— "Retire, and read thy Bible, to be gay." There truths abound of sovi'reign and to peace; Ah ! do not prize them less because inspired, As thou and thine are apt and proud to do. If not inspired, that pregnant page had stood, Time's treasure, and the wonder of the wise ! Thou think'st, perhaps, thy soul alone at stake : Alas —should men mistake thee for a fool: What man of taste for genius, wisdom, truth, Though iender of thy tame, could interpose ! Believe me, sense here acts a double part, And the true critic is a Christian too.

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

But these, thou think'st, are gloomy paths to joy.— True joy in sunshine ne'er was found at first; They first them elves offend who greatly please; And travel only gives us sound repose. Heaven sells all pleasure : effort is the price : The joys of conquest are the joys of man; And glory the victorious laurel spreads O'er pleasure's pure, perpetuch, placid stream.

There is a time when toil must be preferr'd, Or joy, by mistimed fondness, is undone. A man of pleasure is a man of pains. Thou wilt not take the trouble to be bless'd. False joys, indeed, are born from want of thought ; From thought's full bent and energy, the true; And that demands a mind in equal poise, Remote from gloomy grief and glaring joy. Much joy not only speaks small happiness, But happiness that shortly must expire. Can joy, unbottom'd in reflection, stand ? And, in a tempest, can reflection live ? Can joy like thine secure itself an hour ? Can joy like thine meet accident unshock'd ? Or one the door to honest poverty? Or talk with threatening death, and not turn pale ? In such a world, and such a nature, these Are needful fundamentals of delight: These fundamentals give delight indeed : Delight, pure, delicate, and durable ; Delight, unshaken, masculine, divine ; A constant, and a sound, but serious joy.

Is joy the daughter of severity ? It is --yet far my doctrine from severe. "Rejoice for ever." it becomes a man; Exaits, and sets him nearer to the gods. "Rejoice for ever." mattre cries, "Rejoice;" And drinks to man in her nectareous cup, Mix'd up of delicates for every sense; To the great Founder of the bounteous feast, Drinks glory, gratitude, eternal praise; And he that will not piedge her is a churl. Ill firmly to support, good fully taste, Is the whole science of telicity. Yet sparing pledge, her bowl is not the best Mankind can boast .-. " A rational repast; Exertion, vigilance, a mind in arms. A military di cipline of thought, To foil temptation in the doubtful field : And ever waking ardor for the right." "Tis these first give, then guard a cheerful heart. Nought that is right, think little ; well aware, What reason bids, Gop bids; by His command How aggrandized the smallest thing we do! Thus, nothing is in sipid to the wise : To thee insigned all but what is mad; Joys season'd high, and tasting strong of guilt. "Mad ! (thou repliest, with indignation fired,)

"Mai: (not repress, with maignation need) Of ancient sages proud to tread the steps, I follow nature."—Follow nature still, But look it be chine own. Is conscience then No part of nature ? Is she not supreme ? Thou regicide ! Oh, raie her from the dead ! Then follow nature ; and resemble God.

When, spite of conscience, pleasure is pursued! Man's nature is unnaturally pleased: And what's unnatural is painful too At intervals, and must di-gust e'en thee! The fact thou know'st but not perhaps the cause. Virtue's foundations with the world's were haid; Heaven mix'd her with our make, and twisted close Her sacred interests with the strings of life. Who breaks her awful mandate shocks himself. His better self: and is it greater pain, Our soul should murnur, or our dust repine ? And one, in their eternal war, must bleed.

If one must suffer, which should least be spared ? The pains of mind surpass the pains of sense ; Ask then the gout, what torment is in guilt. The joys of sense to mental joys are mean ; Sense on the present only feeds; the soul On past and future forages for joy.

"Tis hers, by retrospect, through time to range; And forward time's great sequel to survey. Could human courts take vengeance on the mind, Axes might rust, and racks and gibbets fall : Guard then thy mind, and leave the rest to fate. LORENZO! wilt thou never be a man ? The man is dead who for the body lives, Lured by the beating of his pulse, to list With every lust that wars against his peace, And sets him quite at variance with himself. Thyself first know; then love: a self there is Of virtue fond, that kindles at her charms, A self there is as fond of every vice, While every virtue wounds it to the heart: Humility degrades it, justice robs, Bless'd bounty beggars it, fair truth betrays, And godlike magnanimity destroys. This self, when rival to the former, scorn : When not in competition, kindly treat. Defend it, feed it ;- but when virtue bids. Toss it, or to the fowls, or to the flames. And why? 'Tis love of pleasure bids thee bleed: Comply, or own self-love extinct or blind. For what is vice ? Self-love in a mistake: A poor blind merchant buying joys too dear. And virtue, what ? 'Tis self love in her wits, Quite skilful in the market of delight. Self-love's good sense is love of that dread Power, From whom herself and all she can enjoy. Other self-love is but disguised self-hate : More mortal than the malice of our foes ; A self-hate now scarce felt; then felt full sore. When being, cursed; extinction, loud implored: And every thing preferr'd to what we are. Yet this self-love LORENZO makes his choice;

And in this choice is thoughout, boasts of joy. How is his want of happiness betray'd, By disaffection to the present hour ! Imagination wanders far afield: The future pleases; why ? The present pains.—

NIGHT VIII.

"But that's a secret." Yes, which all men know; And know from thee, discover'd mawares. Thy cerveless agit thon, reatless roll From cheat to cheat impatient of a pause; What is it? "Tis the cradle of the soul, From instinct sent, to rock her in disease, Which her physician, reason, will not cure. A poor expedient! yet thy be it: and while It mitigates thy pain, it owns it too.

Such are LORENZO'S wretched remedies ! The weak have remedies; the wise have joys. Superior wisdom is superior bliss. And what sure mark distinguishes the wise ? Consistent wisdom ever wills the same ; Thy fickle wish is ever on the wing. Sick of herself is folly's character; As wisdom's is a modest self-applause. A change of evils is thy good supreme; Nor, but in motion, canst thou find thy rest. Man's greatest strength is shown in standing still. The first sure symptom of a mind in health Is rest of heart, and pleasure felt at home. False pleasure from abroad her joys imports; Rich from within, and self-sustain'd, the true. The true is fix'd, and solid as a rock : Slipperv the false, and tossing as the wave. This, a wild wanderer on earth, like CAIN ; That, like the fabled, self-enamor'd boy, Home-contemplation her supreme delight: She dreads an interruption from without. Smit with her own condition : and the more Intense she gazes, still it charms the more. No man is happy, till he thinks, on earth There breathes not a more happy than himself: Then envy dies, and love o'erflows on all: And love o'erflowing makes an angel here. Such angels, all, entitled to repose On Him who govern's fate. Though tempest frowns, Though nature shakes, how soft to lean on Heaven ! To lean on Him, on whom archangels lean !

With inward eyes, and silent as the grave, They stand, collecting every beam of thought, Till their hearts kindle with divine delight: For all their thoughts, like angels seen of old In Israel's dream, come from, and go to heaven, Hence are they studious of sequester'd scenes, While noise and dissip tion comfort thee.

Were all men happy, revellings would cease, That opiste for inque tude within. LOREX20: never man was truly bless'd, But it composed, and gave him such a cast As folly mgat mistake for want of joy; A cast unlike the triumph of the proud; A modest aspect, and a smile at heart. Oh for a joy from thy PHILANDER's spring ! A spring perennial, rising in the breast, And permanent as pure ! no turbid stream Of rapturous exultation, swelling high; Which, like land floods, impetuous pour awhile, Then sink at once, and leave us in the mire. What does the man who transient joy prefers ! What, but prefer the bubble to the stream ?

Vain are all sudden sullies of delight; Convulsions of a weak distemper'd joy. Joy's a fix'd state; a tenure, not a start. Biss there is none but unprecarious bliss: That is the genn : sell all, and purchase that. Why go a begging to contingencies, Not gain'd with ease, nor safely loved if gain'd ? At good fortuitons draw back and pause: Suspect it: what thou canst ensure, enjoy; And nought bat what thou gives thyself is sure. Reason perpetnates joy that reason gives, And nuakes it as immortal as herself: To nuortals, nought immortal but their worth.

Worth, conscious worth ! should absolutely reign ; And other joys ask leave for their approach ! Nor, unexamined, ever leave obtain. Thou art all anarchy; a mob of joys Wage war, and perish in intestime broils ;

THE COMPLAINT. NIGHT VIII. Not the least promise of internal peace ! No bosom conitort, or unborrow'd bliss ! Thy thoughts are vagabonds; all outward bound, 'Mid sands, and rocks, and storms to cruise for pleasure ; If gain'd, dear bought; and better miss'd than gain'd. Much pain must explate what much pain procured. Fancy and sense, from an infected shore, Thy cargo bring; and pestilence the prize. Then, such thy thirst, (insatiable thirst! By fond indulgence but inflamed the more !) Fancy still cruises, when poor sense is tired. Imagination is the Paphian shop, Where feeble happiness, like VULCAN, lame, Bids foul ideas, in their dark recess, And hot as hell, (which kindled the black fires.) With wanton art those fatal arrows form, Which murder all thy time, health, wealth, and fame. Wouldst thou receive them, other thoughts there are, On angel wing descending from above, Which these, with art divine, would counterwork. And form celestial armor for thy peace. In this is seen imagination's guilt:

But who can count her follies ? She betrays thee, To think in grandeur there is someting great. For works of curious art and ancient fame Thy genius hungers, elegantly pain'd: And foreign climes must cater for thy taste. Hence, what disaster !- Though the price was paid. That persecuting priest, the Turk of Rome, Whose foot, (ye gods !) though cloven, must be kiss'd. Detain'd thy dinner on the Latian shore : (Such is the fate of honest Protestants !) And poor magnificence is starved to death. Hence just resentment, indignation, ire ! Be pacified : if outward things are great, 'Tis magnanimity great things to scorn ; Pompous expenses, and parades august. And courts, that insalubrious soil to peace. True happiness ne'er enter'd at an eve ;

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY.

True happiness resides in things unseen. No smiles of fortune ever bless'd the bad, Nor can her frowns rob innocence of joys; That jewel wanting, triple crowns are poor; So tell his Holiness, and be reverged.

Pleasure, we both agree, is man's chief good: Our only contest, what deserves the name. Give pleasure's name to nought but what has pass'd Th' authentic seal of reason. (which, like YORKE, Demurs on what it passes,) and defies The tooth of time ; when past, a pleasure still ; Dearer on trial, lovelier 'or its age, And doubly to be prized, as it promotes Our future, while it forms our present joy. Some joys the future overcast; and some Throw all their beams that way, and gild the tomb. Some joys endear eternity ; some give Abhorr'd annihilation dreadful charms. Are rival joys contending for thy choice ? Consult thy whole existence, and be safe : That oracle will put all doubt to flight. Short is the lesson, though my lecture long ; Be good-and let Heaven answer for the rest,

Yet, with a sigh o'er all mankind, 1 grant, In this our day of proof, our land of hope, The good man has his clouds that intervene; Clouds that obscure his sublunary day, But never conquer: e'en the best nust own, Patience and resignation are the pillars Of human peace on earth. The pillars, these: But those of SETH not more remote from theo, Till this heroic lesson thou hast learn'd, To frown at pleasure, and to smille in pain. Fired at the prospect of unclouded bliss, Heaven in reversion, like the sun, as yet Beneath th' horizon, cheers us in the world: It'sheds, on souls snsceptible of light,

"This (says LORENZO) is a fair harangue; But, can harangues blow back strong nature's stream;

Or stem the tide Heaven pushes through our veins, Which sweeps away man's impotent resolves, And lays his labour level with the world ?"

Then selves men make their comment on mankind; And think mought is, but what they find at home: Thus weakness to chimera turns the truth. Nothing romantic has the muse prescribed. * Above, LORENZO saw the man of earth, The mortal man; and wretched was the sight. To balance that, to comfort, and exalt, Now see the man immortal; him, I mean. Who fives as such; whose heart, full bent on heaven, Leans all that way, his bias to the stars, The world's dark shades, in contrast set, shall raise Ilis lustre more; though bright, without a foil; Observe his awful portrait, and admire; Nor stop at wonder: imitate, and live.

Some angel guide my pencil, while I draw, What nothing less than angel can exceed, A mun on earth devoted to the skies; Like ships in sea, while in, above the world. With aspect mild, and elevated eye, Behold him seated in a mount serene, Above the fogs of sense, and passion's storm; Ali the black cares and tunnits of this life, Like harmless thunders, breaking at his feet, Excite his pity, not impair his peace. Earth's genuine sons, the sceptred and the slave, A mingled mob! a wandering herd! he sees, Bewilder'd in the vale; in all unlike : His full reverse in all ! What higher praise ? What stronger demonstration of the right?

The present, all their care; the future, his. When public welfare calls, or private want, They give to fame; his bounty he conceals. Their virtues varnish nature; his exalt. Mankind's esteem they court; and he, his own. Theirs, the wild chase of false felicities;

He sees with other eyes than theirs: where they Behold a sun, he spies a Deity : What makes them only smile, makes him adore. Where they see mountains, he but atoms sees: An empire in his balance, weighs a grain. They things terrestrial worship as divine; His hopes immortal blow them by, as dust That duns his sight, and shortens his survey, Which longs, in infinite, to lose all bound. Titles and honors (if they prove his fate) He lays aside, to find his dignity: No dignity they find in aught besides. They triumph in externals, (which conceal Man's real glory,) proud of an eclipse. Himself too much he prizes to be proud, And nothing thinks so great in man, as man. Too dear he holds his interest, to neglect Another's welfare, or his right invade ; Their interest, like a lion, lives on prey. They kindle at the shadow of a wrong: Wrong he sustains with temper, looks on heaven. Nor stoops to think his injurer his foe: [peace. Nought, but what wounds his virtue, wounds his A cover'd heart their character defends : A cover'd heart denies him half his praise. With nakedness his innocence agrees ; While their broad foliage testifies their fall. Their no-joys end where his full feast begins : His joys create, theirs murder, future bliss. Death, then, was welcome; yet life still is sweet. But nothing charms Loraxzo, like the firm, Undanuted breast. And whose is that high praise ? They yield to pleasure, though they danger brave, And show no fortitude but in the field : If there they show it, 'tis for glory shown ; Nor will that cordial always man their hearts. A cordial his sustains that cannot fail: By pleasure unsubdued, unbroke by pain, He shares in that Omnipotence he trusts; All bearing, all attempting, till he falls ? And when he falls, writes Vici on his shield : From nagaanimity, all fear above ; From nobjer recompense, above applause ; Which owes to man's short outlook all its charms.

Backward to credit what he never felt, LORENZO cries—" Where shines this miracle? From what root rises this immortal man ?" A root that grows not in LORENZO's ground; The root dissect, nor wonder at the flower.

He follows nature (not like thee,*) and shows us An uninverted system of a man. His appetite wears reason's golden chain. And finds, in due restraint, its luxury. His passion, like an eagle well reclaim'd, Is taught to fly at nought but infinite. Patient his hope, unanxious is his care, His caution fearless, and his grief (if grief The gods ordain) a stranger to despair. And why ? Because affection, more than meet. His wisdom leaves not disengaged from heaven. Those secondary goods that smile on earth, He, loving in proportion, loves in peace. They most the world enjoy who least admire. His understanding 'scapes the common cloud Of fumes, arising from a boiling breast. His head is clear, because his heart is cool, By worldly competitions uninflamed.

The moderate movements of his soul admit Distinct ideas, and matured debate, An eye impartial, and an even scale; Whence judgment sound, and marepenting choice. Thus, in a double sense, the good are wise; On its own dan.ghill wi er than the world. What, then, the world ? it must be doubly weak : Strange truth ? as soon would they believe their creed.

Yet thus it is ; nor otherwise can be : So far from aught romantic what I sing. Bliss has no being, virtue has no strength, But from the prospect of immortal life. Who think earth all, or (what weighs just the same) Who care no further, must prize what it yields; Fond of its fancies, proud of its parades. Who thinks earth nothing, can't its charms admire: He can't a fee, though most malignant, hate, Because that hate would prove his greater foe. 'Tis hard for them (yet who so londly boast Good will to men ?) to love their dearest friend : For, may not he invade their good supreme. Where the least jealously turns love to gall ? All shines to them, that for a season shines ; Each act, each thought, he questions, "What its Its color what, a thousand ages hence ?" [weight, And what it there appears, he deems it now. Hence, pure are the recesses of his soul. The godlike man has nothing to conceal. His virtue, constitutionally deep, Has habit's firmness, and affection's flame : Angels, allied, descend to feed the fire; And death, which others slays makes him a god. And now, LORENZO bigot of this world !

Wont to disdain poor bigots caught by Heaven ! Stand by thy scorn, and be reduced to nought: For what art thou ? Thou boaster ! while thy glare, Thy gaudy grandeur, and mere worldly worth, Like a broad mist, at distance, strikes us most; And, like a mist, is nothing when at hand; His merit, like a mountan, on approach,

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT VIII.

Swells more, and rises nearer to the skies. By promise now, and, by possesion, soon (Too soon, too much it cannot be) his own. From this thy just annihilation rise, LORENZO ! rise to something, by reply. The world, thy client, listens, and expects; And longs to crown thee with immortal praise. Canst thou be silent ? No; for wit is thine ; And wit talks most, when least she has to say, And reason interrupts not her career, She'll say-That mists above the mountains rise : And with a thousand pleasantries amuse : She'll sparkle, puzzle, flutter, raise a dust, And fly conviction in the dust she raised. Wit, how delicious to man's dainty taste ! 'Tis precious, as the vehicle of sense; But, as its substitute, a dire disease. Pernicious talent! flatter'd by the world, By the blind world, which thinks the talent rare, Wisdom is rare, LORENZO ! wit abounds : Passion can give it; sometimes wine inspires The lucky flash : and madness rarely fails. Whatever cause the spirit strongly stirs Confers the bays, and rivals thy renown. For thy renown, 'twere well was this the worst: Chance often hits it ; and, to pique thee more, See, dulness, blundering on vivacities, Shakes her sage head at the calamity, Which has exposed, and let her down to thee. But wisdom, awful wisdom ! which inspects, Discerns, compares, weighs, separates, infers, Seizes the right, and holds it to the last; How rare! In senates, synods, sought in vain : Or, if there found, 'tis sacred to the few : While a lewd prostitute to multitudes, Frequent, as fatal, wit. In civil life, Wit makes an enterpriser ; sense, a man : Wit hates authority ; commotion loves, And thinks herself the lightning of the storm. In states, 'tis dangerous ; in religion, death.

VIRTUE'S APOLOGY

Shall wit turn Christian, when the dull believe ? Sense is our helmet, wit is but the plume : The plutime expoces, 'tis our helmet saves, Sense is the damond, weighty, solid, sound ; When cut by wit, it casts a brighter beam ; Yet, wit apret, it is a diamond still. Wit, widow'd of good sense, is worse than nought; it hoists more sail to run against a rock. Thus, half a CHESTERTED is quite a fool; Whom dull fools scorn, and hiess their want of wit

How ruinous the rock 1 warn thee shun. Where S.rens sit, to sing thee to thy fate ! A joy, in which our reason bears no part, Is but a sorrow, tickling ere it stings. Let not the cooings of the world allure thee; Which of her lovers ever found her true ? Happy ! of this bad world who fittle know !---And yet, we much must know her, to be safe. To know the world, not love her, is thy point: She gives but little, nor that little long. There is, I grant, a triumph of the pulse; A dance of spirits, a mere froth of joy, Our thoughtless agitation's idle child, That mantles high, that sparkles and expires, Leaving the soul more vapid than before ; An animal ovation ! such as holds No commerce with our reason, but subsists On juices, through the well-toned tubes well strain'd : A nice machine ! scarce ever tuned aright : And when it jars-thy Sirens sing no more, Thy dance is done; the demi-god is thrown (Short apotheosis !) beneath the man, In coward gloom immersed, or feil despair.

Art thou yet dull enough despair to dread, And startle at destruction ? If thou art, Accept a buckler, take it to the field; (A field of battle is this mortal life !) When danger threatens, lay it on thy heart; A single sentence, proof against the world. "Soul, body, fortune ! every good pertains

NIGHT VIII

To one of these: but prize not all alike : The goods of fortune to thy body's health, Body to soul, and soul submit to Gor." Wouldst thou build lasting happiness ? do this : Th' inverted pyramid can never stand.

Is this truth doubtful ? It outshines the sun; Nay, the sun shines not, but to show us this, The single lesson of mankind on earth. And yet—yet what ? No news ! mankind is mad ! Such unighty numbers list against the right, (And what can't numbers, when bewitch'd, achieve !) They talk themselves to something like belief, That all earth's joys are theirs : as Athens' fool Grinn'd from the port, on every sail his own.

They grin; but wherefore? and how long the laugh? Half-gnorance, their wirth; and half, a lie; To cheat the world and cheat them-elves, they smile. Hard either tusk! The most abandon'd own, That others, if abandon'd, are undone: Then, for themselves, the moment reason wakes, (And Providence denies it long repose.) Oh how laborious is their gaiety ! They scarce can swallow their ebulient spleen, Scarce muster patience to support the farce, And pump sad laughter till the curtain falls. Scarce, did I say ? some cumot sit it out; Off their own daring hands the curtain farw, And show us what their joy, by their despair.

The clotted hair! gored breast 1 blaspheming eye, Its impious fury still alive in death ! Shut, shut the shocking scene.—But Heaven denies A cover to such quilt; and so should man. Look round, Louexsc ! see the reeking blade, Th' envenom'd phial, and the fatal ball; The strangling cord, and sufficienting stream; The hoathsome rottenness, and fout decays From raging riot, (slower suicide !) And pride in these, more execrable still; How horrid all to thought:—but horrors, these, That youch the truth; and aid my feeble song.

From vice, sense, fancy, no man can be bless'd : Bliss is too great to lodge within an hour. When an immortal being aims at bliss. Duration is essential to the name. Oh for a joy from reason ! joy from that, Which makes man man; and, exercised aright, Will make him more : a bounteous joy ! that gives, And promises ; that weaves, with art divine, The richest prospect into present peace : A joy ambitious ! joy in common held With thrones ethereal, and their greater far: A joy high-privileged from chance, time, death ! A joy which death shall double, judgment crown ! Crown'd higher, and still higher, at each stage. Through bless'd eternity's long day ; yet still, Not more remote from sorrow than from Him, Whose lavish hand, whose love stupendous, pours So much of Deity on guilty dust. There, O my LUCIA ! may I meet thee there, Where not thy presence can improve my bliss !

Affects not this the sages of the world ? Can nought affect them, but what fools them too ? Eternity, depending on an hour, Makes serious thought man's wisdom, joy, and praise. Nor need you blush (though sometimes your designs May shun the light) at your designs on heaven ! Sole point ! where over bashful is your blame. Are you not wise ?- You know you are : yet hear One truth, amid your numerous schemes, mislaid, Or overlook'd, or thrown aside, if seen : "Our schemes to plan by this world, or the next, Is the sole difference between wise and fool." All worthy men will weigh you in the scale; What wonder, then, if they pronounce you light? Is their esteem alone not worth your care ? Accept my simple scheme of common sense ; Thus save your fame, and make two worlds your own.

The world replies not ;--but the world persists ; And puts the cause off to the longest day, Planning evasions for the day of doom.

THE COMPLAINT.

NIGHT VIII.

So far, at that rehearing, from redress, They then turn witnesses against themselves. Hear that, LORENZO! nor be wise to-morrow ; Haste, haste! a man, by nature, is in haste; For who shall answer for another hour ? "Tis highly prudent to make one sure friend; And that thou coast not do this side the skies.

Ye sons of earth ! (nor willing to be more !) Since verse you think from priestcraft somewhat free. Thus, in an age so gay, the muse plain truths [prose] (Truths, which, at church, you might have heard in Has ventured into light; well pleased the verse Should be forgot, if you the truths retain ; And crown her with your welfare, not your praise. But praise she need not fear : I see my fate ; And headlong leap, like CURTIUS, down the gulf. Since many an ample volume, mighty tome, Must die : and die unwept ; O thou minute. Devoted page ! go forth among thy foes ; Go, nobly proud of martyrdom for truth, And die a double death. Mankind incensed. Denies thee long to live : nor shalt thou rest, When thou art dead: in Stygian shades arraign'd By LUCIFER, as traitor to his throne : And bold blasphemer of his friend,-the WORLD: The world, whose legions cost him slender pay. And volunteers around his banners swarm : Prudent as PRUSSIA in her zeal for GAUL.

"Are all, then, fools ?" LORENZO cries, Yes, all, But such as hold this doctrine: (new to thee;) "The mother of true wisdom is the will:" The noblest intellect a fool without it. World-wisdom nuch has done, and more may do, In arts and science, like thy wealth, will leave thee, And make thee twice a beggar at thy death. This is the most indulgence can afford;— "Thy wisdom all can do but—make thee wise." Nor think this censure is severe on thee: Satan, thy master, I dare call a dunce.

Night the Ninth and Last.

THE CONSOLATION:

CONTAINING, AMONG OTHER THINGS,

 A MORAL SURVEY OF THE NOCTURNAL HEAVENS II. A NIGHT ADDRESS TO THE DEITY.

..... Fatis contraria fata rependens .--- VIRG.

As when a traveller a long day pass'd In painful search of what he cannot find, At night's approach, content with the next cot, There runniates awhile his labor lost ; Then cheers his heart with what his fate affords, And chants his sonnet to deceive the time, Till the due season call him to repose : Thus I, long travell'd in the ways of men, And dancing, with the rest, the giddy maze, Where disappointment smiles at hope's career : Warn'd by the languor of life's evening ray, At length have housed me in an humble shed : Where, future wandering banish'd from my thought, And waiting, patient, the sweet hour of rest, I chase the moments with a serious song, Song soothes our pains; and age has pains to soothe.

When age, care, crime, and friends embraced at heart,

Torn from my bleeding breast, and death's dark shade, Which hovers o'er me, quench the ethereal fire; Canst thou, O Night! indulge one labor more ? One labor more indulge! then sleep, my strain!

NIGHT IX.

Till haply waked by RAPIAEL's golden lyre, Where night. death, age, care, crime, and sorrow To bear a part in everlasting lays; [cease; Though far, far higher set, in ann, I trust, Symphonius to this humble prefunde here.

Has not the muse asserted pleasures pure. Like those above ; exploding other joys ? Weigh what was urged, LORENZO ! fairly weigh ; And tell me, hast thou cause to triumph still ? I think, thou wilt forbear a boast so bold, But if, beneath the favor of mistake, Thy smile's sincere ; not more sincere can be LORENZO'S smile than my compassion for him. The sick in body call for aid; the sick In mind are covetous of more disease ; And when at worst, they dream themselves quite To know ourselves diseased is half our cure. [well. When nature's blush by custom is wiped off. And conscience deaden'd by repeated strokes. Has into manners naturalized our crimes; The curse of curses is, our curse to love; To triumph in the blackness of our guilt, (As Indians glory in the deepest jet.) And throw aside our senses with our peace.

But, grant no guilt, no shame, no leaist alloy; Grant joy and gory quite unsulied shone; Yet still, it ill deserves LORENZO'S heart. No joy, no glory glitters in thy sight, But, through the thin partition of an hour, I see its sables wove by destiny; And that in sorrow buried; this, in shame; While howling furies ring the doleful knell; And conscience, now so soft thou scarce canst hear Her whispers, echoes her eternal peal.

Where the prime actors of the last year's scene: Their port so proud, their buskin, and their plume? How many sleep, who kept the world awake With lustre and with noise! Has death proclaim'd A truce, and hung his sated lance on high ? "Its brandish'd still; nor shall the present year Be more tenacious of her human leaf, Or spread of feeble life a thinner fall.

But needless monuments to wake the thought: Life's gayest scenes speak man's mortality; Though in a style more florid, full as plain As mausoleums, pyramids, and tombs. What are our noblest ornaments but deaths Turn'd flatterers of life, in paint, or marble, 'The well stain'd canvass, or the featured stone ? Our fathers grace, or rather haunt, the scene : Joy peoples her pavilion from the dead. "Profess'd diversions ! cannot these escape ?" Far from it: these present us with a shroud: And talk of death, like garlands o'er a grave. As some bold plunderers, for buried wealth, We ransack tombs for pastime ; from the dust Call up the sleeping hero; bid him tread The scene for our amusement: how like gods We sit; and, wrapp'd in immortality, Shed generous tears on wretches born to die : Their fate deploring to forget our own !

What all the points and triumphs of our lives, But legacies in blosson 3 Our lean soil, Luxuriant grown, and rank in vanities, From friends interr'd beneath; a rich manure ! Like other worns we banquet on the dead : Like other worns, shall we crawl on, nor know Our present frailues or approaching fate ?

Lorg xxzo ! such the gloiries of the world ! What is the world itself ? thy world !-A grave ! Where is the dust that has not been alive ? The spade, the plough disturb our ancestors ; From human mould we reap our daily bread. The globe around earth's hollow surface shakes, And is the ceiling of her sleeping sons. O'er devastation we blind revels keep ; While buried towns support the dancer's heel. The moist of human frame the sun exhales : Winds scatter through the mighty void the dry ; Barth reposesses part of what she gave,

NIGHT IX.

And the freed spirit mounts on wings of fire; Each element partakes our scatter'd spoils; As nature, wide, our ruins spread: man's death Inhabits all things but the thought of man.

Nor man alone ; his breathing bust expires, His tomb is mortal; empires die. Where now The Roman ? Greek ? They stalk, an empty name ! Yet few regard them in this useful light; Though half our learning is their epitaph. When down thy vale, unlock'd by midnight thought, That loves to wander in thy sunless realms, O death! I stretch my view; what visions rise! What triumphs ! toils imperial ! arts divine ! In wither'd laurels glide before my sight: What lengths of far-famed ages, billow'd high With human agitation, roll along In unsubstantial images of air ! The melancholy ghosts of dead renown, Whispering faint echoes of the world's applause. With penitential aspect, as they pass, All point at earth, and hiss at human pride, The wisdom of the wise, and prancings of the great,

But, O LORENZO ! far the rest above, Of ghastly nature and enormous size, One form assaults my sight, and chills my blood, And shakes my frame. Of one departed world I see the nighty shadow : oosy wreath And dismal seaweed crown her : o'er her urn Rectined, she weeps her desolated realms And bloated sons : and weeping, prophesies Another's dissolution, soon, in frames. But, like CASSANDRA, prophesies in vain ; In vain to many : not, I trust, to thee.

For, know'st thou not, or art thou loth to know, The great decree, the connsel of the skies 3 Deluge and conflagration, dreadful powers ! Prime ministers of vengeance ! chain'd in caves Distinct, apart the giant furies roar; Apart ; or such their horrid rage for ruin, In mutual conflict would they rise, and wage Elemal war, till one was quite devour'd. But not for this ordain'd their boundless rage: When Heaven's interior instruments of wrath, War, famine, pertilence, are found too weak To scourge a world for her normous crimes, These are let loose alternate: down they rush, Swift and tempestuous, from the eternal throne, With mresistible commission arm'd, The world, in vair corrected, to destroy, And case creation of the shocking scene.

Seest thou, LORENZO ! what depends on man ? The fate of nature; as for man, her birth. Earth's actors change earth's transitory scenes, And make creation groan with human guilt. How must it groan in a new deluge whelm'd, But not of waters! At the destined hour, By the loud trumpet summon'd to the charge, See all the formidable sons of fire, Eruptions, earthquakes, comets, lightnings, play Their various engines; and take, by storm, This poor terrestral citadel of man.

Amazing period ! when each mountain height Outburns Vesuvius; rocks eternal pour Their melted mass, as rivers once they pour'd; Stars rush; and final ruin fiercely drives Her ploughshare o'er creation !- while aloft, More than astonishment! if more can be! Far other firmament than e'er was seen, Than e'er was thought by man ! far other stars ! Stars animate, that govern these of fire; Far other sun !- A Sun, oh, how unlike The Babe at Bethie'm! how unlike the Man That groan'd on Calvary ! Yet He it is ; That man of sorrows! oh, how changed! What In grandeur terrible, all heaven descends ! [pomp! And gods, ambitious, triumph in his train. A swift archangel, with his golden wing, As blots and clouds, that darken and disgrace The scene divine, sweeps stars and suns aside.

NIGHT IX.

And now, all dross removed, heaven's own pure day, Full on the confines of our ether, flames : While (dreadful contrast!) far, how far beneath ! Hell, bursting, belches forth her blazing seas, And storms sulphureous; her voracious jaws Exnanding wide, and roaring for her prev.

LORENZO ! welcome to this scene ! the last In nature's course ; the first in wisdom's thought. This strikes, if aught can strike thee ; this awakes The most supine ; this snatches man from death. Rouse, rouse, LORENZO, then, and follow me, Where truth, the most momentous man can hear, Loud calls my soul, and ardor wings her flight. I find my inspiration in my theme : The grandeur of my subject is my muse.

At midnight, when mankind is wrap'd in peace. And worldly fancy feeds on golden dreams ; To give more dread to man's most dreadful hour, At midnight, 'tis presumed, this pomp will burst From tenfold darkness; sudden as the spark From smitten steel; from nitrous grain, the blaze. Man, starting from his couch, shall sleep no more ! The day is broke which never more shall close ! Above, around, beneath, amazement all ! Terror and glory join'd in their extremes ! Our God in grandeur, and our world on fire! All nature struggling in the pangs of death ! Dost thou not hear her ? Dost thou not deplore Her strong convulsions and her final groan ? Where are we now ? Ah me ! the ground is gone On which we stood : LORENZO ! while thou mayst, Provide more firm support, or sink for ever ! Where ? how ? from whence ? Vain hope ! it is too Where, where for shelter shall the guilty fly, [late ! When consternation turns the good man pale ?

Great day ! for which all other days were made ; For which earth rose from chaos, man from earth ; And an eternity, the date of gods, Descended on poor earth-created man ! Great day of dread, decision, and desnair !

At thought of thee, each sublunary wish Lets go its eager grasp, and drops the world ; And catches at each reed of hope in heaven. At thought of thee !-- And art thou absent then ? LORENZO ! no; 'tis here ; it is begun ;-Already is begun the grand assize, In thee, in all. Deputed conscience scales The dread tribunal, and forestalls our doom : Forestalls : and, by forestalling, proves it sure. Why on himself should man void judgment pass ? Is idle nature laughing at her sons ? Who conscience sent her sentence will support: And Gop above assert that God in man. Thrice happy they ! that enter now the court Heaven opens in their hosoms. But, how rare, Ah me! that magnanimity how rare! What hero like the man who stands himself: Who dares to meet his naked heart alone ; Who hears, intrepid, the full charge it brings, Resolved to silence future murmurs there ? The coward flies; and, flying, is undone.

And thou a coward! No.) The coward flies; Thinks, but thinks slightly; asks, but fears to know; Asks, "What is truth?" with PILATE; and retires; Dissolves the court, and mingles with the throng: Asylum sad! from reason, hope, and heaven!

Shall all but man look out with ardent eye, For that great day which was ordain'd for man ? A day of consummation ! mark supreme (If men are wise) of human thought ! nor least, Or in the sight of augels or their Kins ! Augels, whose radiant circles, height o'er height, Order o'er order rising, blaze o'er blaze, As in a theatre, surround this scene, Intent on man, and anxious for his fate. Angels look out for thee ; for thee, their Loro, To vindicate his glory ; and for thee, Creation universal calls aloud, To nature's renovation brighter charms.

NIGHT IX.

Shall man alone, whose fate, whose final fate Hangs on that hour, exclude it from his thought i I think of nothing else; i see! I feel it! All nature, like an earthquake, trembling round! All deities, like summer swarns, on wing! All basking in the full meridian blaze! I see the Junce enthroned! the flaming guard! The volume open'd! open'd every heart! A sunheam pointing out each secret thought! No patron! intercessor none! now pass'd The sweet, the element, meditorial hour ! For guilt no plea! to pain no pause! no bound! Inexorable all! and all extreme!

Nor man alone; the foe of Gop and man, From his dark den, blaspheming, drags his chain, And rears his brazen front, with thunder scarr'd; Receives his sentence, and begins his hell. All vengeance past now seems abundant grace: Like meteors in a stormy sky, how roll His baleful eyes! he curses whom he dreads; And deems it the first moment of his fall.

"The present to my thought t—and yet, where is it ? Angels: can't tell me; angels cannot guess The period; from created beings lock'd In darkness. But the process and the place Are less obscure; for these may man inquire. Say, thou great close of human hopes and fears! Great key of hearts ! great finisher of fates ! Great end ! and great beginning ! say, where art thou ? Art thou in time or in eternity ? Nor in eternity are time I find thee. These, as two monarchs, on their borders meet, (Monarchs of all elapsed or unarrived !) As in debate, how best their powers allied, May swell the grandeur, or discharge the wrath Of Him who both their monarchies obey.

Time, this vast fabric for him built, (and doom'd With him to fall.) now bursting o'er his head; His lamp, the sun, extinguish'd; from beneath The frown of hideous darkness, calls his sons

From their long slumber; from earth's heaving womb, To second birth; contemporary throng ! Roused at one call, upstarting from one bed, Press'd in one crowd, appall'd with one amaze, He turns them o'er, Eternity ! to thee. Then (as a king deposed disdains to luve,) He falls on his own scythe; nor falls alone; His greatest foe falls with him : Time, and he Who murder'd all Time's offspring, Death, expire.

Time was! Eternity now reigns alone: Awful Eternity! offended queen! And her resentment to mankind how just! With kind intent, soliciting access, How often has she knock'd at human hearts! Rich to repay their hospitality; How often call'd! and with the voice of Gop! Yet hore repulse, excluded as a cheat! A dream, a cheat, now, all things but her smile.

For, lo? her twice ten thousand gates thrown wide As thrice from Indus to the frozen pole, With banners streaming as the comet's blaze, And clarions, louder than the deep in storms, Sonorous as immortal breath can blow, Pour forth their myriads, potentates and powers, Of light, of darkness; in a middle field, Wide as creation ? populous as wide ! A neutral region ? there to mark th' event Of that great drama, whose preceding scenes Disdain'd them close spectators through a length Of ages, rippening to this grand result; Ages, as yet unnumber'd, but by Gon; Who, now, pronouncing sentence, vindicates The rights of virtue and his own renown,

Eternity, the various sentence pass'd, Assigns the sever'd throng distinct abodes, Sulphurcous or ambrosial. What ensues ? The deed predominant the deed of deeds ! Which makes a hell of hell, a heaven of heaven. The goldess, with determined aspect, turns

NIGHT IX.

Her adamantine key's enormous size Through destiny's inextricable wards, Deep driving every bolt, on both their fates : Then from the crystal battlements of heaven, Down, down she hurls it through the dark profound, Ten thousand thousand fathom ; there to rust, And ne'er unlock her resolution more. The deep resounds ; and hell, through all her glooms, Returns, in grooms, the melancholy roar.

Oh, how unlike the chorus of the skies! Oh, how unlike those shouts of joy, that shake The whole ethereal ! how the concave rings ! Nor strange ! when deities their voice exalt : And louder far than when creation rose. To see creation's godlike aim and end So well accomplished ! so divinely closed ! To see the mighty Dramatist's last act, (As meet,) in glory rising o'er the rest. No fancied god, a Gop indeed descends, To solve all knots : to strike the moral home : To throw full day on darkest scenes of time : To clear, commend, exalt, and crown the whole. Hence, in one peal of loud, eternal praise, The cha-m'd spectators thunder their applause ; And the vast void, beyond, applause resounds, WHAT THEN AM I ?----

Anidist applanding worlds, And worlds celestial, is there found on earth, A peevish, dissonant. rebellious string, Which jars in the grand chorus, and complains ? Censure on thee, Lorexzo, I suspend, And turn It on myself; how greatly due! ' All, all is right by Goo ordsin'd or done : And who but Goo resumed the friends He gave ? And have I been complaining, then, so long ? Complaining of his favors ; pain, and death ? Who, without pain's advice, would e're be good ? Who, without death, but would be good in vain ? Pain is to save from pain, all punishment, To make for peace : and death, to save from death :

And second death, to guard immortal life; To rouse the careless, the presumptious awe, And turn the tide of souls another way : By the same tenderness divine ordain'd That planted Eden, and high-bloom'd for man, A fairer Eden, endless, in the skies. Heaven gives us friends to bless the present scene ; Resumes them, to prepare us for the next. All evils natural are moral goods : All discipline, indulgence, on the whole, None are unhappy; all have cause to smile, But such as to themselves that cause deny. Our faults are at the bottom of our pains; Error, in act or judgment, is the source Of endless sighs. We sin, or we mistake, And nature tax, when false opinion stings. Let impious grief be banish'd, joy indulged ; But chiefly then, when grief puts in her claim. Joy from the joyous, frequently betrays; Oft lives in vanity, and dies in woe. Joy amidst ills corroborates, exalts ; 'Tis joy and conquest : joy and virtue too. A noble fortitude in ills delights Heaven, earth, ourselves ; 'tis duty, glory, peace. Affliction is the good man's shining scene: Prosperity conceals his brightest ray : As night to stars, woe lustre gives to man. Heroes in battle, pilots in the storm. And virtue in calamities, admire. The crown of manhood, is a winter-joy : An evergreen, that stands the northern blast, And blossoms in the rigor of our fate. 'Tis a prime part of happiness to know How much unhappiness must prove our lot : A part which few possess ! I'll pay life's tax Without one rebel nurmur, from this hour,

Nor think it misery to be a man : Who thinks it is shall never be a god.

Some ills we wish for, when we wish to live.

NIGHT 1X.

What spoke prond passion? "* Wish my being lost?"

Presumptuous ! blasphemous ! absurd ! and false ! The triumph of my soul is, that I am; And therefore that I may be-What ? LORENZO! Look inward, and look deep : and deeper still ; Unfathomably deep our treasure runs In golden veins, through all eternity! Ages, and ages, and succeeding still New ages, where this phantom of an hour, Which courts, each night, dull slumber, for repair, Shall wake, and wonder, and exult, and praise, And fly through infinite, and all unlock ; And, (if deserved;) by Heaven's redundant love, Made half-adorable itself, adore ; And find, in adoration, endless joy 1 Where thou, not master of a moment here, Frail as the flower, and fleeting as the gale, Mayst boast a whole eternity, enrich'd With all a kind Omnipotence can pour. Since ADAM fell, no mortal, uninspired, Has ever yet conceived ; or ever shall, How kind is God, how great (if good) is man. No man too largely from Heaven's love can hope, If, what is hoped, he labors to secure.

Its '--there are none ! All gracious ! none from From man full many ! numerous is the race [Thee; Of blackest ills, and those immortal too, Begot by Madness on fair Liberty; Heaven's daughter, hell debauched ! her hand alone Unlocks destruction to the sons of men, First barr'd by Thine; high wall'd with adamant, Guarded with terrors reaching to this world, And cover'd with the thanders of Thy law; Whose threats are mercies, whose injunctions, guides, Assisting, not restraining, reason's choice; Whose sanctions, unavoidable results From nature's course, indugently reveal'd;

*Referring to the First Night.

If unrevented and the state of the state of Great Gop of wonders ! (if thy love survey'd, Aught else the name of wonderful retains) What rocks are these, on which to build our trust! Thy ways admit no blemish : none I find : Or this alone-" that none is to be found." Not one, to soften censure's hardy crime; Not one, to palliate peevish grief's complaint, Who, like a demon, murmuring from the dust, Dares into judgment call her Judge-SUPREME! For all I bless thee ; most, for the severe ; *Her death-my own at hand-the fiery gulf, That flaming bound of wrath omnipotent! It thunders ; but it thunders to preserve ; It strengthens what it strikes ; its wholesome dread Averts the dreaded pain ; its hideous groans Join heaven's sweet hallelujahs to thy praise. Great source of good alone ! how kind in all ! In vengeance kind ! pain, death, Gehenna, save.

Thuš in thy world inaterial, mighty Mind! Not that alone which solaces and shines, The rough and gloomy challenges our praise. The winter is as needful as the spring; The thunder, as the sun; a stagnate mass Of vapours breeds a pestilential air: Nor more propidious the Favonian breeze To nature's health, than purifying storms. The dread volcano ministers to good; Its smother'd flames might undermine the world. Loud Ætnas fulninate in love to man! Gomets good omens are, when duly scann'd; And, in their use, eclipses learn to shine. Man is responsible for ills received;

Those we call wretched are a chosen band,

*LUCIA.

Compell'd to refuge in the right, for peace. Amid my list of blessings infinite, Stand this the foremost, "that my heart has bled." 'Tis Heaven's last effort of good will to man : When pain can't bless, Heaven quits us in despair. Who fails to grieve, when just occasion calls, Or grieves too much, deserves not to be bless'd ; Inhuman or effeminate his heart: Reason absolves the grief, which reason ends. May Heaven ne'er trust my friend with happiness, Till it has taught him how to bear it well. By previous pain ; and made it safe to smile ! Such smiles are mine, and such may they remain : Nor hazard their extinction, from excess, My change of heart a change of style demands ; The CONSOLATION cancels the COMPLAINT, And makes a convert of my guilty song.

As when o'erlabor'd, and inclined to breathe, A panting traveller, some rising ground, Some small ascent, has gain'd, he turns him round And measures with his eye, the various vale, The fields, woods, meads, and rivers he has pass'd : And, satiate of his journey, thinks of home, Endear'd by distance, nor affects more toil : Thus I, though small indeed is that ascent The muse has gain'd, review the paths she trod ; Various, extensive, beaten but by few : And, conscious of her prudence in repose, Pause : and with pleasure meditate an end, Though still remote ; so fruitful is my theme. Through many a field of moral and divine The muse has stray'd; and much of sorrow seen In human ways; and much of false and vain; Which none, who travel this bad road, can miss. O'er friends deceased full heartily she wept; Of love divine the wonders she display'd ; Proved man immortal; show'd the source of joy; The grand tribunal raised; assign'd the bounds Of human grief: in few, to close the whole, The moral muse has shadow'd out a sketch.

Though not in form, nor with a RAPHAEL stroke, Of most our weakness needs believe or do, In this our land of travel and of hope, For peace on earth, or prospect of the skies.

What then remains? Much ! much ! a mighty debt To be discharged: These thoughts, O Night! are From thee they came, like lovers' secret sighs; [thine; While others sleep. So CYNTHA (poets feign) In shadows veil'd, soft sliding from her sphere, Her shepherd cheer'd; of her enamor'd less, Than I of thee. And art thou still unsung, Beneath whose brow, and by whose aid I sing ? Immortal silence !--Where shall I begin ? Where end ? or how steal music from the spheres, To soothe their goldess ?

O majestic Night ! Nature's great ancestor ! Day's elder-horn ! And fated to survive the transient sun ! By mortals, and immortals, seen with awe ! A starry crown thy raven brow adorns, An azure zone, thy waist; clouds, in heaven's loom Wrought through varieties of shape and shade, In ample folds of drapery divine, Thy Flowing mantle forn; and, heaven throughout, Voluminously pour thy pompous train; Thy gloony grandeurs (nature's most august, Inspiring aspect !) claim a grateful verse; And. like a soble curtain start'd with gold, Drawn o'er my labours past, shall close the scene.

And what, O man ! so worthy to be sung ? What more prepares us for the songs of heaven ? Creation, of archangels is the theme ! What, to be sung so needful ? What so well Celestial joys prepares us to sustain ? The soul of man, His face designed to see, Who gave these wonders to be seen by man, Has here a previous scene of objects great, On which to dwell; to stretch to that expanse Of thought, to rise to that exalted height Of admiration, to contract that awe,

NIGHT LX

And give her whole capacities that strength, Which best may qualify for final joy. The more our spirits are enlarged on earth, The deeper draught shall they receive of heaven. Heaven's Kirse ! whose face unveil'd consummates

bliss;

Redundant bliss ! which fills that mighty void. The whole creation leaves in human hearts ! THOU, who didst touch the lip of JESSE's son. Rapt in sweet contemplation of these fires. And set his harp in concert with the spheres! While of thy works material the supreme I dare attempt, assist my daring song, Loose me from earth's enclosure, from the sun's Contracted circle, set my heart at large; Eliminate my spirit, give it range Through provinces of thought yet unexplored ; Teach me, by this stupendous scaffolding, Creation's golden steps, to climb to THEE. Teach me with art great nature to control, And spread a lustre o'er the shades of night Feel I thy kind assent? and shall the sun Be seen at midnight, rising in my song ?

LORENZO! come, and warm thee: thou, whose Whose little heart is moor'd within a nook [heart Of this obscure terrestrial, anchor weigh; Another ocean calls, a nobler port; I am thy pilot. I thy prosperous gale. Gainful thy voyage through yon azure main; Main, without tempest, pirate, rock, or shore ; And whence thou mayst import eternal wealth; And leave to beggar'd minds the pearl and gold. Thy travels dost thou boast o'er foreign realms ? Thou, stranger to the world! thy tour begin; Thy tour through nature's universal orb. Nature delineates her whole chart at large, On soaring souls that sail along the spheres ; And man how purblind, if unknown the whole ! Who circles spacious earth, then travels here, Shall own he never was from home before ;

Come, my PROMETHEUS,* from thy pointed rock Of false ambition if unchain'd, we'll mount; We'll innocently steal celestial fire. And kindle our devotion at the stars: A theft, that shall not chain, but set them free. Above our atmosphere's intestine wars, Rain's fountain-head, the magazine of hail; Above the northern nest of feather'd snows, The brew of thunders, and the flaming forge That forms the crooked lightning ; 'bove the caves Where infant tempests wait their growing wings, And tune their tender voices to that roar, Which soon, perhaps, shall shake a guilty world; Above misconstrued omens of the sky, Far-travel'd comets' calculated blaze; Elance thy thought, and think of more than man. Thy soul, till now, contracted, wither'd, shrunk, Blighted by blasts of earth's unwholesome air, Will blossom here ; spread all her faculties To these bright ardours : every power unfold, And rise into sublimities of thought. Stars teach, as well as shine. At nature's birth, Thus their commission ran, "Be kind to man." Where art thou, poor benighted traveller ? The stars will light thee; though the moon shall fail. Where art thou, more benighted ! more astray ! In ways immortal ? the stars call thee back : And, if obey'd their counsel, set thee right.

This prospect vast what is it ? weigh'd aright, 'Tis nature's system of divinity, And every student of the night inspires. 'Tis elder Scripture, writ by Gon's own hand : Scripture authentic! uncorrupt by man. Lorexzo ! with my radius (the rich gift Of thought nocturnal !) I'll point out to thee Its various lessons ; some that may surprise An un-adept in mysteries of Night ; Little, perhaps, expected in her school,

*Night the Eighth.

Nor thought to grow on planet or on star. Bulls, lions, scorpions, monsters, here we feign; Ourselves more monstrous, not to see what here Exists indeed; a lecture to mankind.

What read we here ? the existence of a Gop ? Yes; and of other beings, man above ! Natives of ether ! sons of higher climes ! And, what may move Lorexzo's wonder more, Etternity is written in the skies. And whose eternity ? Lorexzo, thine ; Mankind's eternity. Nor faith alone ; Virtue grows here : here springs the sov'reign cure Of almost every vice; but chiefly thine : Wrath, pride, ambition, and impure desire.

Long's zo ' thou canst wake at midnight too, Though not on morals bent : ambition, pleasure ! Those tyrants I for thee so lately fought,* Afford their haråss'd slaves but slender rest. Thou, to whom midnight is immoral noon, And the sun's noontide blaze, prime dawn of day; Not by thy climate, but capricious crime, Commencing one of our Antipodes ! In thy nocturnal rove, one moment halt, 'Twixt stage and stage of riot and cabal; And lift thine eye (if bold an eye tolift, If bold to meet the face of injured Heaven) To yonder stars : for other ends they shine, Than to light travellers from shame to shame, And, thus, be made accomplices in guilt.

Why from yon arch, that infinite of space, With infinite of lucid orbs replete, Which set the living firmament on fire, At the first glance, in such an overwhelm Of wonderful on man's astonished sight, Rushes OxfirorExce? to curb our pride; Our reason rouse, and lead it to that Power, Whose love lets down these silver chains of light, To draw up man's ambition to Himself,

*Night the Eighth.

And bind our chaste affection to his throne. Thus the three virtues, least alive on earth, [plause, And welcomed on heaven's coast with most ap-An humble, pure, and heavenly minded heart, Are here inspired. And canst thou gaze too long 3

Nor stands thy wrath deprived of its reproof, Or unuphraided by this radiant choir. The planets of each system represent Kind neighbors; mutual anity prevails; Sweet interchange of rays, received, return'd; Enlightening, and enlighten'd! All, at once, Attracting, and attracted ! Patrich-like, None sins against the welfare of the whole; But their reciprocal, unselfish aid Affords an emblem of millennial love. Nothing in nature, much less conscious being, Was e'er created solely for itself: Thus man his sov'reign duty learns in this Material picture of benevolence.

And know, of all our supercilious race, Thou most inflammable ! thou wasp of men ! Man's angry heart, inspected, would be found As rightly set, as are the starry spheres; "I's nature's structure, broke by stubhorn will, Breeds all that uncelestial discord there. Wilt thou not feel the bias nature gave ? Canst thou descend from converse with the skies. And seize thy brother's throat ? for what ? a clod ? An inch of earth ? the planets cry, "forhear;" They chase our double darkness, nature's gloon ; And (kinder still !) our intellectual night.

And see, Day's amiable sister sends Her invitation in the softest rays Of mitigated lustre; courts thy sight, Which suffers from her tyrant-brother's blaze. Night grants thee the full freedom of the skies, Nor rudely reprimands thy lifted eye; With gain and joy she bribes thee to be wise. Night opes the noblest scenes, and sheds an awe Which gives those venerable scenes full weight,

And deep reception in th' intender'd heart: While light peeps through the darkness, like a spy; And darkness shows its grandeur by the light. Nor is the profit greater than the joy. If human hearts at glorious objects glow, And admiration can inspire delight.

What speak I more than I, this moment, feel ? With pleasing stupor first the soul is struck : (Stupor ordain'd to make her truly wise !) Then into transport starting from her trance, With love and admiration how she glows ! This gorgeous apparatus ! this display ! This ostentation of creative power! This theatre ! what eye can take it in ? By what divine enchantment was it raised, For minds of the first magnitude to launch In endless speculation, and adore ? One sun by day, by night ten thousand shine ; And light us deep into the DEITY: How boundless in magnificence and might! Oh, what a confluence of ethereal fires, From urns unnumber'd, down the steep of heaven, Streams to a point, and centres in my sight! Nor tarries there ; I feel it at my heart. My heart, at once, it humbles and exalts : Lays it in dust, and calls it to the skies. Who sees it unexalted ? or unawed ? Who sees it, and can stop at what is seen ? Material offspring of OMNIPOTENCE ! Inanimate, all animating birth ! Work worthy Him who made it ! worthy praise ! All praise ! praise more than human ! nor denied Thy praise divine ! but though man, drown'd in sleep, Withholds his homage, not alone I wake : Bright legions swarm unseen, and sing unheard By mortal ear. the glorious Architect, In this his universal temple, hung With lustres, with innumerable lights, That shed religion on the soul, at once, The temple, and the preacher ! Oh how loud

It calls devotion ! genuine growth of night ! Devotion ! daughter of astronomy ! An undevout astronomer is mad. True : all things speak a Gop : but in the small, Men trace out Him ; in great, He seizes man ; Siezes, and elevates, and wraps, and fills With new enquiries, 'mid associates new. Tell me, ye stars ! ye planets ! tell me, all Ye starr'd, and planeted inhabitants ! what is it ? What are these sons of wonder ? say, proud arch, (Within whose azure palaces they dwell,) Built with divine ambition ! in disdain Of limit built ! built in the taste of heaven ! Vast concave ! ample dome ! wast thou design'd A meet apartment for the DEITY ? Not so ; that thought alone thy state impairs, Thy lofty sinks, and shallows thy profound, And straitens thy diffusive ; dwarfs the whole, And makes a universe an orrery.

But when I drop mine eye, and look on man, Thy right regain'd, thy grandeur is restored, O nature ! wide flies off th' expanding round, As when whole magazines at once are fired, The smitten air is hollow'd by the blow : The vast displosion dissipates the clouds : Shock'd ether's billows dash the distant skies ; Thus (but far more) th' expanding round flies off, And leaves a mighty void, a spacious womb, Might teem with new creation: reinflamed Thy luminaries triumph, and assume Divinity themselves. Nor was it strange, Matter high-wrought to such surprising pomp, Such godlike glory, stole the style of gods From ages dark, obtuse, and steep'd in sense; For sure, to sense, they truly are divine, And half absolved idolatry from guilt ; Nay, turn'd it into virtue. Such it was In those, who put forth all they had of man Unlost, to lift their thought, nor mounted higher; But, weak of wing, on planets perch'd; and thought

What was their highest must be their adored. But they how weak, who could no higher mount! And are there then, LORENZO, those to whom Unseen and unexistent are the same ? And if incomprehensible is join'd, Who dare pronounce it madness to believe ? Why has the mighty Builder thrown aside All measure in his work ; stretch'd out his line So far, and spread amazement o'er the whole ? Then, (as he took delight in wide extremes,) Deep in the bosom of his universe. Dropp'd down that reasoning mite, that insect, man, To crawl, and gaze, and wonder at the scene ?----That man might ne'er presume to plead amazement For disbelief of wonders in Himself. Shall Gop be less miraculous than what His hand has form'd ? Shall mysteries descend From unmysterious ? things more elevate Be more familiar ? uncreated lie More obvious than created, to the grasp Of human thought ? the more of wonderful Is heard in Him, the more we should assent. Could we conceive him, Gop he could not be; Or he not Gop, or we could not be men. A God alone can comprehend a Gop: Man's distance how immense! On such a theme Know this, LORENZO ! (seem it ne'er so strange) Nothing can satisfy but what confounds ; Nothing but what astonishes is true. The scene thou seest attests the truth I sing: And every star sheds light upon thy creed. These stars, this furniture, this cost of heaven, If but reported, thou hads't ne'er believed ; But thine eye tells thee the romance is true. The grand of nature is th' Almighty's oath, In reason's court, to silence unbelief. How my mind, opening at this scene, imbibes

The moral emanations of the skies; While nought, perhaps, LORENZO less admires ! Has the Great Sov'reign sent ten thousand worlds

To tell us, he resides above them all, In glory's unapproachable recess ? And dare earth's bold inhabitants deny The sumptuous, the magnific embassy A moment's audience ? Turn we, nor will hear From whom they come, or what they would impart For man's emolument; sole cause that stoops Their grandeur to man's eve ? LORENZO ! rouse ; Let thought, awaken'd, take the lightning's wing, And glance from east to west, from pole to pole. Who sees, but is confounded or convinced ? Renounces reason, or a Gop adores ? Mankind was sent into the world to see: Sight gives the science needful to their peace; That obvious science asks small learning's aid. Wouldst thou on metaphysic pinions soar ? Or wound thy patience amid logic thorns ? Or travel history's enormous round ? Nature no such hard task enjoins: she gave A make to man directive of his thought; A make set upright; pointing to the stars, As who should say, "Read thy chief lesson there." Too late to read this manuscript of heaven, When, like a parchment scroll shrunk up by flames. It folds LORENZO's lesson from his sight.

Lesson how various ! Nor the Gop alone; I see his ministers; I see, diffused In radiant orders, essences sublime, Of various offices, of various plume, In heavenly liveries, distinctly clad, Azure, green, purple, pearl, or downy gold, Or all commix'd; they stand, with wings outspread, Listening to catch the Master's least command, And fly through nature, ere the moment ends; Numbers innumerable ! Well conceived By Pagan and by Christian ! o'er each sphere Presides an angel, to direct its course, And feed or fan its filames; or to discharge Other high trusts unknown. For who can see Such ponp of matter, and imagine mind,

NIGHT 1X.

For which alone inanimate was made, More sparingly dispensed ! that nobler son, Far liker the great SIRE! "Tis thus the skies Inform us of superiors numberless, As much, in excellence, above mankind, As above earth, in magnitude, the spheres. These as a cloud of witnesses hang o'er us; In a throng'd theatre are all our deeds: Perhaps a thousand demigods descend On every beam we see, to walk with men. Awful reflection ! strong restraint from ill !

Vet here our virtue finds still stronger aid From these ethereal glories sense surveys. Something like magic strikes from this blue vault, With just attention is it view'd? We feel A sudden succor, unimplored, unthought: Nature herself does half the work of man. Seas, rivers, mountains, forests, deserts, rocks, The promontory's height, the depth profound Of subterranean, excavated grots, Black-brow'd, and vaulted high, and yawning wide From nature's structure or the scoop of time: If ample of dimension, vast of size, E'en these an aggrandizing impulse give : Of solemn thought enthusiastic heights E'en these infuse. But what of vast in these ? Nothing : or we must own the skies forgot. Much less in art. Vain Art! thou pigmy power! How dost thou swell and strut with human pride, To show thy littleness! What childish toys Thy watery columns squirted to the clouds ! Thy bason'd rivers, and imprison'd seas ! Thy mountains moulded into forms of men ! Thy hundred-gated capitals ! or those Where three days' travel left us much to ride ; Gazing on miracles by mortals wrought, Arches triumphal, theatres immense. Or nodding gardens pendent in mid air ! Or temples proud to meet their gods half way: Yet these affect us in no common kind.

What then the force of such superior scenes ? Enter a temple, it will strike an awe: What awe from this the Derry has built ! A good man seen, though silent, counsel gives; The touch'd spectator wishes to be wise: In a bright mirror his own hands have made, Here we see something like the face of Gon. Seems it not then enough to say, Lorexzo, To man abandon'd, "Hast thou seen the skies?"

And yet, so thwarted nature's kind design By daring man, he makes her sacred awe (That guard from ill) his shelter, his temptation To more than common guilt, and quite inverts Celestial art's intent. The trembling stars See crimes gigantic, stalking through the gloom With front erect, that hide their head by day, And making night still darker by their deeds. Slumb'ring in covert, till the shades descend. Rapine, and murder, link'd, now prowl for prey. The miser earths his treasure : and the thief, Watching the mole, half beggars him ere morn. Now plots and foul conspiracies awake ; And, muffling up their horrors from the moon, Havoc and devastation they prepare, And kingdoms tott'ring in the field of blood. Now sons of riot in mid-revel rage. What shall I do ? suppress it, or proclaim ? Why sleeps the thunder ? Now, LORENZO ! now. His best friend's couch the rank adulterer Ascends secure ; and laughs at gods and men. Preposterous madmen, void of fear or shame, Lay their crimes bare to those chaste eyes of heaven; Yet shrink and shudder at a mortal's sight, Were moon and stars for villains only made; To guide, yet screen them, with tenebrious light? No; they were made to fashion the sublime Of human hearts, and wiser make the wise.

Those ends were answer'd once; when mortals Of stronger wing, of aquiline ascent, [lived In theory sublime. Oh, how unlike

NIGHT IX.

These vermin of the night, this moment sung. Who crawl on earth, and on her venous feed ! Those ancient sages, human stars! They met Their brothers of the skies, at midnight hour : Their counsel ask'd : and, what they ask'd obey'd. The Stagyrite, and PLATO, he who drank The poison'd bowl, and he of Tusculum. With him of Corduba, (immortal names !) In these unbounded and Elysian walks, An area fit for gods and godlike men. They took their nightly rounds, through radiant paths By seraphs trod: instructed, chiefly, thus, To tread in their bright footsteps here below ; To walk in worth still brighter than the skies. There they contracted their contempt of earth : Of hopes eternal kindled there the fire : There, as in near approach, they glow'd, and grew (Great visitants !) more intimate with Gop, More worth to men, more joyous to themselves. Through various virtues, they, with ardour, ran The zodiac of their learn'd, illustrious lives.

In Christian hearts. Oh for a Pagan zeal ! A needful, but opprobious prayer ! As much Our ardour less as greater is our light. How monstrous this in morals ! Scarce more strange Would this phenomenon in nature strike. A sun that froze us; or a star that warm'd.

What taught these heroes of the moral world ? To these thou givest thy praise, give credit too. These doctors ne'er were pension'd to deceive thee; And Pagan tutors are thy taste.—They taught That aurow views betray to misery : That wise it is to comprehend the whole : That virtue rose from nature : ponder'd well The single base of virtue built to heaven : That Gop and nature our attention claim : That nature is the glass reflecting Gop, As, by the sea, reflected, is the sun, Too glorions to be gazed on in his sphere : That minimortal loves immortal alms :

That boundless mind affects a boundless space : That vast surveys and the sublime of things, The soul assimilate, and make her great: That therefore heaven her glories, as a fund Of inspiration, thus spreads out to man. Such are their doctrines; such the night inspired. And what more true ? what truth of greater weight? The soul of man was made to walk the skies : Delightful outlet of her prison here ! There, disencumber'd from her chains, the ties Of toys terrestrial, she can rove at large: There freely can respire, dilate, extend, In full proportion let loose all her powers; And, undeluded, grasp at something great. Nor, as a stranger, does she wander there; But, wonderful herself, through wonders strays; Contemplating their grandeur, finds her own; Dives deep in their economy divine, Sits high in judgment on their various laws. And, like a master, judges not amiss, Hence, greatly pleased and justly proud, the soul Grows conscious of her birth celestial; breathes More life, more vigour in her native air, And feels herself at home among the stars ; And, feeling, emulates her country's praise. What call we then the firmanent, LORENZO ?--As earth the body, since the skies sustain The soul with food, that gives immortal life, Call it. The noble pasture of the mind,

Which there expandets, strengthens, and exults, And riots through the luxuries of thought. Call it. The garden of the DEITY, Blossom'd with stars, redundant in the growth Of fmit ambrosial; moral fmit to man.

Call it, The breastplate of the true High-priest, Ardent with genes oracular, that give, In points of highest moment, right response; And ill neglected, if we prize our peace.

Thus have we found a true astrology; Thus have we found a new and noble sense,

NIGHT IX

In which alone stars govern human fates. Oh that the stars (as some have feign'd) let fall Bloodshed and havoc on embattled realms And rescued monarchs from so black a guilt! BOURBON ! this wish how generous in a foe ! Wouldst thou be great, wouldst thou become a god, And stick thy deathless name among the stars, For mighty conquests on a needle's point? Instead of forging chains for foreigners, Bastile thy tutor. Grandeur all thy aim ? As yet thou know'st not what it is; how great. How glorious, then appears the mind of man, When in it all the stars and planets roll! And what it seems, it is : great objects make Great minds, enlarging as their views enlarge : Those still more godlike, as these more divine.

And more divine than these thou canst not see. Dazzled, o'erpower'd, with the delicious draught Of miscellaneous splendors, how I reel From thought to thought, inebriate, without end ! An Eden this ! a Paradise unlost ! I meet the DErry in every view, And tremble at my nakedness before him ! Oh that I could but reach the tree of life ! For here it grows, unguarded from our taste ; No flaming sword denies our entrance here : No duan but gather, he might live for ever.

LORENZO, nuch of moral hast thou seen. Of curious arts art thon more fond? Then mark The mathematic glories of the skies, In number, weight, and measure, all ordain'd. LORENZO'S boasted builders, chance, and fate, Are left to finish his aerial towers: Wisdom and choice, their well known characters Here deep impress; and claim if for their own. Though splendid all, no splendour void of use; Use rivals beauty; art contends with power; No wanton waste amid effuse expanse; The great Economism adjusting all To prudent pomp, magnificently wise.

How rich the prospect! and for ever new ! And newest to the man that views it most; For newer still in infinite succeeds. Then, these aerial racers, Oh, how swift ! How the shaft loiters from the strongest string ! Spirit alone can distance the career. Orb above orb ascending without end ! Circle in circle, without end, enclosed ! Wheel within wheel: EZEKIEL, like to thine ! Like thine it seems a vision or a dream ; Though seen, we labor to believe it true ! What involution ! what extent ! what swarms Of worlds that laugh at earth ! immensely great Immensely distant from each other's spheres ! What then the wondrous space through which they At once it quite ingulfs all human thought; [roll ? 'Tis comprehension's absolute defeat.

Nor think thou seest a wild disorder here : Through this illustrious chaos to the signt Arrangement neat and chastest order reign. The path prescribed inviolably kept, Upbraids the lawless sallies of mankind. Worlds, ever thwarting, never interfere. What knots are tied ! how soon are they dissolved And set the seeming married planets free ! They rove for ever, without error rove; Confusion unconfused ! nor less admire This tumult untumultuous; all on wing ! In motion, all ! yet what profound repose ! What fervid action, yet no noise ! as awed To silence, by the presence of their LORD ; Or hush'd by His command, in love to man. And bid let fall soft beams on human rest, Restless themselves. On yon cerulean plain, In exultation to their Gop, and thine, They dance, they sing eternal jubilee. Eternal celebration of His praise. But, since their song arrives not at our ear, Their dance perplex'd exhibits to the sight Fair hierogliphic of his peerless power. Mark how the labyrinthian turns they take,

The circles intricate, and mystic maze, Weave the grand cipher of Omnipotence; To gods, how great! how legible to man!

Leaves so much wonder greater wonder still ? Where are the pillars that support the skies ? What more than Atlantean shoulder props Th' incumbent load ? What more, what strange art, In fluid air these ponderous orbs sustains ? Who would not think them hung in golden chains ? And so they are; in the high will of Heaven, Which fixes all; makes adamant of air, Or noir of adamant; makes all of nought, Or pought of all; if such the drend decree,

Imagine from their deep foundations torn The most gigantic sons of earth, the broad And tow'ring Aips, all toss'd into the sea; And, light as down, or volatile as air, Their bulks enormous, dencing on the waves, In time and measure exquisite; while all The winds, in emulation of the spheres, Tune their sonorous instruments aloft, The concert swell, and animate the ball; Would this appear amazing ? What, then, worlds, In a far thinner element sustain'd. And acting the same part, with greater skill, More rapid movement, and for noblest ends ?

More obvious ends to pass,—are not these stars The seats majestic, proud imperial thrones, On which angelic delegates of heaven At certain periods, as the SOVEREIGN nods, Discharge high trusts of vengeance or of love; To clothe, in outward grandeur, grand design, And acts most solemn still more solemnize?

Ye citizens of air ! what ardent thanks, What full effusion of the grateful heart, Is due from man, indulged in such a sight ! A sight so noble ! and a sight so kind ! It drops new truths at every new survey ! Feels not LORENZO something stir within, That sweeps away all period ? As these spheres

Measure duration, they no less inspire The godlike hope of ages without end. The boundless space, through which these rovers take Their restless roam, suggests the sister thought Of boundless time. Thus, by kind nature's skill To man unlabor'd, that important guest, Eternity, finds entrance at the sight ; And an eternity, for man ordain'd, Or these his destined midnight counsellors. The stars had never whisper'd it to man. Nature informs, but ne'er insults her sons. Could she then kindle the most ardent wish To disappoint it ?- That is blasphemy. Thus, of thy creed a second article, Momentons as th' existence of a Gon, Is found (as I conceive) where rarely sought; And thou mayst read thy soul immortal here. Here, then, LORENZO, on these glories dwell; Nor want the gilt, illuminated roof, That calls the wretched gay to dark delights. Assemblies ! this is one divinely bright ; Here, unendanger'd in health, wealth, or fame, Range through the fairest, and the Sultan scorn. He, wise as thou, no crescent holds so fair, As that which on his turban awes a world ; And thinks the moon is proud to copy him. Look on her, and gain more than worlds can give. A mind superior to the charms of power. Thou muffled in delusions of this life ! Can vonder moon turn ocean in his bed. From side to side, in constant ebb and flow. And purify from stench his watery realms? And fails her moral influence ? wants she power To turn LORENZO's stubborn tide of thought From stagnating on earth's infected shore, And purge from nuisance his corrupted heart? Fails her attraction when it draws to heaven ? Nay, and to what thou valuest more, earth's joy ? Minds elevate, and panting for unseen, And defecate from sense, alone obtain,

Full relish of existence undeflower'd. The life of life, the zest of worldly bliss. All else on earth amounts-to what? To this: "Bad to be suffer'd: blessings to be left:" Earth's richest inventory boasts no more. Of higher scenes be then the call obey'd. Oh, let me gaze !- Of gazing there's no end. Oh, let me think ! Thought too is wilder'd here; In midway flight imagination tires ; Yet soon reprunes her wing to soar anew. Her point unable to forbear or gain ; So great the pleasure ! so profound the plan ! A banquet this where men and angels meet. Eat the same manna, mingle earth and heaven. How distant some of these nocturnal suns ! So distant (says the sage,) 'twere not absurd To doubt, if beams, set out at nature's birth. Are yet arrived at this so foreign world : Though nothing half so rapid as their flight: An eye of awe and wonder let me roll, And roll for ever: who can satiate sight In such a scene ? in such an ocean wide Of deep astonishment? where depth, height, breadth Are lost in their extremes : and where, to count The thick-sown glories in this field of fire, Perhaps a seraph's computation fails. Now go, ambition ! boast thy boundless might In conquest, o'er the tenth part of a grain. And yet LORENZO calls for miracles,

And yet Lorenza to the initial of initial sets, To give his tottering faith a solid base. Why call for less than is already thine? Thou art no novice in theology ; What is a miracle?—"Tis a reproach, 'Tis an implicit satire on mankind ; And while it satisfies, it censures too. To common sense great nature's course proclaims A Derry: when mankind falls asleep, A miracle is sent, as an alarm; To wake the world, and prove Him o'er again, By recent argument, but not more strong.

Say, which imports more plentitude of power. Or nature's laws to fix or to repeal ? To make a sun, or stop his mid career ? To countermand his orders, or send back The flaming courier to the frighted east, Warm'd and astonish'd at his evening ray? Or bid the moon, as with her journey tired, On Ajalon's soft flowery vale repose ? Great things are these; still greater, to create. From ADAM's bower look down through the whole Of miracles; resistless is their power ? Itrain They do not, cannot more amaze the mind Than this, call'd unmiraculous survey. If duly weigh'd, if rationally seen, If seen with human eyes. The brute, indeed, Sees nought but spangles here : the fool, no more. Sayst thou, "The course of nature governs all ?" The course of nature is the art of Gop. The miracles thou call'st for this attest: For say, could nature nature's course control?

But, miracles apart, who sees him not, Nature's controller, author, guide, and end ? Who turns his eye on nature's midnight face. But must inquire-" What hand behind the scene. What arm almighty put these wheeling globes In motion, and wound up the vast machine ? Who rounded in his palm these spacious orbs ? Who bowl'd them flaming through the dark profound, Numerous as glittering genis of morning dew, Or sparks from populous cities in a blaze. And set the bosom of old night on fire ? Peopled her desert, and made horror smile ;" Or, if the military style delights thee (man_i) (For stars have fought their battles, leagued with "Who marshals this bright host? enrolls their names?

Appoints ther posts, their marches, and returns, Punctual at stated periods ? who disbands These veteran troops, their final duty done, If e'er disbanded ?"—He whose potent word,

NIGHT IX.

Like the loud trampet, levied first their powers In night's inglorious empire, where they slept In beds of darkness; arm'd them with fierce flames, Arranged, and disciplined, and clothed in gold; And call'd them out of chaos to the field, Where now they war with vice and unbelief. Oh, let us join this army! Joining these Will give us hearts intrepid at that hour When brighter flames shall cut a darker night! When these strong demonstrations of a Goo Shall hide their heads, or tumble from their spheres, And one eternal curtain cover all!

Struck at that thought, as new awaked, I lift A more enlighten'd eye, and read the stars, To man still more propitious ; and their aid (Though guiltless of idolatry) implore, Nor longer rob them of their noblest name. O ye dividers of my time ! ye bright Accountants of my days, and months and years, In your fair calendar distinctly mark'd ! Since that authentic, radiant register, Though man inspects it not, stands good against him ; Since you, and years roll on, though man stands still : Teach me my days to number, and apply My trembling heart to wisdom; now beyond All shadow of excuse for fooling on. Age smooths our path to prudence ; sweeps aside The snares keen appetite, and passion, spread To catch stray souls : and woe to that gray head Whose folly would undo what age has done ! Aid then, aid, all ye stars !---Much rather, Thou, Great ARTIST! THOU, whose finger set aright This exquisite machine, with all its wheels, Though intervolved, exact, and pointing out Life's rapid and irrevocable flight, With such an index fair as none can miss Who lifts an eye, dread DEITY ! to read The tacit doctrine of thy works; to see Things as they are, unalter'd, through the glass Of worldly wishes. Time, Eternity !

("Tis these mismeasured ruin all markind,) Set them before me; let me lay them both In equal scale, and learn their various weight. Let time appear a moment, as it is; And let eternity's full orb, at once, Turn on my soul, and strike it into heaven. When shall I see far more than charms me now ? Gaze on creation's model in Thy breast Unveil'd, nor wonder at the transcript more ? When this vile, foreign dust, which smothers all That travels earth's deep vale, shall I shake off ? When shall my soul her incarnation quit, And, re-adopted to thy blest embrace, Obtain her apocheosis in Three ?

Dost think, LORENZO, this is wandering wide ? No, 'tis directly striking at the mark : To wake thy dead dovotion was my point;* And how I bless night's consecrating shades, Which to a temple turn a universe : Fill us with great ideas full of heaven. And antidote the pestilential earth ! In every storm that either frowns or falls. What an asylum has the soul in prayer ! And what a fane is this, in which to pray ! And what a Gop must dwell in such a fane ! Oh what a genius must inform the skies ! And is LORENZO's salamander heart Cold, and untouch'd, amid these sacred fires ? O ye nocturnal sparks ! ye glowing embers, [more, On heaven's broad hearth! who burn, or burn no Who blaze, or die, as great JEHOVAH's breath Or blows you or forbears ; assist my song ; Pour your whole influence ; exorcise his heart, So long possess'd ; and bring him back to man.

And is LORENZO a demurrer still ? Pride in thy parts provokes thee to contest Truths which, contested, put thy parts to shame. Nor shame they more LORENZO's head than heart :

NIGHT IX.

A faithless heart, how despicably small ! Too strait aught great or generous to receive ! Fill'd with an atom ! fill'd and foul'd with self ! And self mistaken; self, that lasts an hour! Instincts and passions, of the nobler kind, Lie suffocated there: or they alone, Reason apart, would wake high hope; and open, To ravish'd thought, that intellectual sphere, Where order, wisdom goodness, providence, Their endless miracles of love display, And promise all the truly great desire. The mind that would be happy must be great; Great in its wishes ; great in its surveys. Extended views a narrow mind extend; Push out its corrugate, expansive make, Which, ere long, more than planets shall embrace. A man of compass makes a man of worth: Divine contemplate, and become divine.

As man was made for glory and for bliss, All littleness is an approach to wee : Open thy bosom, set thy wishes wide, And let in manhood ; let in happiness ; Admit the boundless theatre of thought From nothing up to Gop ; which makes a man. Take Gop from nature, nothing great is left; Man's mind is in a pit, and nothing sees : Man's heart is in a jakes, and loves the mire. Emerge from thy profound : erect thine eye ; See thy distress ! How close art thou besieged ! Besieged by nature, the prond sceptic's foe ! Enclosed by these innumerable worlds, Sparkling conviction on the darkest mind. As in a golden net of Providence. How art thou caught, sure captive of belief! From this thy bless'd captivity, what art, What blasphemy to reason, sets thee free ! This scene is Heaven's indulgent violence. Canst thou bear up against this tide of glory ? What is earth, bosom'd in these ambient orbs, But faith in Gop, imposed and press'd on man ?

Dar'st thou still litigate thy desperate cause, Spite of the e numerous, awful witnesses, And doubt the deposition of the skies ? Oh how laborious is thy way to ruin !

Laborious ! 'tis impracticable quite : To sink beyond a doubt, in this debate, With all his weight of wisdom and of will, And crime flagitious, I defy a fool. Some wish they did; but no man disbelieves. Gon is a spirit; spirit cannot strike These gross material organs: Gop by man As much is seen as man a Gop can see. In these astonishing exploits of power, What order, beauty, motion, distance, size ! Concertion of design, how exquisite ! How complicate in their divine police ! Apt means ! great ends ! consent to general good ! Each attribute of these material gods, So long (and that with specious pleas) adored. A separate conquest gains o'er rebel thought: And leads in triumph the whole mind of man.

LORENZO, this may seem harangue to thee; Such all is apt to seem, that thwarts our will. And dost thou then demand a simple proof Of this great master-moral of the skies. Unskill'd or disinclined to read it there ? Since 'tis the basis, and all drops without it. Take it, in one compact, unbroken chain. Such proof insists on an attentive ear; "Twill not make one amid a mob of thoughts, And, for thy notice, struggle with the world. Retire ;- the world shut out ;- thy thoughts call Imagination's airy wing repress :--[home ;--Lock up thy senses ;-let no passion stir :-Wake all to reason ;-let her reign alone ;-Then, in thy soul's deep silence, and the depth Of nature's silence, midnight, thus inquire, As I have done; and shall inquire no more. In nature's channel, thus the questions run :--

"What am I ? and from whence ?- I nothing know,

But that I am; and, since I am, conclude Something eternal ; had there e'er been nought. Nought still had been : eternal there must be .--But what eternal ?--why not human race ? And ADAM's ancestors without an end ?-That's hard to be conceived ; since every link Of that long-chain'd succession is so frail: Can every part depend, and not the whole ? Yet grant it true ; new difficulties rise ; I'm still quite out at sea; nor see the shore. Whence earth, and these bright orbs ?-eternal too ? Grant matter was eternal; still these orbs Would want some other father ;--much design Is seen in all their motions, all their makes: Design implies intelligence and art: That can't be from themselves-or man : that art Man scarce can comprehend, could man bestow ? And nothing greater, yet allow'd, than man .---Who motion, foreign to the smallest grain, Shot through vast masses of enormous weight? Who bid brute matter's restive lump assume Such various forms, and gave it wings to fly ? Has matter innate motion ? Then each atom, Asserting its indisputable right To dance, would form a universe of dust. Has matter none ? Then whence these glorious forms And boundless flights, from shapeless, and reposed ? Has matter more than motion ? Has it thought. Judgment, and genius ? Is it deeply learn'd In mathematics ? has it framed such laws. Which, but to guess, a NEWTON made immortal ?-If so, how each sage atom laughs at me. Who think a clod inferior to a man ! If art to form, and counsel to conduct, And that with greater far than human skill, Resides not in each block ;- a GODHEAD reigns,-Grant, then, invisible, eternal Mind ; That granted, all is solved. But, granting that, Draw I not o'er me a still darker cloud ? Grant I not that which I can ne'er conceive ?

A being without origin or end !--Hail, human liberty! There is no Gop-Yet why? On either scheme that knot subsists; Subsist it must, in Gop, or human race; If in the last, how many knots beside, Indissoluble all ?--Why choose it there, Where, chosen, still subsist ten thousand more ? Reject it, where, that chosen, all the rest Dispersed, leave reason's whole horizon clear? This is not reason's dictate : reason says, Close with the side where one grain turns the scale. What vast preponderance is here! Can reason With louder voice exclaim-Believe a Gop ? And reason heard is the sole mark of man. What things impossible must man think true, On any other system ! and how strange To disbelieve, through more credulity !"

If, in this chain, LORENZO finds no flaw, Let it for ever bind him to belief. And where's the link, in which a flaw he finds ? And, if a Gop there is, that Gop how great! How great that Power whose providential care Through these bright orbs' dark centres darts a ray ! Of nature universal threads the whole ! And hangs creation, like a precious gem, Though little, on the footstool of his throne !

That little gen, how large ! A weight let fall From a fix'd star, in ages can it reach This distant earth ? Say, then, LOREXZO ! where, Where ends this mighty building ? Where begin The suburbs of creation ? Where the wall, Whose battlements look o'er into the vale Of non-existence ? Nothing's strange abode ! Say, at what point of space Jenovan dropp'd His slackened line, and laid his balance by ; Weigh'd worlds, and measured infinite no more ? Where rears his terminating pillar high Its extramundane head ? and says, to gods, In characters illustrious as the sun,

I stand, the plan's proud period; I pronounce The work accomplish'd; the creation closed: Shout, all ye gods ! nor shout, ye gods alone; Of all that lives, or if devoid of life, That rests, or rolls, ye heights and depths, resound! Resound ! resound ! ye depths and heights, resound!

Hard are those questions ?-- Answer harder still. Is this the sole exploit, the single birth, The solitary son of Power Divine ? Or has th' Almighty Father, with a breath, Impregnated the womb of distant space ? Has He not bid, in various provinces. Brother creations the dark bowels burst Of night primeval ; barren, now, more ? And He the central sun, transpiercing all Those giant generations which disport And dance, as motes, in his meridian ray; That ray withdrawn, benighted or absorbed, In that abyss of horror, whence they sprung: While Chaos triumphs, repossess'd of all Rival creation ravish'd from his throne ? Chaos! of nature both the womb and grave !

Think'st thou my scheme, LORENZO, spreads too Is this extravagant ?- No; this is just; [wide ? Just in conjecture, though 'twere false in fact. If 'tis an error, 'tis an error sprung From noble root, high thought of the Most High. But wherefore error ? Who can prove it such ? He that can set Omnipotence a bound. Can man conceive beyond what Gop can do? Nothing, but quite impossible, is hard. He summons into being, with like ease, A whole creation, and a single grain, Speaks he the word ? a thousand worlds are born ! A thousand worlds ? there's space for millions more; And in what space can his great fiat fail ? Condemn me not, cold critic ! but indulge The warm imagination : why condemn ? Why not indulge such thoughts as swell our hearts

With fuller admiration of that Power Who gives our hearts with such high thoughts to Why not indulge in his augmented praise ? [swell ? Darts not His glory a still brighter ray, The less is lett to Chaos and the realms Of hideous Night, where fancy strays aghast; And, though most talkative, makes no report ?

Still seems my thought enormous ? Think again ; Experience' self shall aid thy lame belief. Glasses, (that revelation to the sight !) Have they not led us deep in the disclose Of fine-spun nature, exquisitely small; And, though demonstrated, still ill conceived ? If then, on the reverse, the mind would mount In magnitude, what mind can mount too far, To keep the balance, and creation poise ? Defect alone can err on such a theme : What is too great, if we the cause survey? Stupendous ARCHITECT! Thou, Thou art all ! My soul flies up and down in thoughts of Thee, And finds herself but at the centre still ! I AM, thy name ! Existence all thine own ! Creation's nothing ; flatter'd much, if styled "The thin, the fleeting atmosphere of Gop."

Oh, for the voice-of what? of whom ?--What Can answer to my wants, in such ascent [voice As dares to deem one universe too small ? Tell me, LORENZO ! (for now fancy glows, Fired in the vortex of Almighty Power) Is not this home creation, in the map Of universal nature, as a speck, Like fair BRITANNIA in our little ball ! Exceeding fair, and glorious, for its size, But elsewhere far outmeasured, far outshone ? In fancy (for the fact beyond us lies) Canst thou not figure it, an isle almost Too small for notice, in the vast of being; Sever'd by mighty seas of unbuilt space From other realms; from ample continents Of higher life, where nobler natives dwell;

NIGHT IX.

Less northern, less' remote from DEITY, Glowing beneath the line of the SUPREME; Where souls in excellence make haste, put forth Luxuriant growths; nor the late autumn wait Of human worth, but ripen soon to gods ? Yet why drown fancy in such depths as these ? Return, presumptuous rover ! and confess The bounds of man; nor blame them as too small. Enjoy we not full scope in what is seen? Full ample the dominions of the sun ! Full glorious to behold ! How far, how wide The matchless monarch, from his flaming throne, Lavish of lustre, throws his beams about him, Further and faster than a thought can fly, And feeds his planets with eternal fires ! This Heliopolis, by greater far Than the proud tyrant of the Nile, was built; And He alone who built it can destroy. Beyond this city, why strays human thought? One wonderful, enough for man to know ! One infinite, enough for man to range ! One firmament, enough for man to read ! Oh, what voluminous instruction here ! What page of wisdom is denied him ? None; If learning his chief lesson makes him wise. Nor is instruction here our only gain : There dwells a noble pathos in the skies, Which warms our passions, proselvtes our hearts. How eloquently shines the glowing pole ! With what authority it gives its charge, Remonstrating great truths in style sublime. Though silent, loud ! heard earth around : above The planets heard ; and not unheard in hell : Hell has her wonder, though too proud to praise. Is earth then more infernal ? Has she those Who neither praise (LORENZO !) nor admire ?

LORENZO'S admiration, pre-engaged, Ne'er ask'd the moon one question; never held Least correspondence with a single star; Ne'er rear'd an altar to the queen of heaven

Walking in brightness ; or her train adored. Their sublunary rivals have long since Engross'd his whole devotion : stars malign, Which made their fond astronomer run mad, Darken his intellect, corrupt his heart; Cause him to sacrifice his fame and peace To momentary madness, call'd delight : Idolater, more gross than ever kiss'd The lifted hand to LUNA, or pour'd out The blood to JovE !-- O THOU, to whom belongs All sacrifice ! O thou great Jove unfeign'd ! Divine Instructor ! thy first volume, this, For man's perusal: all in capitals ! In moon and stars (heaven's golden alphabet !) Emblazed to seize the sight ! who runs may read; Who reads can understand. 'Tis unconfined To Christian land or Jewry; fairly writ In language universal to mankind: A language lofty to the learn'd; yet plain To those that feed the flock, or guide the plough, Or, from its husk, strike out the bounding grain. A language, worthy the Great Mind that speaks Preface and comment to the sacred page ! Which oft refers its reader to the skies, As presupposing his first lesson there, And Scripture 'self a fragment, that unread. Stupendous book of wisdom to the wise ! Stupendous book ! and open'd, Night ! by thee.

By thee much open'd, I confess. O Night! Yet more I wish; but how shall I prevail ? Say, gentle Night! whose modest, maiden beams Give us a new creation, and present The world's great picture soften'd to the sight; Nay, kinder far, far more indulgent still, Say thou, whose mild dominion's silver key Unlocks our hemisphere, and sets to view Worlds beyond number; worlds conceal'd by day, Behind the proud and envious/star of noon! Canst thou not draw a deeper scene?—and show The might Porustrare, to whom belong

This rich regalia, pompously display'd To kindle that high hope ? Like him of Uz. I gaze around; I search on every side-Oh, for a glimpse of HIM my soul adores ! As the chased hart, amid the desert waste, Pants for the living stream: for HIM who made her, So pants the thirsty soul, amid the blank Of sublunary joys. Say, goddess ! where ? [throne? Where blazes his bright court? Where burns his Thou know'st; for thou art near Him; by thee, His great pavilion, sacred fame reports fround The sable curtain drawn. If not, can none Of thy fair daughter-train, so swift of wing, Who travel far, discover where he dwells ? A star His dwelling pointed out below. Ye Pleiades ! Arcturus ! Mazaroth ! And thou, Orion ! of still keener eye ! Say ye, who guide the wilder'd in the waves, And bring them out of tempest into port ! On which hand must I bend my course to find Him ? These courtiers keep the secret of their King : I wake whole nights, in vain, to steal it from them. I wake ; and, waking, climb Night's radiant scale,

From sphere to sphere ; the steps by nature set For man's ascent; at once to tempt and aid; To tempt his eye, and aid his towering thought; Till it arrives at the great goal of all. In ardent contemplation's rapid car, From earth, as from my barrier, I set out. How swift I mount ! Diminish'd earth recedes : I pass the moon : and from her further side, Pierce heaven's blue curtain ; strike into remote ; Where, with his lifted tube, the subtle sage His artificial, airy journey takes, And to celestial lengthens human sight. I pause at every planet on my road, And ask for HIM who gives their orbs to roll, Their foreheads fair to shine. From SATURN's ring, In which, of earth's an army might be lost, With the bold comet, take my bolder flight

Amid those sovereign glories of the skies, Of independent, native lustre proud; The soals of systems! and the lords of life, Through their wide empires !---What behold I now? A wilderness of wonders burning round; Where larger suns Inhabit higher spheres; Perhaps the villas of descending gods! Nor halt I here; my toil is but begun : This but the threshold of the DEITY; Or, for beneath it, I am grow'ling still. Nor is it strange; I built on a mistake! The grandeur of his works, whence folly sought For aid to reason, sets his glory higher; Who built thus high for worms, (mere worms to Him,) Oh where, LOREXSC! must the BUILDER dwell?

Pause, then; and, for a moment, here respire-If human thought can keep its station here. [thou Where am 1 ?--Where is earth ?--Nay, where at O sun ?--Is the sun turn'd tecluse ?--And are His boasted expeditions short to mine ? To mine, how short ? On nature's Alps I stand, And see a thousand firmaments beneath ? A thousand systems, as a thousand grains ! So much a stranger, and so late arrived, How can man's curious spirit not inquire, What are the natives of this world sublime, Of this so foreign, unterrestial sphere, Where mortal, untranslated, never stray'd ?

"O ye, as distant from my little home As swiftest sunbeams in an age can fly ! Far from my native element I roam, In quest of new and wonderful, to man. What province this, of His immense domain, What province this, of His immense domain, What province this, of His immense domain, Ye borderers on the casat of hilss ! what are you ? A colony from heaven ? or, only raised, By frequent visit from heaven's neighboring realms, To secondary gods, and half divine ? Whate'er your nature, this is past dispute, Far other life you live, far other tongue

You talk, far other thought, perhaps, you think, Than man. How various are the works of Gop! But say, What thought ? Is reason here enthroned And absolute ? or sense in arms against her ? Have you two lights ? or need you no reveal'd ? Enjoy your happy realms their golden age ? And had your Eden an abstemious EvE ? Our Eve's fair daughters prove their pedigree, And ask their ADAMS-' Who would not be wise ?' Or, if your mother fell, are you redeem'd ? And if redeem'd-is your Redeemer scorn'd ? Is this your final residence ? If not. Change you your scene, translated? or by death? And if by death ; what death ? Know you disease ? Or horrid war ? with war, this fatal hour, EUROPA groans (so call we a small field, Where kings run mad.) In our world, death deputes Intemperance to do the work of age ; And, hanging up the quiver nature gave him. As slow of execution, for despatch Sends forth imperial butchers ; bids them slav Their sheep, (the silly sheep they fleeced before,) And toss him twice ten thousand at a meal. Sit all your executioners on thrones ? With you, can rage for plunder make a god ? And bloodshed wash out every other stain ? But you, perhaps, can't bleed : from matter gross Your spirits clean, are delicately clad In fine-spun ether, privileged to soar Unloaded, uninfected; how unlike The lot of man! how few of human race By their own mud unmurder'd! How we wage Self-war eternal !- Is your painful day Of hardy conflict o'er ? or, are you still Raw candidates at school ? And have you those Who disaffect reversions, as with us ?-But what are we? You never heard of man; Or earth, the Bedlam of the universe ! Where reason (undiseased with you) runs mad, And nurses folly's children as her own :

Fond of the foulest. In the sacred mount Of holiness, where reason is pronounced Infallible, and thunders like a god: E'en there, by saints, the demons are outdone : What these think wrong our saints refine to right; And kindly teach dull hell her own black arts : SATAN, instructed, o'er their morals smiles. But this, how strange to you who know not man ! Has the least rumor of our race arrived ? Call'd here ELIJAH in his flaming car ? Pass'd by you the good ENOCH, on his road To those fair fields, whence LUCIFER was hurl'd; Who brush'd, perhaps, your sphere in his descent, Stain'd your pure crystal ether, or let fall A short eclipse from his portentous shade ? Oh, that that fiend had lodged on some broad orb Athwart his way; nor reach'd his present home, Then blacken'd earth with footsteps foul'd in hell, Nor wash'd in ocean, as from Rome he pass'd To BRITAIN's isle; too, too conspicuous there !"

But this is all digression. Where is He, That o'er heaven's battlements the felon hurl'd To groans, and chains, and darkness ? Where is He. Who sees creation's summit in a vale ? He, whom, while man is man, he can't but seek ; And if he finds, commences more than man ? Oh, for a telescope his throne to reach ! Tell me, ye learn'd on earth, or bless'd above ! Ye searching, ye Newtonian angels-tell, Where, your great MASTER's orb? his planets, where? Those conscious satellites, those morning stars, First-born of DEITY ? from central love, By veneration most profound, thrown off: By sweet attraction no less strongly drawn : Awed and yet raptured ; raptured yet serene ; Past thought illustrious, but with borrow'd beams ; In still approaching circles, still remote, Revolving round the sun's eternal SIRE ? Or sent, in lines direct, on embassles 'To nations-in what latitude ?-Beyond

Terrestrial thought's horizon !—And on what High errands sent !—Here human effort ends ; And leaves me still a stranger to his throne.

Full well it might ! I quite mistook my road : Born in an age more curious than devout: More fond to fix the place of heaven, or hell, Than studious this to shun, or that secure. 'Tis not the curious, but the pious path, That leads me to my point : LORENZO ! know. Without or star or angel for their guide, Who worship Gop shall find him. Humble love. And not proud reason, keeps the door of heaven ; Love, finds admission where proud science fails. Man's science is the culture of his heart; And not to lose his plummet in the depths Of nature, or the more profound of Gop. Either to know, is an attempt that sets The wisest on a level with the fool. To fathom nature, (ill attempted here !) Past doubt, is deep philosophy above : Higher degrees in bliss archangels take. As deeper learn'd: the deepest, learning still. For, what a thunder of Omnipotence (So might I dare to speak) is seen in all ! In man! in earth! in more amazing skies! Teaching this lesson, pride is loath to learn-"Not deeply to discern, not much to know; Mankind was born to wonder and adore."

And is there cause for higher wonder still, Than that which struck us from our past surveys ? Yes; and for deeper adoration too. From my late airy travel unconfined, Have I learn'd nothing '-Yes, LORENZO; this--Each of these stars is a religious house; I saw their altars smoke, their incense rise; And heard hosannas ring through every sphere, A seminary fraught with future gods. Nature, all o'er is consecrated ground, Teeming with growths immortal and divine. The great PROFETERO's all-bounteous hand

Leaves nothing waste ; but sows these fiery fields With seeds of reason, which to virtue rise Beneath his genial ray : and, if escaped The pestilential blasts of stubborn will, When grown mature, are gather'd for the skies. And is devotion thought too much on earth, When beings, so superior, homage boast, And triumph in prostration to The THRONE ? But wherefore more of planets or of stars ? Ethereal journeys, and, discover'd there, Ten thousand worlds, ten thousand ways devout, All nature sending incense to the Throne, Except the bold LORENZOS of our sphere ? Opening the solemn sources of my soul, Since I have pour'd, like feign'd ERIDANUS, My flowing numbers o'er the flaming skies. Nor see, of fancy, or of fact what more Invites the muse .- Here turn we, and review Our past nocturnal lanscape wide :- then say. Say then, LORENZO ! with what burst of heart, The whole, at once, revolving in his thought, Must man exclaim, adoring and aghast ? "Oh what a root! Oh what a branch, is here ! Oh what a father ! what a family ! Worlds ! systems ! and creations !- and creations In one agglomerated cluster, hung. Great Vine !* on Thee, on Thee the cluster hangs: The filial cluster ! infinitely spread In glowing globes, with various being fraught: And drinks (nectarious draught !) immortal life. Or, shall I say, (for who can say enough ?) A constellation of ten thousand gems, (And, Oh, of what dimensions ! of what weight !) Set in one signet, flames on the right hand Of Majesty Divine ! the blazing seal That deeply stamps, on all created mind, Indelible, his sovereign attributes, Omnipotence and love ! that, passing bound ;

* John xv. 1.

And this, surpassing that. Nor stop we here, For want of power in Goo, but thought in man. E'en this acknowledged leaves us still in debt: If greuter aught, that greater is all thine, Dread Sirks 'L-Accept this miniature of Thee; And pardon an attempt from mortal thought, In which archangels might have fail'd, umblam'd."

How such ideas of th⁷ ALNIGHTY's power, And such ideas of th' ALNIGHTY's plan, (Ideas not absurd,) distend the thought Of feeble mortals! Nor of them alone! The fulness of the DETTY breaks forth In inconceivables to men, and gods. Think, then, Oh think! nor ever drop the thought How low must man descend, when gods adore! Have 1 not, then, accomplish'd my prond boast ? Did I not tell thee, "we would mount, LORENZO! And kindle our devotion at the stars ?" *

And have I fail'd ? and did I flatter thee ? And art all adamant ? and dost confute All urged, with one irrefragable smile ? LORENZO ! mirth how miserable here ! Swear by the stars, by HIM who made them, swear Thy heart, henceforth, shall be as pure as they : Then thou, like them, shalt shine; like them shalt From low to lofty; from obscure to bright; frise By due gradation, nature's sacred law, The stars, from whence ?- Ask Chaos-he can tell. These bright temptations to idolatry. From darkness and confusion took their birth : Sons of deformity ! from fluid dregs Tartarean, first they rose to masses rude; And then to spheres opaque ; then dimly shone : Then brighten'd: then blazed out in perfect day. Nature delights in progress : in advance From worse to better; but, when minds ascend, Progress in part depends upon themselves. Heaven aids exertion : greater makes the great;

* See page 211

The voluntary little lessens more. Oh be a man! and thou shalt be a god! And half self-made! ambition how divine!

O thou, ambitious of disgrace alone! Still undevout? unkindled? though high taught, School'd by the skies, and pupil of the stars; Rank coward to the fashionable world ! Art thou ashamed to bend thy knee to Heaven? Curs'd finne of pride, exhaled from deepest hell! Pride in religion is man's highest praise. Bent on destruction ! and in love with death ! Not all these luminaries, quench'd at once, Were half so sad as one benighted mind. Which gropes for happiness, and meets despair. How, like a widow in her weeds, the Night, Amid her glimmering tapers, silent sits ! How sorrowful, how desolate, she weeps Perpetual dews, and sadden nature's scene ! A scene more sad sin makes the darken'd soul, All comfort kills, nor leaves one spark alive.

Though blind of heart, still open is thine eve: Why such magnificence in all thou seest ? Of matter's grandeur, know, one end is this, To tell the rational, who gazes on it-"Though that immensely great, still greater he, Whose breast capacious can embrace and lodge Unburden'd nature's universal scheme : Can grasp creation with a single thought; Creation grasp; and not exclude its SIRE "-To tell him further-" It behoves him much To guard th' important yet depending, fate Of being, brighter than a thousand suns; One single ray of thought outshines them all." And if man hears obedient, soon he'll soar Superior heights, and on his purple wing, His purple wing bedropp'd with eves of gold. Rising where thought is now denied to rise, Look down triumphant on these dazzling spheres.

Why then persist ? no mortal ever lived, But, dying, he pronounced (when words are true)

NIGHT IX.

The whole that charms thee, absolutely vain; Vain, and far worse !- Think thou, with dying men; Oh, condescend to think as angels think ! Oh, tolerate a chance for happiness ! Our nature such, ill choice insures ill fate ; And hell had been, though there had been no God. Dost thou not know, my new astronomer ! Earth, turning from the sun, brings night to man? Man turning from his Gon, brings endless night; Where thou canst read no morals, find no friend. Amend no manners, and expect no peace. How deep the darkness! and the groan how loud! And far, how far from lambent are the flames ! Such is LORENZO'S purchase ! such his praise ! The proud, the politic LORENZO's praise ! Though in his ear, and level'd at his heart, I've half read o'er the volume of the skies.

For think not thou hast heard all this from me; My song but echoes what great nature speaks. What has she spoken ? Thus the goddess spoke, Thus speaks forever :-- " Place at nature's head A sovereign, which o'er all things rolls his eye, Extends his wing, promulgates his commands, But, above all, diffuses endless good : To whom, for sure redress, the wrong'd may fly; The vile for mercy; and the pain'd for peace; By whom the various tenants of these spheres, Diversified in fortunes, place and powers, Raised in enjoyment, as in worth they rise. Arrive at length (if worthy such approach) At that bless'd fountain head, from which they Where conflict past redoubles present joy; [stream; And present joy looks forward on increase : And that, on more; no period ! every step A double boon ! a promise and a bliss." How easy sits this scheme on human hearts ! It suits their make ; it soothes their vast desires ; Passion is pleased, and reason asks no more ; 'Tis rational ! 'tis great !- But what is thine ? It darkens ! shocks ! excruciates ! and confounds !

Leaves us quite naked, both of help, and hope, Sinking from bad to worse; few years the sport Of fortune; then the morsel of despair.

Say, then, LORENZO, (for thou know'st it well,) What's vice?-Mere want of compass in our thought. Religion, what ?- The proof of common sense. How art thou hooted, where the last prevails! Is it my fault, if these truths call thee fool? And thou shalt never be miscall'd by me. Can neither shame nor terror stand thy friend ? But art thou still an insect in the mire ? How, like thy guardian angel, have I flown; Snatch'd thee from earth; escorted thee through all The ethereal armies : walk'd thee, like a god, Through splendors of first magnitude, arranged On either hand : clouds thrown beneath thy feet : Close cruised on the bright paradise of Gon; And almost introduced thee to the Throne! And art thou still carousing for delight, Rank poison ; first fermenting to mere froth, And then subsiding into final gall ! To beings of sublime, immortal make, How shocking is all joy whose end is sure ! Such joy, more shocking still the more it charms ! And dost thou choose what ends, ere well begun ; And infamous as short ? And dost thou choose (Thou to whose palate glory is so sweet) To wade into perdition, through contempt, Not of poor bigots only, but thy own ? For I have peep'd into thy cover'd heart. And seen it blush beneath a boastful brow : For, by strong guilt's most violent assault, Conscience is but disabled, not destroy'd,

O thou most awful being, and most vain ! Thy will how frait how glorious is thy power! Though dread eternity has sown her seeds Of bliss and woe, in thy despotic breast; Though heaven and heli depend upon thy choice; A butterfly comes 'cross, and both are fled, Is this the picture of a rational ?

This horrid image, shall it be most just? LORENZO! no: it cannot-shall not be. If there is force in reason: or, in sounds, Chanted beneath the glimpses of the moon. A magic, at this planetary hour, When slumber locks the general lip, and dreams Through senseless mazes hunt souls uninspired. Attend-the sacred mysteries begin-My solemn night-born adjuration hear : Hear, and I'll raise thy spirit from the dust : While the stars gaze on this enchantment new: Enchantment, not infernal, but divine ! " By Silence, death's peculiar attribute ; By Darkness, death's inevitable doom ! By Darkness and by Silence, sisters dread ! That draw the curtain round night's ebon throne, And raise ideas solemn as the scene: By Night, and all of awful night presents To thought or sense, (of awful much, to both, The goddess brings !) By these her trembling fires, Like VESTA's ever burning; and, like hers, Sacred to thoughts immaculate, and pure ! By these bright orators, that prove and praise, And press thee to revere the DEITY : Perhaps, too, aid thee, when revered awhile, To reach his throne ; as stages of the soul, Through which, at different periods, she shall pass. Refining gradual, for her final height, And purging off some dross at every sphere ! By this dark pall thrown o'er the silent world ! By the world's kings, and kingdoms, most renown'd, From short ambition's zenith sent for ever: Sad presage to vain boasters, now in bloom ! By the long list of swift mortality, From ADAM downward to this evening knell. Which midnight waves in fancy's startled eye, And shocks her with a hundred centuries, [thought! Round death's black banner throng'd, in human By thousands, now, resigning their last breath,

And calling thee-wert thou so wise to hear!

By tombs o'er tombs arising; human earth Ejected, to make room for-human earth : The monarch's terror and the sexton's trade ! By pompous obsequies, that shun the day, The torch funereal, and the nodding plume, Which makes poor man's humiliation proud ; Boast of our ruin ! Triumph of our dust ! By the damp vault that weeps o'er royal bones; And the pale damp, that shows the ghastly dead. More ghastly through the thick incumbent gloom ! By visits (if there are) from darker scenes, The gliding spectre ! and the groaning grave ! By groans, and graves, and miseries that groan For the grave's shelter ! By desponding men, Senscless to pains of death, from pangs of guilt! By guilt's last audit ! By yon moon in blood, The rocking firmament, the falling stars, And thunder's last discharge, great nature's knell! By second chaos ; and eternal light "-Be WISE-nor let PHILANDER blame my charm; But own not ill discharged my double debt, Love to the living, duty to the dead.

For know, I'm but executor ; he left This moral legacy; I make it o'er By his command: PHILANDER hear in me, And Heaven in both -- If deaf to these, oh ! hear FLORELLO's tender voice ; his weal depends On thy resolve ; it trembles at thy choice : For his sake-love thyself. Example strikes All human hearts ! a bad example more ; More still a father's; that ensures his ruin. As parent of his being, wouldst thou prove Th' unnatural parent of his miseries, And make him curse the being which thou gavest? Is this the blessing of so fond a father ? If careless of LORENZO, spare, oh ! spare FLORELLO'S father, and PHILANDER'S friend ! FLORELLO's father ruin'd, ruins him; And from PHILANDER's friend the world expects A conduct, no dishonor to the dead.

Let passion do what nobler motive should : Let love and emulation rise in aid To reason ; and persuade thee to be-bless'd. This seems not a request to be denied; Yet (such th' infatuation of mankind !) 'Tis the most hopeless, man can make to man Shall I, then, rise in argument and warmth : And urge PHILANDER's posthumous advice. From topics yet unbroach'd ?-----But oh ! I faint ! my spirts fail !-- Nor strange ! So long on wing, and in no middle clime ! To which my great Creator's glory call'd: And calls-but, now, in vain. Sleep's dewy wand Has stroked my drooping lids, and promises My long arrear of rest; the downy god (Wont to return with our returning peace) Will pay, ere long, and bless me with repose. Haste, haste, sweet stranger ! from the peasant's cot. The shipboy's hammock, or the soldier's straw, Whence sorrow never chased thee : with thee bring Not hideous visions, as of late ! but draughts Delicious of well tasted, cordial rest: Man's rich restorative ; his balmy bath, That supples, lubricates, and keeps in play, The various movements of his nice machine, Which asks such frequent periods of repair. When tired with vain rotations of the day, Sleep winds us up for the succeeding dawn : Fresh we spin on, till sickness clogs our wheels, Or death quite breaks the spring, and motion ends. When will it end with me ? ----- " THOU ONLY KNOWS'L,

Thou, whose broad eye the future and the past Joins to the present; making one of three To mortal thought! Thou know'st, and Thou alone, All-knowing!--all-unknown!--and yet well known ! Near, though remote! and, though unfathom'd felt! And, though invisible, for ever seen; And seen in all! the great and the minute : Each globe above, with its gigantic race, Each flower, each leaf, with its small people swarm'd (Those puny vouchers of OMNIPOTENCE !) [clare To the first thought that asks, 'From whence !' de-Their common Source. Thou fountain, running o'er In rivers of communicated joy ! Who gavest us speech for far, far humbler themes ! Say, by what name shall I presume to call Him I see burning in these countless suns, As Moses in the bush ? Illustrious Mind ! The whole creation less, far less To thee Than that to the creation's ample round. How shall I name Thee ?- How my laboring soul Heaves underneath the thought, too big for birth ! "Great system of perfections ! Mighty Cause Of causes mighty ! Cause uncaused ! Sole Root Of nature, that luxuriant growth of Gop; First father of effects ! that progeny Of endless series ; where the golden chain's Last link admits a period, who can tell ? Father of all that is or heard, or hears ! Father of all that is or seen, or sees ! Father of all that is, or shall arise ! Father of this immeasurable mass Of matter multiform : or dense, or rare : Opaque, or lucid ; rapid, or at rest; Minute, or passing bound ! in each extreme, Of like amaze and mystery to man. Father of these bright millions of the night! Of which the least full Godhead had proclaim'd, And thrown the gazer on his knee-Or say Is appellation higher still Thy choice ? Father of matter's temporary lords ! Father of Spirits ! nobler offspring ! sparks Of high paternal glory; rich endow'd With various measures, and with various modes Of instinct, reason, intuition ; beams More pale, or bright from day divine, to break The dark of matter organized ; (the ware Of all created spirit ;) beams, that rise Each over other in superior light,

Till the last ripens into lustre strong, Of next approach to GODHEAD. Father fond (Far fonder than e'er bore that name on earth) Of intellectual beings ! beings bless'd With powers to please Thee; not of passive ply To laws they know not; beings lodged in seats Of well adapted joys, in different domes Of this imperial palace for thy sons; Of this proud, populous, well policied Though boundless habitation, plann'd by Thee: Whose several clans their several climates suit; And transposition, doubtless, would destroy. Or, oh ! indulge, immortal KING ! indulge A title, less august, indeed, but more Endearing ! ah ! how sweet in human ears ! Sweet in our ears, and triumph in our hearts ! Father of immortality to man ! A theme that lately* set my soul on fire .--And THOU the next! yet equal! Thou, by whom That blessing was convey'd : far more ! was bought; Ineffable the price ! by whom all worlds Were made; and one redeem'd! illustrious Light From Light illustrious ! THOU, whose regal power, Finite in time, but infinite in space, On more than adamantine basis fix'd, O'er more, far more, than diadems and thrones, Inviolably reigns! the dread of gods! And, oh ! the friend of man ! beneath whose foot, And by the mandate of whose awful nod, All regions, revolutions, fortunes, fates, Of high, of low, of mind, and matter, roll Through the short channels of expiring time, Or shoreless ocean of eternity. Calm or tempestuous, (as thy Spirit breathes,) In absolute subjection !- And, O Thou The glorious Third ! distinct. not separate ! Beaming from hoth ! with both incorporate ! And (strange to tell !) incorporate with dust !

* Nights the Sixth and Seventh.

By condescension, as thy glory, great, Enshrined in man! of human hearts, if pure, Divine inhabitant ! the tie divine Of heaven with distant earth ! by whom, I trust, (If not inspired,) uncensured this address To Thee, to Them-To whom ?-Mysterious power ; Reveal'd-yet, unreveal'd ! darkness in light ! Number in unity ! our joy ! our dread ! The triple bolt that lays all wrong in ruin ! That animates all right, the triple sun ! Sun of the soul ! her never setting sun ! Triune, unutterable, unconceived, Absconding, yet demonstrable, Great Gop ! Greater than greatest! better than the best! Kinder than kindest! with soft pity's eye, Or (stronger still to speak it) with thine own, From thy bright home, from that high firmanent Where Thou, from all eternity, hast dwelt; Beyond archangels' unassisted ken ; From far above what mortals highest call; From elevation's pinnacle ; look down, Through-what ? confounding interval ! through all, And more than laboring fancy can conceive ; Through radiant ranks of essences unknown : Through hierarchies from hierarchies detach'd Round various banners of Omnipotence, With endless change of rapturous duties fired: Through wondrous beings' interposing swarms, All clustering at the call, to dwell in Thee; Through this wide waste of worlds ! this vista vast, All sanded o'er with suns; suns turn'd to night Before thy feeblest beam--Look down--down--down, On a poor breathing particle in dust, Or, lower,-an immortal in his crimes, His crimes forgive ! forgive his virtues too ! Those smaller faults, half converts to the right, Nor let me close these eyes, which never more May see the sun, (though night's descending scale Now weighs up morn.) unpitied and unbless'd! In Thy displeasure dwells eternal pain;

NIGHT IX.

Pain, our aversion ; pain, which strikes me now ; And, since all pain is terrible to man, Though transient, terrible ; at Thy good hour, Gently, ah, gently, lay me in my bed, My clay-cold bed ! by nature, now, so near ; By nature, near ; still nearer by disease ! Till then, be this, an emblem of my grave: Let it outpreach the preacher; every night Let it outcry the boy at PHILIP's ear; That tongue of death ! that herald of the tomb ; And when (the shelter of thy wing implored) My senses, sooth'd, shall sink in soft repose ; . Oh sink this truth still deeper in my soul, Suggested by my pillow, sign'd by fate, First, in fate's volume, at the page of man-Man's sickly soul, though turn'd and toss'd for ever, From side to side, can rest on nought but THEE; Here, in full trust : hereafter, in full jou. On THEE, the promised, sure, eternal down Of spirits; toil'd in travel through this vale. Nor of that pillow shall my soul despond ; For-Love almighty ! Love almighty ! (sing, Exult, creation !) Love almighty reigns ! That death of death ! that cordial of despair ! And loud eternity's triumphant song ! "Of whom, no more ;- For, O thou, PATRON GOD!

Thou Gon and mortal; thence more Gon to man! Man's theme eternal! man's eternal theme! Thou canst not 'scape uninjured from our praise. Uninjured from our praise can He escape Who, disembosom'd from the FATHER, bows The heaven of heavens, to kiss the distant earth! Breathes out in agonies a sinless soul! Against the cross, death's iron sceptre breaks! From famish'd ruin plucks her human prey; Their gratitude, for such a boundless debt, Deputes their suffering brothers to receive ! And, if deep human guilt in payment fails; As deeper guilt, prohibits our despair !

Enjoins it as our duty to rejoice ! And (to close all) omnipotently kind, Takes his delights among the sons of men." *

What words are these - And did they come from And were they spoke to man, to guilty man ? [heaven? What are all mysteries to love like this ? The song of angels, all the melodies Of choral gods, are wafted in the sound; Heal and exhilirate the broken heart: Though plunged, before, in horrors dark as night: Rich prelibation of consummate joy ! Nor wait we dissolution to be bless'd.

This final effort of the moral muse, How justly titled ! † Nor for me alone : For all that read ; what spirit of support, What heights of consolation crown my song !

Then, farewell Night! Of darkness now, no more Joy breaks, shines, triumphs; 'tis eternal day. Shall that which rises out of nought complain Of a few evils, paid with endless joys ? My soul! henceforth, in sweetest union join The two supports of human happiness, Which some, erroneous, think can never meet: True taste of life, and constant thought of death ! The thought of death, sole victor of its dread. Hope, be thy joy; and probity, thy skill; Thy patron, HE, whose diadem has droup'd Yon gems of heaven; eternity, thy prize; And leave the racers of the world their own. Their feather, and their froth, for endless toils : They part with all for that which is not bread ; They mortify, they starve, on wealth, fame, power; And laugh to scorn the fools that aim at more. How must a spirit, late escaped from earth, Suppose PHILANDER'S, LUCIA'S OF NARCISSA'S, The truth of things new blazing in its eye, Look back, astonish'd, on the ways of men, Whose lives' whole drift is to forget their graves !

* Prov. chap. viii.

† The Consolation

And when our present privilege has pass'd, To scourge us with due sense of its abuse, The same astonishment will seize us all. What then must pain us would preserve us now. Loreszo ! 'tis not yet too late : Loreszo ! Seize wisdom, ere 'tis torment to be wise ; That is, seize wisdom, ere she seizes thee. For what, my small philosopher ! is hell ? 'Tis nothing, but full knowledge of the truth, When truth, resisted long, is sworn our foe, And calls eternity to do her right.

Thus, darkness aiding intellectual light, And sacred silence whispering truths divine, And truths divine converting pain to peace, My song the midnight raven has outwing'd. And shot, ambitious of unbounded scenes, Beyond the flaming limits of the world, Her gloomy flight. But what avails the flight Of fancy, when our hearts remain below ? Virtue abounds in flatterers and foes : "Tis pride, to praise her; penance, to perform. To more than words, to more than worth of tongue. LORENZO ! rise at this auspicious hour ; An hour, when Heaven's most intimate with man; When, like a falling star, the ray divine Glides swift into the bosom of the just; And just are all, determined to reclaim ; Which sets that title high, within thy reach. Awake, then; thy PHILANDER calls : awake ! Thou, who shalt wake when the creation sleeps : When, like a taper, all these suns expire ; When Time, like him of Gaza in his wrath. Plucking the pillars that support the world. In Nature's ample ruins lies entomb'd ; And Midnight, universal Midnight reigns !
